CHICAGO'S FREE SHELTERS LURE THE HOBO HORDE

From Far and Wide They're Coming.

BY CHESLEY MANLY.

"You no can find no job, so why bot?" inquired Ferdinand Hoffstetter as he washed his grimy handkerchief in one of the Grant park fountains. "But you don't need a job. They feed you here, such as it is, and you can get a bed. They've got to feed us."

The Cook county joint emergency relief committee has announced that Chicago would not be a Mecca for the unemployed of other parts of the country. With this in mind, a reporter attired in shoddy clothes went out and fraternized with the sun baskers in Grant park and the unemployed on West Madison street.

Chicago, it was found, is known from coast to coast as a good town. The word is passed along by mouth and by cabalistic signs on water towers. Prospects for the bread lines and free beds pour in on almost every freight train.

He Knows Where to Go.

Mr. Hoffstetter is a homeless drifter who followed the trade of shoemaking when he left Vienna fifteen years ago. This will be his second winter in Chicago.

"Work? Yah, I worked in the harvest this summer, in North Dakota, but no make any money," said he. "I come back here so I can eat. They feed you at the old county jail, at Dearborn and Austin. If you got a dime you get meals, soup, bread, coffee, and a spring bed, for a week. If you no got dime, they feed you anyway, but you sleep on the floor.

"If you get tired of the food there go to 500 North Union. That's Wrigley's place. Wrigley feeds better. There's a place at 921 North Wells street, too, and 13d and Michigan. Those are good places, run by the Baptists. Rockefeller is putting up the money."

An Arrival from Texas.

Mr. Hoffstetter's neighbor was shaving himself at the fountain, using a sardine pocket mirror and a safety razor. This man, named Higgins, had just arrived, he said, from Fort Worth, Tex.

"Them farmers down there think a man ought to go out and pick cotton for 40 cents a hundred pounds," he said, "and they make you pay $6 cents a day for board. Why, you'd owe 'em money when you got ready to quit."

There were about 600 men in Grant park, some making their toilets, putting out their laundry to dry, or patching their clothes. Most of them, however, were stretched out in the autumn sun waiting for the bread lines to form and apparently oblivious to the hazards of the coming winter. On a pillar of the Monroe street viaduct was inscribed this demand:

"A six hour day for all workers!"

Along West Madison Street.

In Madison street, from Clinton street west, thousands of idlers mill in a perpetual promenade. The reporter addressed three loiterers at a lamp post:

"You don't suppose a man could get a job around here, do you?"

"A job?" asked one of the men derisively. "We're looking for a drink and haven't got the money. Just got here? Well, 'sa good town, best in the country. Don't worry about no job though; you can always eat and sleep. There's a place right down there, 1200 west, where you can feed."

He said his name was Bill Sweeney and he came from Oklahoma, where the last work he did was in the oil fields, two years ago.

No Questions Asked.

Sweeney was asked whether it made any difference if you were from out of town when you went to the bread lines.

"No, they feed everybody; never ask any questions," he said. "I'll bet 80 per cent of us are from out of town. Every freight train brings in more. The railroad dicks don't bother any more, and Chicago is known all over for taking care of the unemployed.

"Here come our friends. They've been out on a job and we're going to get something to drink. They made $2.25 distributing handbills."

"That sounds like a good job. What do they work, eight hours?"

"Eight hours? About two hours. It takes that long to get out there and come back. They are supposed to put the circulars in the houses in the residential districts, but when they get out there they burn 'em up. They're going in there now to get their money."

Bill stepped over to the curb, where

THE MYSTERY OF WHETHER COOLIDGE WILL RUN FOR PRESIDENT NEXT YEAR HAS BEEN SOLVED

FIRE DESTROYS STABLE; PERILS NEGROES' HOMES

Fire demolished the two story brick stable of W. J. Byrnes & Co. at 3145-51 South La Salle street early this morning, spread to a wooden grain elevator owned by the company in the rear of the stable and to two adjoining one story frame house. Fireman Sidney Dawson, colored, 33 years old, of hook and ladder company No. 11 was severely burned and Pipeman Grant Cheney, colored, of engine company No. 19 was slightly injured when a wooden wall in the stable collapsed. Dawson was dragged from the blazing wreckage by Lieut. E. M. James, colored.

A 2-11 alarm was sounded when the flames were discovered. As three adjoining frame houses on either side were threatened a 4-11 alarm brought additional companies. Colored families in the houses sought safety.

Frank Wilson, watchman in the stable, was awakened by the smoke and escaped to turn in the alarm. Six horses are believed to have perished in the stable. Fire Marshal Corrigan estimated the loss at $50,000.

H. P. DUNHAM ARRESTED AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Augustus Phelps Dunham, 210 East Pearson street, son of Robert J. Dunham, president of the Universal Oil Products company, was arrested and charged with reckless driving last night after his car collided with an automobile driven by A. L. Lassen, 4130 North Campbell avenue, at Wellington street and Sheffield avenue. Witnesses said Dunham failed to stop for a through street sign.

He was taken to the Sheffield avenue station where his bond was set at $200 cash or $1,000 real estate. Although several of his friends telephoned to secure his release none appeared to give bond. Dunham said he had had several drinks. A bottle of uncolored spirits was found in the car. He said his father is in Europe.

Motor Fails; Flyer Lands Three Passengers Safely

Dewitt C. Cregier, 2040 Hawthorne lane, Evanston, grandson and namesake of a former mayor of Chicago, took the Rev. John Murphy and the Rev. J. L. McKenna, priests attached to the faculty of the Fenwick High school in Oak Park, and Russell McGee, another instructor at the school, on an airplane flight yesterday. The motor of the plane stopped at an altitude of several thousand feet and Cregier landed without damage to the plane on the course of the Edgewater Golf club at Western avenue and Pratt boulevard.

Eugenie Hats Restore Prosperity to Danbury

Danbury, Conn., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—When the women turned to Eugenie hats, they restored prosperity to Danbury. Factories are booming in this town which makes 85 per cent of the nation's felt hats.

Raid Infant Milk Depot as a Racket

Offices of the Chicago Infant Free Milk depot, in room 1310 at 20 East Jackson street, an alleged racket organization suspected of preying on the public in the name of charity, were raided last night by Assistant United States Attorney Francis Kennedy, two deputy United States marshals, and a squad from the detective bureau under Sergt. Joseph Grady. Fourteen men and eight young women were seized.

The raid was made on warrants for Jacob L. Karchmer and H. J. Metcalfe, both of 3445 Elaine street, alleged promoters of the organization, both of whom were taken into custody. The warrants charged use of the government mails to defraud.

Two Held for U. S.

Karchmer and Metcalfe were held for the federal government at the detective bureau and the other twelve men were detained and will be turned over for state prosecution if investigation shows they were involved in the alleged swindle. All of the young women, eight of whom were employed at the place and three of whom were merely visitors, were released after questioning.

The twelve men held, besides Karchmer, are Jack Barrett, 1406 Chicago avenue, Evanston; Harry Levinson, 6209 Greenwood avenue; Maurice Shapiro, 737 East 81st street; Francis Howe, 11579 Wentworth avenue; Thomas Walsh, 6314 Dorchester avenue; Joseph Chamberlain, 508 North Clark street; James Imes, 1416 West Monroe street; Henry Kirst, 3319 North Drake avenue; Louis Stone, 933 Edgecomb place; Stanford Evans, 1430 Diversey parkway; William Stelle, 920 Wilson avenue, and James King, 605 North Dearborn street.

Five Women Released.

The five young women who were employed in the place, and who were released after questioning, were Inez Grahm, 222 East Huron street; Marian Beckman, 1415 Estes avenue; Sylvia Robbins, 4935 North Troy street; Lucile Wolfe, 2700 Grenshaw street, and Audrey Buehler, 2109 49th avenue, Cicero.

The Chicago Infant Free Milk depot also operated under the name of the Universal Advertisers, it was learned when the raiders seized a quantity of literature in the place. Other circulars seized bore the names of various associations of war veterans.

The offices were fitted up with ten telephones, and, according to the assistant district attorneys, money was solicited from the public for various alleged charitable enterprises, both through the use of the telephones and the mails.

Twenty Per Cent to Charity.

Assistant District Attorney Kennedy said he had reports that of all the money collected by the organization in the name of charity only 20 per cent actually was given to charity. He said Karchmer and Metcalfe were suspected of pocketing the other 80 per cent. The organization is alleged to have collected about $200 a week on the pretense of spending the entire amount for milk for needy children.

Karchmer, who is said to be a racketeer from St. Louis, has been accused of conducting several shady enterprises here. On Oct. 25, 1930, he and his wife and two other men were arrested in connection with a "forget-me-not" racket, in which funds were said to have been solicited for war veterans. Five days later the four were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to commit fraud. On Dec. 27, 1929, Karchmer and another man were arrested in connection with a plan to sell tickets to a dance at the Aragon ballroom. Karchmer was also arrested on Feb. 9, 1930, on a racketeering charge.

SMOKE SCREEN DRIPS ACID SPRAY; GOTHAM CROWD SEEKS COVER

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—A fine acid spray, descending from a smoke screen which an airplane threw around the naval airship Los Angeles above Manhattan this afternoon, caused widespread complaints of smarting faces and ruined clothing among watchers in the streets below.

The stunt was arranged by a sound news film company which took pictures of it. The substance used for the smoke screen was said to be titanium tetrachloride.

While hundreds of thousands of persons were craning their necks from sidewalks, bus tops or windows, the fleecy curtain of smoke which trailed down from the airplane descended into the street. Almost instantly men and women began to feel smarting hands and faces and noted tiny burned spots in clothing. The tops of buses around 5th avenue and 41st street were soon empty.

Bind Girl with Apron Strings and Rob Home

Two youthful robbers entered the home of Rocco Blasi, 6529 Minerva avenue, yesterday, tied the hands and feet of Blasi's sister, Justine, 19 years old, with apron strings, and robbed the home of $115. The robbers posed as friends of Blasi when the girl answered the door bell. As she was talking to them they forced their way past her into the home, and then threatened her with a revolver.

10 Bombs Shake Havana as Student Martyr Is Honored

HAVANA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Ten bombs exploded in Havana today and approximately 146 persons, 60 of them girls, were arrested during the celebration of the first anniversary of the fatal wounding of Rafael Trejo, "student martyr." A five-year-old boy picked up what he thought was a ball. It exploded in his hands, seriously injuring him. A woman was injured by another bomb.

EXPECT CERMAK TO PUT ALLMAN UP TO COUNCIL

Capt. James P. Allman, a member of the police department for 31 years, is to be appointed commissioner of police by Mayor Cermak at a special meeting of the city council to be held this morning, according to reports in the city hall yesterday. At the same time it was disclosed that the appointment is to be followed immediately by an "engineering reconstruction" of the department.

Capt. Allman, it was said, has been notified confidentially that he has been selected for the commissionership by Mayor Cermak's advisory commission and that the mayor has accepted and approved the recommendation. Allman is said to have expressed his willingness to accept the appointment.

Mayor Refuses to Tell Plans.

The mayor himself declined to disclose his plans last night. After a conference with his advisers he said: "I don't know just who will be made commissioner of police. I will hold another conference in the morning and if I make any selection I will announce his name just before I go to the council meeting."

There were no further developments in reference to the selection of a new chief of detectives. It was still believed the signs pointed to the appointment of Capt. William Shoemaker to his old post. But it was reported this subject will be taken up by Mayor Cermak with his new commissioner as soon as the latter takes office.

Alcock Says He'll Stay.

Acting Commissioner Alcock, who still holds his civil service rating as first deputy commissioner, said in reply to questions from reporters that if a commissioner is named he will return to his regular office and remain in the department.

But it was pointed out that the proposed reconstruction—outlined originally by the citizens' police committee in a report written by Bruce Smith—would alter materially the status of the first deputy in the affairs of the department, relieving that office of many powers and important functions. Such a change, it was believed, might change Alcock's attitude.

Other Recommendations Told.

Some of the specific recommendations of the Bruce Smith report to which Mayor Cermak and his advisory commission, headed by Sewell L. Avery, are said to have given serious consideration are the following:

"A chief inspector [captain detailed] is placed in charge of the entire uniformed force. Under the general direction of the commissioner the chief inspector will be responsible for the distribution of the uniformed force, for its mobilization as emergency requires and for the success of police district operations.

"Under his immediate control are the six divisional inspectors who become his chief agents in enforcing policies in the districts.

"Under the supervision of the chief of detectives three divisions are proposed—investigation, identification and criminal correspondence."

Responsibility Centralized.

The report goes ahead with a further analysis of its proposals for other phases of police work, but the extracts quoted convey the basic purpose of the recommendations, that of cutting down from 45 to 8 the number of officers directly responsible to the commissioner.

It is understood that Mayor Cermak and his advisers have not determined exactly how far they will go with this plan, but it is believed they have already approved tentatively concrete proposals of a less sweeping nature submitted by Mr. Smith.

Among these definite recommendations are the following:

"That the office of the commissioner be transferred from the city hall to the South State street headquarters.

"That a personnel bureau be provided to include trial boards, training, personnel inspection, and medical supervision.

Would Lower Age Limits.

"That age limits for police recruits be lowered to the 21-30 year range.

"That the system of efficiency ratings be revised.

"That extensive changes be made in the system of training, including a three months' course for recruits.

"That the following districts be consolidated: Pekin and Stanton avenue; Hudson avenue, East Chicago avenue and Sheffield avenue; Kensington and Gresham.

Short Selling Quiz by U. S. Is Forecast

Paris Hits Shorts

PARIS, France, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—The brokers' syndicate which controls the operations of stocks on the Paris bourse today issued an order designed to prohibit short selling. The order specifies that future operations will require the depositing of the stocks offered, or a 40 per cent coverage, plus a quarter of the stocks offered, or proof of possession.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Adoption of resolutions this winter authorizing congressional investigation of short selling in the stock market was predicted today by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate.

SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON. [Fotograms.]

The Republican leader said a number of senators had informed him that they intended to seek authority to have the senate look into the methods and results of what is ordinarily known as "short selling."

"The whole commercial and industrial world seems to be under the spell of the stock market," said Senator Watson.

Borr Raids Held Responsible.

According to Senator Watson, several senators desire adoption of resolutions calling for investigations of the stock market in its entirety. Raids by bears, which have sent leading market issues steadily downward in recent weeks, are responsible for much of the senatorial interest, it was said.

"Many senators," continued Senator Watson, "are of the belief that brokerage houses should not be permitted to lend the securities of their customers unless either expressly ordered to do so by them or their consent is obtained for that purpose. They are of the opinion that an order of that kind by the stock exchange itself would be salutary at a time like this, or failing in that, that some legislation might be enacted that would compel the adoption of such a course.

"They further believe that all short transactions should be thrown open to the public, that the names of the individuals and the brokerage houses should be made public; that the stocks dealt in should be made known, and that all the details of each transaction should be subject to public scrutiny."

Denounced by Gerard.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—If all the people who have bought stock on margin went to their brokers tomorrow and forbade them to lend their stock to short sellers the market would go up 10 points, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and crusader against bear operations in the stock market, told the Advertising club at a luncheon today.

VOTE TO INDICT GEO. WOODRUFF IN BANK CASE

True bills were reported to have been voted yesterday by the Lake county grand jury charging conspiracy against State Auditor Oscar Nelson, George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of directors of the National Bank of the Republic; William H. Miller, former vice president of the National Bank of the Republic; Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, and John Murray Connors, former vice president of the Waukegan State bank.

A. V. SMITH.

The state auditor has already been indicted by this jury on charges of misfeasance and neglect of duty in connection with the failure of this bank.

The true bills reported voted yesterday, which are expected to be returned as indictments tomorrow afternoon, are said to contain counts as follows: Conspiracy to keep the Waukegan bank open when it was insolvent; conspiracy to obtain deposits by false pretenses, and conspiracy to deceive the public by false publications.

Former President Indicted.

The bank was closed last June 17. Geyer is already under indictment for accepting deposits after the bank became insolvent and Connors has been indicted twice on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses. Another indictment accused Milton Smith, former vice president of the Waukegan bank, of larceny.

Woodruff is well known throughout Illinois. He was formerly president of a bank at Joliet and then in 1922 he came to Chicago as vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, later becoming its president and then chairman of the board. He was president of the Illinois Bankers' association and afterwards was president of the Bankers' club of Chicago. He has taken a leading part in Republican national politics, having been an assistant treasurer of the national committee.

When the National Bank of the Republic was merged recently with another institution, Woodruff was not taken into the new organization, but Miller, the former vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, was taken into the consolidated institution. The Waukegan investigation centered on the relations of the National Bank of the Republic with the Waukegan State bank.

The Prosecutor's Charges.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county has stated that Woodruff was behind the alleged conspiracy, which, he charged, was carried out by Miller and Geyer. According to his audit, Smith said, the Waukegan State bank was insolvent on Oct. 24, 1930, but was not closed by Auditor Nelson until June 17, 1931, when it had deposit liabilities of $1,224,000 and cash on hand of $38,000.

According to Prosecutor Smith, Geyer sent messengers to Chicago twice on June 17 with sums aggregating $67,000 which were turned over to Miller in the National Bank of the Republic after the close of banking hours. The prosecutor charged that both knew then that the Waukegan bank was not to open next day.

Testimony Before Jury.

Woodruff was reported to have testified before the grand jury that the Waukegan bank was not affiliated with the National Bank of the Republic. Other testimony, however, was to the effect that W. R. Schuster, assistant vice president of the Chicago bank, spent six months in the Waukegan bank interviewing business leaders and trying to get their accounts for the Waukegan bank.

During the investigation a Waukegan newspaper story to the effect that the Waukegan bank was affiliated with the Chicago bank was introduced. It was published a year ago, and, according to Smith, it was not denied, either by the Chicago bank or the Waukegan bank.

According to Prosecutor Smith, Woodruff admitted that during the six months that Schuster was in the Waukegan bank the Chicago bank was paying his salary of $600 a month. Woodruff claimed Schuster was there only as an observer.

Since the closing of the Waukegan bank, Connors has been appointed by State Auditor Nelson as receiver of the closed Citizens' State bank of Keithsburg, Ill., and Geyer has been appointed receiver of the Second Northwestern bank.

Arrangements were made for the accused men to appear before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady yesterday and give bond. It was intended to arraign all defendants at that time. However, only Connors and Milton Smith went before the court. After they had given bond their attorneys moved to quash the indictments. It was indicated that Auditor Nelson, Woodruff and Miller would make the same motions on Saturday and that the entering of their pleas, therefore, would be delayed.

Woodruff Issues Statement.

Upon hearing of the reported action of the grand jury Mr. Woodruff issued the following statement:

"I am naturally amazed at the report that I, together with State Auditor Nelson and others, am to be indicted for alleged participation in a conspiracy to keep a bank open. It so happens that I have never been inside the bank in question, have never owned a share of its stock, have never been consulted regarding the making of any of its loans or investments and naturally never derived any direct or indirect profit from it.

"Until an indictment has been returned and until I have had an opportunity of reading it I am unable to conjecture as to what grounds could be advanced for any such action."

Other Witnesses Heard.

The grand jury heard other witnesses yesterday in connection with the Waukegan bank failure. Attorney Maurice L. Freedman of Chicago, whose partner, Attorney Lewis Schaffer, was arrested on Monday on a charge of perjury, refused to sign an immunity waiver but was questioned before the jury nevertheless.

Freedman and Schaffer filed a suit asking that the double liability provision of the banking laws be invoked against the Waukegan bank stockholders. The suit was filed a few minutes after a notice was posted that the bank had been closed. Prosecutor Smith said he was determined to learn where they obtained their advance knowledge of the bank's closing.

A true bill previously voted against Carl R. Stenger, former chairman of the board of directors of the Waukegan bank, has been recalled by the grand jury and he will not be indicted, it was reported yesterday. Stenger, it was said, had given the jury material information in its inquiry.

Nelson Names Receiver.

Auditor Nelson yesterday announced the appointment of Victor H. Munnecke as receiver for the closed Mount Greenwood Trust and Savings bank. Henry T. Chace was appointed attorney for the receiver.

A meeting of the depositors' committee of the closed Northwestern Trust and Savings bank was called for today at 12:30 o'clock at 1166 Milwaukee avenue. Plans to reopen the bank will be discussed.

Action by State's Attorney Swanson in case of any criminal acts which may be uncovered in connection with the closed banks of Cook county is to be asked by the United Depositors' association, it was announced.

U. S. APPROVES REVISED PLANS FOR SAG BRIDGE

Revised plans for the Crawford avenue bridge across the Calumet-Sag channel south of 131st street were approved yesterday by the war department at Washington, D. C.

The county board received bids on the construction of the bridge Tuesday, and referred them to its roads and bridges committee. Bids were called for after the war department had approved a previous plan for the bridge on June 12, with the proviso that the design be changed slightly to conform with plans for using the channel as a link in the Illinois deep waterway system.

INDICT BROKER AFTER WOLF PLEADS GUILTY

Bank Thief Accuses Weiss Before Grand Jury.

David D. Weiss, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, who handled more than $1,000,000 in stolen securities in market deals for Walter E. Wolf, $3,666,929 embezzler from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, was reported last night to have been named in a true bill charging larceny by bailee.

JUDGE FISHER.

The action was reported to have been taken by the grand jury on testimony given by Wolf after Wolf himself was arraigned before Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court on ten indictments charging him specifically with embezzling $1,647,000. Wolf pleaded guilty to the ten charges and will be sentenced later.

Wolf is said to have testified before the jury that Weiss diverted to his own use $130,000 of the securities that Wolf placed with him.

Wolf Questioned by Grand Jury.

Wolf was questioned by the grand jury for an hour and a half on his dealings with Weiss. The latter, it is said, began handling one of Wolf's accounts three years ago about the time he purchased a seat on the Board of Trade to become a market operator as well as a merchant tailor. The account was in the name of Wolf's brother, Henry Wolf, secretary of A. Bishop & Co., loop furriers.

Prosecutors hinted that additional indictments may follow against Weiss on charges that he had knowledge the securities presented by Wolf were stolen.

Other Brokers Concerned.

Weiss was not alone in handling accounts for Wolf. Maurice Davis, a brother of Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, as customers' man for Stein, Alstrin & Co., handled a substantial account also in the name of Wolf's brother. Other brokerage houses linked to Wolf's transactions are Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., Farell Brothers, Babcock Rushton & Co., Charles Sincere & Co., Frazier Jelke & Co., and the Uhlmann Grain company.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers, in charge of the grand jury investigation, refused to say whether others concerned in Wolf's transactions would be subjects of grand jury inquiry. He said he was not at liberty to discuss anything at this time beyond stating that the entire case would be thoroughly investigated.

Weiss, who has known Wolf for twenty-five years, has been under investigation by a special committee of the Board of Trade. He has also been questioned by officials of the bank and the state's attorney's office. In all questioning he has insisted he acted in good faith and was betrayed by Wolf.

Wolf made a plea for clemency to Justice Fisher when he pleaded guilty to the indictments. On hearing brief evidence Justice Fisher took the case under advisement, announcing he would pass sentence next Thursday at 11 a. m.

Wolf was accompanied by his counsel, Attorney Martin Gorski. State's Attorney Swanson and Mr. Ayers appeared for the prosecution. The model husband and former trusted bank employé wore a blue suit, white shirt, a black tie with a diagonal white stripe, and carried a gray fedora. A tall, slender man, he teetered on his toes as he pleaded guilty to each indictment. The ten indictments listed thefts of the following securities:

1. Seven United States treasury certificates, total $70,000.
2. Twelve Chicago tax anticipation warrants, $60,000.
3. Two hundred bonds of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, $200,000.
4. Thirty-one Chicago tax anticipation warrants, $155,000.
5. Debentures of $100,000 from two southern banks.
6. Evanston High school board, district 202, tax notes, $45,000.
7. Seven United States treasury certificates of indebtedness, $75,000.
8. Two United States treasury certificates of indebtedness, $100,000.
9. One United States treasury certificate of indebtedness, $100,000.
10. Stock in the Corporation Security Company of Chicago valued at $42,000.

Long Sentence Possible.

"Now, Wolf," said the judge, "on being arraigned you have said you are guilty to each of the indictments. I want you to understand that on each indictment this court can sentence you to from one to ten years in the penitentiary. Do you understand that?"

"Yes," said Wolf.

The judge then announced he would hear evidence on only two phases of the indictments, first as to the amount of each, and second as to the age of the defendant—a requirement under an inheritance from old English common law. At the suggestion of Mr. Swanson the age was stipulated—Wolf announcing in a firm voice that he is 42 years old.

Joseph L. Overlock, 1443 Forest avenue, Forest Park, auditor for the bank, was called to the stand. He testified to the value of the securities in each indictment and set the total of Wolf's defalcations at $3,666,929.

Takes All Blame Himself.

Attorney Gorski asked the judge whether he would like to hear from the defendant. The judge replied that he had no questions to ask but would listen patiently to anything Wolf might say. Wolf, who had been seated, arose and walked to the bench.

"I want to say no one else is to blame but myself," Wolf began. "I was alone. No one in the bank knew anything about it. I started in a small way and I thought I would be able to replace the securities, but the amounts grew larger and larger and I never could get out of it."

"What did you do with the securities?" the judge asked.

"I put them with brokers as collateral."

"Were you never ahead?" asked the judge.

"Never," was the answer. "I was always in the hole."

Dashes a Common Belief.

"Then we, who believed that all people dealing in the market prior to 1929 were at some time or other ahead, were mistaken," the judge remarked.

"That's right," Wolf said heartily.

"How did you take the money?" the judged questioned.

"I handled due bonds," Wolf said. "I'd just take out securities and receipts. When they were due I would get the securities and put them back with the receipts and get new securities. They were not assets of the bank."

The judge asked Wolf if he had anything more to say.

"Only that I'd like to have you consider having the sentences run concurrently," Wolf replied.

His plea was supported by Attorney Gorski. Counsel pointed to the fact that Wolf had aided the bank and the state's attorney in investigations. He said Wolf was sorry for what he had done and as a young man had a life before him.

The judge asked State's Attorney Swanson to state his positon.

"The defendant embezzled $3,600,000 in 12 years," Mr. Swanson said. "We could have multiplied the ten indictments in numerous separate indictments. We undertook to give you a picture of the case. The defendant is the outstanding embezzler of the century. We have given all the information; the responsiblity rests squarely on the shoulders of the court. The court should consider the interests of society and give an example to those who would emulate this defendant."

Judge Fisher then announced the court would take time to consider the case. He said he was not so much moved by the amount of the thefts as by the deliberation of the defendant and the long period over which they were made.

In Jail for First Time.

Wolf was then taken before the grand jury, which had been directed by the judge to wait for his appearance. Following his testimony Wolf was taken to the county jail, his first imprisonment since his confession.

Wolf had been held in technical custody by the state's attorney since he was turned over for prosecution. Previous to the surrender he was held incommunicado by the bank and representatives of Lloyd's of London, against which company the bank has filed a claim for the full amount under a $2,000,000 insurance policy.

FOREIGN GASOLINE ON SALE IN DETROIT TODAY AS U. S. RIVAL

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Foreign gasoline goes on the market in Detroit tomorrow to undersell the United States product.

A shipment of 436,000 gallons arrived today on the Dutch steamer Pendrecht. Other shipments will follow until a supply of 3,000,000 gallons, now on shipboard at Montreal, is exhausted.

Col. Heinrich A. Pickert, collector of customs, and Walter S. Petty, chief customs inspector, admitted the gas after a brief examination of the tankers. They said they were satisfied it was Rumanian gasoline, not Russian, as charged by Col. Walter C. Cole, executive vice president of the Union League of Michigan.

Charles F. Austin, head of the company which will put the gas on sale, said he had contracted for a total of 15,000,000 gallons in Rumania and he intended to obtain more.

Austin said he was not yet ready to announce the price of the Rumanian gas, but it would be lower than his existing sale price of 13 cents a gallon, including tax.

CITY'S POLICY ON ONE-MAN CARS IS PUT UP TO COUNCIL

The attitude of the city council on the petition of the Chicago Surface lines to install one man cars on certain streets is expected to be determined at the special council meeting called by Mayor Cermak for this morning. A hearing on the petition is scheduled also for this morning before the Illinois commerce commission, at which the street car unions will submit evidence to combat the company's plea.

In previous hearings Corporation Counsel Sexton took the position that he could not speak for the city's attitude until the council had taken some action. In a letter written to the council yesterday Mr. Sexton said that an important question of public policy is involved in the hearings, and that the council should decide the city's attitude.

The street car company is asking permission to give one man service on 15 lines, and on 11 other lines at night only.

LONGSHOREMEN AT TEXAS PORTS STRIKE; FIGHT CUT

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 1 (Thursday).—(AP)—Longshoremen at Galveston, Houston, Texas City, and Corpus Christi went on a strike at 12:01 a. m. today in protest to a proposed wage cut.

In an effort to dispatch their vessels before the strike began steamship companies here loaded cargos far into the night Wednesday, and before midnight twelve ships had put to sea. Two others were ready to sail at daylight.

As a result only two vessels will require labor Thursday. Steamship men have announced their intention of employing nonunion labor.

The strike affects all deep sea and foreign trade vessels, but only two coastwise lines. The steamship interests proposed to cut basic pay of longshoremen from 80 cents to 65 cents an hour, while the pay for cotton would have been slashed from 18 cents a bale to a flat rate of 65 cents an hour. Eighteen cents a bale divided among the 15 men composing a gang amounts to about $1 an hour.

ROBBED OF $30 AND CAR.

Frank Rogerien, 578 South Utica street, Waukegan, a civilian employé at Fort Sheridan, gave a man in soldier's uniform a lift in his automobile as he was driving home last night. South of Lake Forest his passenger drew a revolver, robbed him of $29 and drove away in the car.

Shot by Policeman as He Flees after Cafe Robbery

Farmers Offer Half Their Spuds if You'll Dig Them

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Several farmers here are offering to split their potato crop 50-50 with any one who will dig it. Potatoes bring only 50 cents a bag retail in London and 25 cents wholesale in the field. Growers claim they lose money digging them.

Serves Boarders Beer; Milk Too High, She Tells Judge

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 30.—(AP)—"I just kept a little home brew for the boarders," Mrs. Pearl Martin of Madison, Ind., told Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran today. "Milk was too expensive, so I served home brew. I didn't sell it." Mrs. Martin, a widow with four children, was given a suspended six months' jail term.

FATHER AND SON SEIZED ON NEW COLLINGS CLEW

Arrested on Arrival in Daytona, Fla.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Lester Ritchie, 51, New England veterinarian, and his son, William, 23, wanted by Connecticut authorities for questioning in the Benjamin Collings yacht murder mystery and the slaying also of William Smith, Connecticut mechanic, were arrested here tonight. They were held for the authorities at Norwalk, Cann., who were notified. Father and son denied a part in either crime and declared they would oppose extradition.

Arrests Called Unimportant.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The arrest of the two Ritchies at Daytona Beach, Fla., aroused only mild interest tonight among authorities investigating the Collings mystery. The pair arrived in Daytona by automobile from Connecticut last Sunday and were taken to the Daytona Beach station late today on orders of the local chief of police, Charles J. Lake. This much was learned over the long distance phone.

Inquiry in Huntington, L. I., center of the investigation, and in Stamford and Norwalk, Conn., indicated that no request for the detention of the men had gone out from any of those places. Chief Lake said by long distance telephone that he had arrested the pair after reading in newspapers that they had been mentioned in connection with the Collings case. Any connection the Ritchies may have with the Collings case is very tenuous, it was said by Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk county, in charge of the murder investigation.

How They Entered Picture.

One point at which they touch the Collings case rests in the fact that they were on close terms with William Smith, casual worker of South Norwalk, Conn., missing several weeks, who was believed by some persons today to be the man whose body was found on Asharoken beach last Tuesday.

There is a possibility the Smith body is that of the mysterious "wounded man" of Mrs. Collings' story of the murder night—the man whom the attackers insisted on placing on the ash cruiser Penguin before they seized the yacht's master, Collings, and kidnaped his widow. The body was only tentatively identified as that of Smith.

According to Norwalk police, Ritchie and his son have lived in South Norwalk for 15 years. The father was a veterinary surgeon, but because of a physical injury had no longer been able to practice his profession. He and his son made a living digging clams, fishing, and selling farm produce. They had a small boat.

Photographs of the Ritchies were shown yesterday to Mrs. Collings, but she was unable to identify them.

Dr. Schultze in Hospital.

Dr. Otto Schultze, New York autopsy expert whose fantastic and at times incomprehensible testimony disrupted last Saturday's session of the Collings inquest, was taken to a hospital tonight from his home in Huntington, L. I.

Mrs. Schultze first summoned a policeman and told him her husband had suffered a nervous collapse and had threatened to kill himself. The officer then had the physician removed to the hospital. Associates said they expected Dr. Schultze to recover in a week or two.

CHICAGO RECORD IS SET BY HEAT IN SEPTEMBER

The month ended at midnight last night was the warmest September in Chicago since the government weather bureau was established sixty years ago, according to a summary issued last night by C. A. Donnel, principal meteorologist.

The mean temperature for the month was 71.1 degrees, or 5.9 degrees above normal. The warmest previous September was in 1881, when the mean temperature was 70.8 degrees. The temperature of the month just closed averaged only a half of a degree lower than the normal mean for August. On nine days in September the thermometer reading was 90 degrees or higher, the extreme maximum being 94 degrees on Sept. 10. The highest September temperature reading in the record of the bureau was 98 degrees, in 1899 and in 1922.

Precipitation for 29 days of September was 5.14 inches, an excess of 2.11 inches over normal. The excess precipitation since the first of the year is 3.84 inches.

Partly cloudy and cooler weather is forecast for today.

Dog to Be Awarded Medal for Saving Life of Boy

Keota, Ia., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Keota residents will witness an unusual demonstration Friday afternoon at the school auditorium when "Bever," an English shepherd dog, will be awarded a medal by the American Humane society. The dog saved the life of Richard Fosdick last June when he held an infuriated bull under control while the boy escaped from a pasture at the home of his uncle, Daniel Kleinschmidt, near Harper.

AUTOIST TRYING TO AVOID ARREST SHOT BY POLICE

William Godfried, 31 years old, 7846 South Honore street, was shot and seriously wounded last night by Motorcycle Policeman Robert Cameron after he sought to avoid arrest for speeding by driving Cameron's partner, John Dzinbolowski, into a ditch at 87th street and Western avenue. Godfried, who was shot in the neck, was taken to the Bridewell hospital where his condition was reported as critical. Dzinzolowski was taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital suffering from minor bruises.

Pursuit of Godfried began in Western avenue. As Dzinzolowski drew beside his car at 87th street, Godfried forced the policeman into the ditch. Godfried turned off the lights of his car and drove north. Cameron, who witnessed the incident, gave chase. He drew near Godfried at 71st street and California avenue. When the latter disregarded commands to halt Cameron drew his revolver and fired four shots. One of the bullets struck Godfried.

John Godfried, 35 years old, brother of the wounded man, who was riding in the car, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

[Copyright; 1931: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Sept. 30.—Serious fears for the safety of Charles Kingsford-Smith, who is attempting to beat J. T. Mollison's record of 8 days 22 hours and 25 minutes for the 11,000 mile flight from Australia to London, were felt here when at 11 o'clock tonight he had not yet arrived. He was 7 hours overdue, and it was 20 hours since he left Aleppo on a 1,400 mile hop for Rome.

REFUSE MOVIE PEACE DESPITE OFFICIALS' PLEA

Settlement Demanded by Mayor and Swanson.

Efforts to reach an agreement in the controversy between the Motion Picture Operators' union and owners of independent theaters reached an impasse last night when a four hour conference, arranged by Mayor Cermak and State's Attorney Swanson, ended without the two groups becoming reconciled on any major point. The conference will be resumed this morning.

RALPH O'HARA.

Expressing themselves as aroused at the reign of terror which followed the lockout of union operators a few weeks ago, the two officials demanded that the owners and operators meet and settle their differences. Mayor Cermak said he believed all the bombings would cease as soon as peace was declared in the moving picture controversy.

Fail to Reach Accord.

At yesterday's conference held in the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office, 123 West Madison street, the representatives of the owners and the operators offered numerous plans, but did not agree on any. The union remains adamant in its demand for two operators to each theater booth. This union rule, deemed unnecessary by the owners, was the prime cause of the lockout.

Representing the union at the conference were Thomas Maloy, business agent; Thomas Reynolds, president; Ralph O'Hara, organizer, and Thomas Nash, attorney. Those representing the owners were Aaron Saperstein, president of the Allied Independent Theaters association, and Howard Ellis and Theodore Levin, attorneys. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Lounsbury and Charles Bellows attended to represent the state and to preside.

At today's meeting consideration again will be given to the two major plans, neither of which was approved by both groups. The union plan would classify the playhouses, by seating, in four groups and provide a sliding scale of compensation. The owners submitted a plan of pay to be based on the weekly income.

Demand End of Terrorism.

The conference between the mayor and the prosecutor yesterday was the result of demands that something be done to end the bombings, slugging, and other acts of terrorism.

During the month there have been nine bombings of theaters in which black powder or dynamite have been used. There have been five stench bombs, two in theaters not involved in the dispute. On Tuesday night a stench bomb was set off in a theater and there were three bombings which were not in theaters.

A delegate of the Painters and Decorators' council No. 14 was seized yesterday as a suspect in the bombing of two paint contracting company plants operating under the Landis award and of the Oak Park apartment home of George Erhardt Jr., official of one of the companies. He was James G. Dungan, 3116 Lowe avenue, who has a police record. A stolen automobile, believed to answer the description of a car seen near the Oak Park bombing, was found in the rear of Dungan's home.

PLAYWRIGHT'S BODY FOUND; UNABLE TO SAY IF HE WAS SLAIN

Westport, Conn., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The body of Kenneth Raisbeck, 32, a playwright, was found in the Christ church cemetery here today under conditions which led to a difference of opinion among local authorities as to whether he had been murdered or, as W. H. McMahon, medical examiner of Norwalk decided after an autopsy, had died of acute meningitis.

The police of Westport were of the belief that he had been slain, basing their contention upon the fact that marks which "might have been made by fingers" were found upon the throat of the dramatist.

PORTEN ACCUSED OF ASKING $300 AS RAID SEQUEL

Ald. Matt Porten [35th] was accused yesterday in testimony before the civil service board of having demanded $300 to stop legal action against Mrs. Myrtle Miller, 212 South Ashland boulevard, after the police had raided her home on June 30 and found 30 bottles of home brew. Fireman Edward Megan of truck 46 was on trial before the board on charges of conduct unbecoming a member of the fire department in connection with injuries suffered by the alderman's brother, John Porten, at Mrs. Miller's home three days before the raid.

According to the testimony John Porten was under the influence of liquor and was assisted from Mrs. Miller's apartment by Megan; Maurice Moore, 312 South Leavitt street, and Otto Bernat, 11 North Ada street. Porten, it was said, fell over a railing.

Moore, Bernat, and Megan were arrested and arraigned before Judge Edward B. Casey on Tuesday. Moore and Bernat were fined $50 each and Megan was granted a jury trial. The charge against Megan before the civil service board was filed by Ald Porten, who accused the fireman of having thrown John Porten over the railing.

Henry Janke, 3328 North Springfield avenue, testified that after the raid he was sent by Ald. Porten to tell Mrs. Miller there would be no prosecution if she paid $300. Mrs. Miller corroborated Janke's testimony.

MACHINE GUNS GUARD EVIDENCE IN CANAL CASE

State's Attorney's Vault Being Watched.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup has ordered a heavy night guard placed over the vault in the state's attorney's office on the second floor of the Criminal Court building in which the state's evidence in the sanitary district graft case is kept. The vault now under guard contains all of the documentary evidence on which the prosecution will rely for a conviction of Timothy J. Crowe and the others indicted as a result of the alleged squandering of public funds during the so-called whoopee era.

"All I can say is that anybody who tries to get in will get full of lead," said Prosecutor Northup when asked about the guard last night. "They will find several machine guns waiting for them."

Admits Having Information.

When pressed as to whether he had any definite information on a projected plan by some one to steal the sanitary district case evidence the prosecutor said:

"Of course, I have some information, but it is not for publication at this time."

Prosecutor Northup, it became known last evening, spent most of Tuesday night at his office in the Criminal court. He talked about a possible attempt even to bomb the building to destroy the evidence. A dozen or more policemen of the state's attorney's staff were kept on guard most of the night.

The guard was somewhat reduced last night, but three men were stationed in strategic spots overlooking the vault containing the evidence. They had close by, it was said, several of the machine guns kept by Chief Investigator Pat Roche for action against hoodlums.

Other Defendants in Case.

The defendants in the case besides Crowe are James M. Whalen, John J. Touhy, Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler, and August Miller, former trustees; John T. Miller, a former official; Timothy Connolly, fugitive purchasing agent, and Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent for the district.

The sanitary district investigation was started in 1928 by Frank J. Loesch, acting as a special prosecutor. Prosecutor Northup has spent nearly three years in investigating and trying to get the case to trial. The indictment now pending is one which was voted last spring after Judge Joseph B. David had quashed some of the counts in the original presentment of the jury.

The case is still on assignment to Judge David. It was called up for hearing last month, but was postponed until Tuesday because the defendants indicated that they may waive a jury and submit the case to the judge. It was decided to wait for an expected Supreme court decision which will determine whether the state can force a jury trial by objecting to such action by the defense.

Pajamas Stolen and $117 in Them as He Sleeps On

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dr. George E. Harp, Johnson, Tenn., physician, told police today he slept so soundly in his hotel room that thieves stole his pajama trousers without awakening him. In what the doctor described as a secret pocket of the missing garment were $117 and a watch and chain.

JUDGE ORDERS SALE OF WINE BRICKS HALTED

The sale of wine bricks in Chicago was ordered halted yesterday by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay. The temporary restraining order, however, was not issued because of any alleged violations of the prohibition laws.

The injunction was sought by Herman Kuhlman, 4806 North Linder avenue, who appealed to the court to establish him as the sole sales agent for the bricks in Cook county.

Kuhlman charged that he had signed a contract with the Vino Sano company of Los Angeles to distribute their wine bricks in Chicago with a commission of $12 a case. When he began the organization of a sales force he discovered that he would need more time than he had anticipated, he asserted, and asked for a short extension. This was refused, he alleged, and on July 17 he was notified that he would be replaced.

DECLARE TRUCE IN VILLAGE WAR OVER APARTMENT

An armistice was declared yesterday between the village government of Wilmette and Herbert Flint, young bridegroom who is fighting the zoning laws. Flint and his bride were allowed to move into an improvised second floor apartment at 318 14th street, Wilmette, pending the outcome of a legal decision on the controversy.

Apartments are forbidden in Wilmette's city code. Mrs. Flint was so informed by the police Tuesday night.

President C. P. Dubbs of the village board announced yesterday that he had finally decided to allow the couple to live for a time in the apartment. The village ordinance sets forth that only one family shall be allowed to live in one dwelling.

THIS IS AUTUMN MOVING DAY, BUT WHAT A CHANGE!

A further decrease in the amount of autumn moving was forecast yesterday by L. L. Newton, executive secretary of the home council of the Chicago Real Estate board. Today will be moving day for only about 1,700 or 1,800 Chicago families, compared with 2,079 who moved last Oct. 1. This day and May 1 used to be the dates on which virtually all moving was done here.

For the last few years the real estate board has been sponsoring a system of "stagger leases," distributing the signing of leases throughout the year, in order that moving day for the dwellers in Chicago's 826,000 apartments would not be concentrated on two dates.

Figures based on the number of users of gas and electricity show that the total number of families moving in September up to and including last Tuesday was 40,559. Mr. Newton estimated that figures for the entire month would show that 42,500 families had moved.

The heaviest fall moving occurred in 1927, when 52,419 families changed their residences during September, the real estate board estimated. In September, 1928, the number was listed at 51,363; in September, 1929, it was 49,579.

FINED ON THIRD CHARGE.

Frank Cronin, 28 years old, 608 West 55th street, who had won judical leniency on two previous occasions by promises to reform after he was charged with beating his mother and sister while he was drunk, was given the maximum fine of $200 by Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan yesterday on a third charge of the same nature.

JUDGE PONDERS FORMER CANAL LAWYER'S CASE

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. yesterday took under advisement the case of Attorney Daniel V. Gallery, whom he had recommended suspended for two years in his report while sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court.

The report was made as a result of investigations begun by the Chicago Bar association into the padding of sanitary district pay rolls during the "whoopee régime." Punishment ranging from disbarment to suspension for varying periods was recommended for 54 lawyers on the pay rolls because it was charged they had made no proportionate return for the fees they accepted.

Pleading his own case, Attorney Gallery declared that he had no knowledge that the rolls were overloaded or of what other attorneys were employed by the sanitary trustees.

United States Senator Lewis will appear today to defend Attorney William Scott Stewart, who was recommended suspended for one year, it was reported.

CLERK ENDS OWN LIFE.

William Merrigan, 60 years old, 5650 South Peoria street, a clerk, committed suicide yesterday by slashing his throat with a razor in the bathroom of the rooming house in which he lived.

SINGER TELLS COURT OF KAHN'S $150,000 GIFT

Spent It and Asked for More, She Sobs.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—With testimony that Otto H. Kahn, banker and patron of music, failed to "replenish" a $150,000 fund established in 1926 for Mme. Lydia Lindgren, one of opera's many "Swedish Nightingales," the plaintiff rested her $500,000 breach of contract action against him today in Queens Supreme court.

Mme. Lindgren testified in the operatic manner. Weeping and smiling alternately and gesticulating freely, she told Justice Charles J. Druhan and a jury that Mr. Kahn had agreed to "replenish" her fund provided she dropped a $250,000 suit for slander brought against Mme. Julia Claussen of the Metropolitan Opera company, a rival "Swedish Nightingale."

In addition, she declared, Mr. Kahn had agreed to give her $30,000 in lieu of a $3,000 a year annuity which he had previously urged upon her, and had agreed to help her get professional engagements. Mr. Kahn paid her only $13,000, however, she said, and then did nothing more.

His Name Figured in Suit.

His interest in having the Claussen action withdrawn, she declared, rested on the fact that his name was mentioned in it. Mme. Claussen being accused of saying, among other things, that Mme. Lindgren was not an artist and not a singer and owed her engagements to her friendship with the banker.

Mr. Kahn himself made a brief and perfunctory appearance as a witness. Called by Emil Baar, counsel for the plaintiff, he answered half a dozen questions, giving his name, his residence as "on Fifth avenue," his age as 56, and stating that he was married with a happy home life, and has four children. George Whiteside, his counsel, did not cross-examine him, and he immediately left court.

Mystery About $150,000 Gift.

Why the reputed $150,000 fund was set up in the first place was not touched upon in the testimony, nor was the circumstances of the alleged annuity offer made clear. Testimony on this point was blocked to some extent through introduction by Mr. Whiteside of a legal paper described as a release. This purported release was signed by Mme. Lindgren, it appeared from Mr. Whiteside's remarks, on Jan. 17, 1926.

Concerning the annuity, however, Mme. Lindgren was permitted to testify that Mr. Kahn had urged it upon her; that she had refused it, but that he had insisted he would provide for it in his will.

The negotiations with Mr. Kahn concerning the Claussen suit, she continued, began in the form of letters which she wrote to him, receiving no reply. Subsequently, she said, she went to Palm Beach to see him, learned that he was just returning to New York, and boarded a train ahead of his and was awaiting him when he reached Pennsylvania station.

They Talk About Money.

The result of her talk with him there, she testified, was an appointment in the office of Mr. Whiteside on Feb. 11, 1930, where she and Mr. Kahn entered a room together, without other witnesses, and reached an agreement that she should drop the slander suit and that he "replenish" the fund, give her an additional $30,000, and aid her professional career.

The $150,000 fund had been a trust fund originally, she said, but the agreement covering it had been modified to permit her to use the principal. At the time of the interview, she continued, the principal had been depleted to about $20,000, chiefly as a result of a European tour which she made with her husband, Raoul Querze, in 1928. She found no engagements in Europe, Mme. Lindgren declared, although a series of concerts had been promised her.

Defense Hits Back.

In attacking the singer's story during cross-examination, Mr. Whiteside sought to show that the witness who reported to her the alleged remarks of Mme. Claussen was Margot Berglind, a Swedish writer, who once made her home with Mme. Lindgren in Flushing. He sought further to establish that Mme. Lindgren had been motivated by a desire for publicity and had called up several newspapers to tell of the action she was about to take. He failed to obtain an admission that Mme. Lindgren had once said that the only reason for the law suit was to get money from Mr. Kahn.

The only other witness for the plaintiff was Irving Mariash, attorney who represented Mme. Lindgren in the action against Mme. Claussen.

Received Check from Kahn.

He told of receiving a $13,000 check from Mr. Kahn, together with a letter of apology from Mme. Claussen. This letter was refused, a circumstance which Mme. Lindgren had also mentioned in her story, until certain phases in it were changed to meet objections raised by the plaintiff.

At no time during the negotiations for a settlement of the slander action, Mr. Mariash said, did he see the attorneys for Mme. Claussen, but instead carried on all negotiations through Mr. Whiteside, "who represented Mr. Kahn's interests."

The trial is to be resumed tomorrow.

LONDON JOBLESS RENEW RIOTS AT TRIAL OF MATES

Mounted Police Ride Into Demonstrating Mobs.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Police and crowds of unemployed clashed again in London today as a result of the trials of a 21 year old girl communist and eleven men on charges arising from last night's turmoil outside the house of parliament.

Disturbances broke out in half a dozen places today and police, mounted and on foot, were kept busy dispersing the shouting crowds. Many were injured in the clashes as officers tore red banners and slogans from the hands of the marchers or rode into the crowds. At least one man was taken to a hospital from injuries received when he was trampled underfoot.

Police Charge Into Parade.

The demonstration began outside the Bow street police station, where those accused in last night's riot were being tried. A squad of mounted police was summoned and they ordered the crowd to disperse. Marching eight abreast, the unemployed started down Longacre street, flourishing banners denouncing the government. The police charged. The procession halted and then turned towards the British museum, escorted by a strong guard of police.

The crowd assembled on the steps of the museum, but was again ordered to move. It then turned into Oxford street, one of the city's busiest thoroughfares, en route to Hyde Park. Traffic was thrown into confusion. The marchers struggled with police, and terrified women shoppers took refuge in building entrances as the police rode down the sidewalks to clear a passage. There were fresh scenes at the park, where the marchers made a last stand to hear speakers denounce the dole cuts and the government.

Attack Man on Horse.

As the park was being cleared demonstrators surrounded and threatened a man wearing a riding habit who had been riding in Rotten Row. He dismounted, unsaddled, and sought to escape on foot, but the yelling crowd held him until a police charge scattered them.

Another outbreak occurred at Willesden, where 600 men marched to the labor exchange, shouting a condemnation of the cut in the dole. Large forces of police assembled and the crowd dispersed.

All but one of those accused in last night's disorder were released on bail. That one failed to appear. The girl, who held the center of the stage in court, was accused by two policemen of striking them with a blackjack. She pleaded guilty to "socking" one officer in the eye and the other in the nose, but she denied using a blackjack.

LORD BURNHAM RIPS BRITAIN FOR ADMIRING GANDHI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A slashing attack on Mahatma Gandhi and Britishers' adulation of the mahatma was launched by Lord Burnham, former proprietor of the Daily Telegraph and a member of the Simon statutory commission on India, in a speech at Reading today.

"He is undoubtedly the greatest enemy we have in India," Lord Burnham declared.

Lord Burnham declared nothing disgusted him more than to read that large numbers of his fellow citizens "offered tributs of their admiration to Gandhi and made obeisance to him even when he was sitting with Charlie Chaplin on a barrow in the east end of London. And they don't feel ashamed of it."

Gandhi's admirers, he said, are not represented in the great bulk of the British people, "but they include nearly the whole Labor party, and I say that what they are doing is the crowning ignominy of this country and points the way to a depth of degradation I could hardly conceive Britons sinking to."

MAC DONALD STAYS MUM ON QUESTION OF NEW ELECTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The fog of politics still hangs over Great Britain and no one knows yet whether or not the country is going to be plunged into a general election. Everything depends upon Prime Minister MacDonald, and it is doubtful if he has yet made up his mind.

There are strong indications, however, that he is determined to come to a conclusion before Friday night, for he has telegraphed the chairman of the Labor party organization at the Seaham Harbor constituency, for which he sits in parliament, asking that a meeting be convened for him to address that night.

The prime minister failed today to answer the question in the house of commons, as he had been expected to do. Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor opposition, put the question, but Mr. MacDonald replied in a most formal way, reciting the progress expected with the economy and finance bills. He also mentioned a short list of other bills which he hoped to introduce next Wednesday when the house will adjourn.

Mysterious Death of Woman Laid to Arsenic

Mrs. Ida Ernst, 47 years old, of Lake Zurich, Ill., who died under mysterious circumstances in Barrington on Sept. 10, came to her death by arsenic poisoning, State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county revealed yesterday. It was learned that she ate some biscuits prepared with arsenic which were to be used for rat extermination. Whether Mrs. Ernst ate them in a moment of forgetfulness or deliberately ate them could not be learned.

Riverside Couple Held to Grand Jury for Theft

Paul Edouard Brusstar and his wife, Emelie, 166 Nuttall road, Riverside, said to be interested in music and charities, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Freeman L. Fairbanks in the Felony court on a charge of larceny. Their bonds were fixed at $1,000 each. The Brusstars are accused of stealing fancy glassware from the gift shop owned by Mrs. Jeanne Campbell at 606 North State street. Police found the articles in their home.

Confessed Slayer Is Convicted of Robbery

Everett Kappmeyer, 22 years old, who has confessed the slaying of Edward J. Wolf, an automobile salesman, on April 11, 1930, was found guilty of robbery yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski. He will be sentenced on Monday. The robbery of which Kappmeyer was convicted occurred on April 7, 1930, when Kappmeyer forced Miss Sophie Andruska, 12311 Emerald avenue, an employe of a Western Union telegraph office, to hand over $24.

NAVY ENLISTED PERSONNEL MAY LOSE 5,000 MORE

Reduced to Meet Hoover Budget Demand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Reduction of naval enlisted personnel by approximately 5,000 enlisted men has been tentatively decided upon by the navy department as one of the economy measures which must be undertaken in order to meet President Hoover's demand for a $61,000,000 slash in its estimated expenditures for the 1933 fiscal year. Such a move would cut the navy enlisted strength to 75,000.

FRED A. BRITTEN. [A. P. Photo.]

If the slash in enlisted personnel goes through, the total reduction since the depression began will be boosted to about 10,000 men. A year ago Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, reduced naval enlisted strength by 4,800 men and began a marine corps reduction move which will bring that organization down to 16,000 men, a total cut of 2,000.

Britten to Tell Congress.

As the administration moved to increase the army of unemployed by cutting navy personnel and withholding new warship construction from building yards, Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee took steps to make certain that the quarrel between President Hoover and the navy department over budget cuts should be aired in congress this winter.

He stated at his office this afternoon that he would summon Secretary of the Navy Adams and his ranking admirals to appear before his committee when congress opens to give their side of the "row" over whether appropriations should be provided to build the navy up towards tonnage parity with Great Britain.

In addition to studying the advisability of large enlisted cuts, the navy department today studied the possibilities of effecting savings through a change in the operating plan for the 1933 fiscal year, which would cut down the number of ships actually in commission at any given time and radical changes in plans for fleet training and fleet maneuvers.

It was also reported today that the navy was considering placing one of the giant aircraft carriers on a partially decommissioned status as an economy move. These big vessels cost in excess of $2,000,000 annually for maintenance and carry crews of 1,800 men. It seems more likely, however, that if any change is made in the operation of the carriers it will come about through the adoption of a ship rotation plan which would provide for keeping a fixed percentage of all commissioned vessels tied up in port at all times. Such a plan would permit more ships to be operated with a smaller number of men, as vessels undergoing overhaul in port would keep but 25 per cent of their crews.

Navy plans now provide for placing one 12 inch gun battleship on a decommissioned basis in 1933 as well as six destroyers and six submarines. Decision has also been made to slow up the modernization work by almost one-half on the three battleships whose guns are being elevated so none of these vessels will be finished in time to join the fleet in 1933.

Work to Be Slowed Up.

It is also probable work on the 8 inch gun cruisers and the aircraft carrier will be further slowed up so they will not be completed as rapidly as scheduled. By slowing up these vessels the date when men to man them will be needed is automatically postponed.

Naval officials, still somewhat bewildered by the sudden economy order yesterday, reached a decision early today that naval enlisted personnel would have to be reduced by the process of slowing up enlistments. The first conclusions were that it would be necessary to reduce personnel by 5,000 in order to reach the limiting figure set by the President.

The present rift between the admirals and the President, which has been smoldering since the navy general board fought the London naval treaty before the house and senate committees in 1930, may result in an even greater breach between the White House and the navy department. According to dispatches, President Hoover is prepared to take his fight with the navy over proposed budget cuts to the American people.

"I will call my committee together immediately congress opens and arrange for the appearance of Secretary Adams and others of the navy general board," Chairman Britten said today. "I will ask them whether the budget cuts have seriously interfered with the carrying out of the navy's activities. I will also inquire as to their views regarding whether the United States should go ahead this winter and take steps which will bring the United States fleet up to tonnage parity with Great Britain, as well as our proper ratio to Japan.

"On the basis of their recommendations I will write a bill calling for the authorization of such ships as the navy thinks should be laid down this next fiscal year. If possible that bill will be pushed through congress regardless of White House opposition. I am in favor of a holiday or further naval cuts, but not unless other nations make proportionate sacrifices and give us an opportunity to catch up with them."

BRITISH DESTROYER MAKES NEW RECORDS FOR FUEL ECONOMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—New records for fuel economy by steam propelled naval vessels have been set up by the latest completed modern British destroyer, the Acheron, according to information which has reached navy department officials. This vessel is not only far superior in armament, weight and seaworthiness to any American destroyers built, but can be operated more economically and cover a greater area on the same fuel.

The British admiralty adopted high steam pressure and temperature for the propelling machinery, a departure from current practice. The object was to save space and obtain economy of fuel consumption. This vessel has a designed speed of about forty miles an hour, 34,000 horsepower, a displacement of 1,330 tons and a length of 312 feet. Her armament comprises four 4.7 inch guns and eight twenty-one torpedo tubes. American destroyers have four 4 inch guns.

WINS 1 CENT AND VINDICATION IN CHARACTER SUIT

One cent damages and vindication were awarded a jury in the court of Superior Judge S. Murray Clark yesterday to Edward T. Riley, 54 East Oak street, a civil engineer, who sued Mrs. Josephine Burnham Gowen of 6336 Cregier avenue, charging defamation of character.

The testimony disclosed that Mrs. Gowen had spread rumors that Riley, a world war veteran, had poisoned her stepmother, Mrs. Selma Burnham, following the latter's death in 1929. Riley was held by the police for several days but he was freed after a coroner's jury exonerated him.

According to the jury's verdict, Mrs. Burnham died of pneumonia. Riley's suit was for $100,000, but he declared that he would be satisfied with nominal damages and a statement of vindication.

300 COREANS IN MANCHURIA SLAIN BY CHINESE MOBS

Japan Rushes Troops as New Disorders Flare.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Oct. 1.—(Thursday.)—(AP)—The Rengo News agency reports that a detachment of Japanese soldiers clashed with 3,000 Chinese troops at Kaiyuan, near Mukden, early today, resulting in severe fighting. Three Japanese were reported killed and many wounded in repulsing the Chinese.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 1. — [Thursday.] — Between 300 and 400 Coreans were reported today to have been massacred near Kaiyuan, between Szepingkai and Tiehling, in the South Manchurian railway zone, by straggling Chinese soldier bandits. About 170 Coreans who escaped and entered Kaiyuan yesterday told of the massacres.

Soldier bandits are pillaging the area in groups of 50 and 60. They are looting, burning houses and slaying the inmates.

Japanese gendarmes are rushing to the scene. It is believed the bandits total 1,500.

SHAKEUP IN CHINESE RULE

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30. — Kaleidoscopic changes are occurring in the Nanking government as a result of the student attack on Foreign Minister C. T. Wang, who resigned today. More changes are imminent, but it has been decided that the students who attacked Wang will be restrained, no matter what the cost. Wang's injuries have proved serious, and his knees may become permanently affected.

At a government conference today it was decided that not only would the students be curbed, but that all reasonable concessions would be made to the rebel Canton government in order to present a united front against Japanese aggression and the efforts to make all sections of China outside the Great Wall independent.

Alfred Sze Gets Post.

The state political council, highest Kuomintang organization, accepted Wang's resignation and made Alfred Sze, ambassador to the court of St. James's and chief delegate to the league of nations, foreign minister. Sze has accepted but will remain in attendance at the leagu of nations sessions. Frank Lee, a graduate of New York university and the University of Chicago, is acting temporarily as foreign minister. Lee is a Eurasian. He was born in New York.

Additional changes in the government are pending to admit Cantonese representatives. W. W. Yen, newly appointed minister to Washington, who is still in China, will also be given a cabinet position, probably that of chairman of the executive yuan, which is equivalent to the post of prime minister.

Other changes await the result of conferences now in progress between representatives of Nanking and Canton at Canton. It is reported Gen. Chiang Kai-shek will remain as generalissimo of the united Chinese armies, but will yield the presidency and all other offices. The Cantonese and Nanking representatives, after an all-night session at Hongkong, proceeded to Canton today. They reached the agreement that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek will resign the presidency on condition that the Cantonese government is dissolved.

Canton Considers Proposal.

The agreement is now under discussion at Canton and chances are that it may be ratified over night. If it is, the so-called Soong dynasty will come to an end, with only T. V. Soong, minister of finance, and H. H. Kung, minister of industries, remaining.

Further changes in the government await the action of Canton, but in order to maintain Manchurian influence Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of that province, will likely remain as vice generalissimo of the Nanking régime, with authority north of the Yellow river, as at present.

The foreign office today asserted that the independence movements in Manchuria contemplate merely a puppet government, working in the interests of Japan, and that all statements from Tokio to the contrary are merely attempts to hoodwink the world. The foreign office asserts that

U. S. ENVOY SAYS JAPAN AND CHINA WILL SETTLE ROW

Japan and China will settle their Manchurian differences without actual war, W. Cameron Forbes, United States ambassador to Japan, declared yesterday when he passed through Chicago on his way to Washington.

He boarded a steamer for America the same day that the destruction by Chinese troops of a bridge on a Japanese owned railroad in Manchuria precipitated the international crisis, and thus did not have an opportunity to discuss the later developments of the situation with Japanese officials.

"The government of Japan is actually conciliatory, whatever reports have been printed," he said. "There are, of course, various elements among the people themselves, some of them militaristic. But arbitration in this instance undoubtedly will prevail."

JAPAN AGREES TO NEUTRAL REPORT ON MANCHURIA

GENEVA, Sept. 30.—(AP)—After Japan had conceded that the league of nations council might obtain information about the Manchurian situation from neutral officials on the spot, the council tonight adjourned consideration of the Sino-Japanese clash until a special session Oct. 14, when it is expected the Japanese troops will have been withdrawn.

By that time, it is hoped, all Japanese troops in Manchuria will have been withdrawn to the positions they occupied before the recent outbreak.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, accepted the adjournment with the reservation that his nation, after the status quo has been restored, still will expect the council to participate in determining responsibility for the conflict and for fixing "just reparations." M. K. Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, replied that he was unable to accept Dr. Sze's interpretation of the adjournment.

The Japanese representative, however, accepted the adjournment, but repeated that his government considered it unnecessary to take special measures to collect information on the spot. He suggested that each member of the council having representatives in the area send information received from these envoys to the council.

CHINESE CHARGE JAPAN STIRRED RIOTS IN COREA

Accuse Troops of Looking On During Massacre.

In THE TRIBUNE yesterday was published a Japanese journal's account of the assassination of a Japanese officer and three others by Chinese soldiers last June and to this happening the Japanese attribute in part the outbreak of hostilities in Manchuria.

Below is given the Chinese version of other incidents to which that country ascribes the warlike moves around Mukden. According to Chinese Affairs, a semi-official journal published by the International Relations committee at Nanking, one of the contributing causes to the military occupation of Manchuria by Japanese troops was a series of riots during the past summer between Chinese and Coreans in Manchuria and Corea, in which hundreds of Chinese were massacred. The Chinese charge that the Japanese not only aggressively took the side of the Coreans in these riots but actively stirred them up.

How Riots Started.

An official report, made to the Nanking government by the Kirin provincial government following the first of these incidents, at Wanpaoshan early in July, said the trouble began when Hou Yung-Teh, manager of the Changchun Land Cultivation company, leased 720 acres of land at Wanpaoshan, near Changchun, from twelve farmers for ten years. He immediately subleased it to nine Coreans for the same term of years, although the agreement expressly provided that the lease would not be effective until the magistrate's sanction was obtained.

The Coreans, the report said, proceeded to dig an irrigation channel 7 miles long, 40 feet wide, and 20 feet deep to connect the land with the Hung river. The excavated mud was piled up as embankments on both sides between 70 and 80 feet wide, completely ruining 76 acres of arable land of other farmers.

The Chinese farmers protested, the report said, but the Japanese supported the Coreans and sent detectives, armed with machine guns, to protect the works. A clash between the Chinese and Coreans followed on July 2, when the Chinese proceeded to fill up the channel, and the Japanese police opened fire.

The Chinese Version.

Following the Wanpaoshan incident, Chinese-Corean rioting spread. Following, in the exact language used by Chinese Affairs, is the Chinese version of what happened:

"The Chosen Jih Pao, with the Japanese governor general in Corea as its patron, is the most powerful Corean newspaper, and the one most susceptible to Japanese propaganda. On July 2, when the Wanpaoshan incident happened, the Chosen Jih Pao at once issued an extra edition, full of provoking assertions, in order to raise the sentiment of the Corean people.

"Thus the anger of the Coreans was aroused, and the atmosphere throughout Corea suddenly became poisonous to the Chinese residents there.

Chinese Are Attacked.

"The Coreans at Gensen first broke up by 8 p. m., July 2, when several tens of young students denied to pay for their dinner in a Chinese boarding house at Wej-li, and after being reasoned, the young rascals began to attack the innocent waiter and break the furniture therein. After they had done to their satisfaction, the criminals triumphantly ran out from the shop and at the same time attacked all the Chinese they met with along their way.

"This action was much applauded by the Corean onlookers, who had crowded to the scene, and with cry and laughter they began to shower insults upon the Chinese people. As the day relapsed the activities of the Corean rascals grew even more furious and the number of them was doubled and redoubled as to form a great army. It was from then till early in the next morning that all the Chinese barbers' houses and restaurants were attacked and destroyed.

"The rest of the Chinese merchants at Wei-li immediately ran to report at the Chinese chamber of commerce and the office of the Chinese consulate general in Gensan, requesting them to find proper means for their safety. Mr. Chiang Wei-ho, chief of the office of the consulate, and Mr. Fu Wen-kung, president of the chamber of commerce, hurried to the Japanese police station.

Japanese Police Look On.

"The chief of the Japanese police did give them reception, but no rescuing force was dispatched.

The account continued that the Chinese authorities again requested police protection but were refused, the Japanese advising that the Chinese assemble at Chinese street, a section inhabited exclusively by Chinese. This was done and the entrance to the section barricaded.

"When evening came," the report continues, "a horrible mob of several thousand Coreans began to push forth towards the Chinese street. With a few automobiles running at full speed ahead of them the Coreans succeeded in breaking down the obstacles laid by the Chinese at the entrance of the street and swept in like a gush of hurricane. Looting followed. The help of the Japanese police was again requested, but despite the police, which had been finally dispatched, the riots were by no means weakened until the next morning."

Pingyang Riot Described.

The paper also described similar riots at Pingyang on July 5, when Chinese were beaten and their shops wrecked. Next morning, the report said, the campaign was renewed.

"This time," according to the paper, "the Coreans were more systematically organized, and with more admirable tactics they had proceeded with the execution of a bloody massacre. Riding on horseback, a Corean leader, clad in red and blue, was busily engaged in giving orders to the mob, while a second one diligently marked out the houses of the Chinese from a book, bearing all accounts of the locations of houses and names of inhabitants in the city. As the Coreans reached a certain Chinese house a bugle was sounded and then the mob rushed in. And after they had done enough looting and destruction they were summoned out again by a second blow of the bugle.

Blame Laid on Japanese.

"During the anti-Chinese outbreaks from July 4 to July 7, instances were not few to identify that the whole procession of the massacre was deliberately conducted through the cooperation of Coreans and the Japanese policemen. It was with the help of the latter that the Coreans had brought away the goods of the Chinese shops, and it was through the Japanese policemen, who had brought some tools with them, that the former had succeeded to force open the safes of the Chinese merchants and to rob all the money therein."

What the Railroads Are Doing

The railway situation has been receiving much public attention through the hearings of the application for an advance in freight rates, and the urgent necessity of the rate increase has been fully presented.

At the same time the public may have received the impression that this is the only thing the railroads are doing to improve their situation. That is not the fact.

Where it has been possible to effect a net gain in revenues by reducing rates, such rates have been reduced. Unprofitable operations have been eliminated. Drastic economies have been instituted. Schedules have been speeded up, and other improvements in service have been made. Increased attention has been devoted to selling railway service and to making it even more courteous and dependable.

The public deserves to know that while the rate case has been pending the railroads have not been idle in these other directions. What they have been doing strengthens their plea for increased rates.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

FOIL JAIL BREAK PLOT; KILLER IS CALLED LEADER

A plot to liberate thirty prisoners from the county jail was discovered and thwarted by Warden David Moneypenny yesterday. Frank Jordan, bank robber under sentence to die in the electric chair on Oct. 16 for the murder of Policemen Anthony Ruthy and Patrick Durkin, was named as the ringleader.

It was in the cell occupied by Jordan during the last month on the first floor of F section in the jail that a metal panel was found pierced. A hole, measuring roughly 8 by 12 inches, was almost completed in the metal panel which barred the way from the rear of the cell to a corridor. At the end of this corridor is stationed a guard who operates the control box for thirty cells.

Could Liberate Thirty.

Warden Moneypenny pointed out that Jordan, a thin man, could have squirmed through this aperture, overpowered the guard at night and opened the cell doors of his mates. The men in this cell block are all accused of major crimes, including murder and robbery.

No saws were found. It was believed that the men in the plot had thrown them away when they discovered that the authorities had an inkling of their intentions. A homemade blackjack, made out of a sock and pieces of dried soap, was found secreted underneath a bench in the corner of the exercise room. This, the warden declared, was another indication of the proposed jail break.

Warden Moneypenny became suspicious of Jordan's actions three days ago and placed him in another cell. Louis La Penna, who is under sentence to from one year to life for robbery, was sent to Jordan's cell. Still suspicious, Warden Moneypenny made a thorough search of the cell yesterday and found the hole. A grayish soap, the color the metal was painted, had been rubbed over the sawmarks on the surface of the panel.

Jordan and La Penna were both placed in solitary confinement. At least eight of the prisoners in the cell block were in on the plot, according to the warden.

Coincidentally with the discovery of the plot, Jordan's attorneys yesterday filed a bill of exceptions with the Supreme court asking a retrial of his case.

1,447 Prisoners in Jail.

Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court was told yesterday by Warden Moneypenny that there were 1,447 prisoners in the jail, built to accommodate 1,200. Of the 1,447 about 400 are awaiting trial, the judge was informed. Many of the prisoners, according to the warden, are federal law violators. The judge said he would request Municipal court judges to impose Bridewell sentences on offenders when possible.

It's a "Good Town" and They're Coming.

Through the Bread Line.

The bread lines form at the old Criminal Courts building, Dearborn street and Austin avenue, at 5 o'clock. There are two of them, and about 500 pass through each at a feeding. Men with the dimes, the upper caste, march first and sleep on spring beds. The others get the same food by waiting, but sleep on the floor.

Jack Lewis was standing at the curb, outside the lines, picking his teeth. He was going to march again when the lines thinned out, he explained.

"I just got in from Buffalo," said Lewis. "I used to be a chef there. I tried Cleveland, Detroit and Indianapolis along the way, and I believe this is the best place to spend the winter."

Thomas Matthews, about 50 years old, with whiskers, was sitting on a window sill across the alley from the bread lines. He was smoking a pipe and resting his feet, from which he had removed the shoes.

Nothing to Worry About.

"Don't worry about finding plenty to eat in this town, buddy," he said. "If you get tired of the garbage they hand you in these bread lines you can go out and hit the housewives up for a meal once in a while. That's what I do. The police are very good about it."

Of more than a hundred men questioned, at least 50 per cent were either residents of other cities or small towns, where charity is limited, or homeless drifters who make Chicago their winter headquarters.

Most of the out-of-towners seemed carefree and confident of a winter that's "at least better than working." There were, on the other hand, many hard luck stories from Chicagoans.

Superstitious Indians Rout Scientists from Pyramid

PUEBLA, Mexico, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A government archeological expedition exploring the pyramid of Cholula was put to rout yesterday by Indians. The archeologists were permitted to leave in peace after complying with the natives' demand to cease tunneling the pyramid. The Indians have a superstitious objection to penetration of the pyramid.

Judge Fisher Describes Tour of Europe's Prisons

TELLS HOW MOB BEAT UP MAN, 62, WHO LATER DIED

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The story of the beating of Milburn Littel, 62, of Oakland City by rioters at the New Liberty mine June 3 was told today in Circuit court by Otho Mans, a farmer who lived near the scene of the attack. Twelve Bicknell men are on trial charged with rioting in connection with the attack on seventeen workers who were trying to operate the New Liberty mine on a collective bargaining basis.

Mans said that Littel was hung over the front fender of his automobile, and while in that position was beaten by his assailants "until the blood ran from his mouth, nose, and ears on to the running board."

"Then they took Littel to the woods," Mans said. "On the way he staggered and fell into a ditch and some one jumped from the road into the ditch. His feet landed on Littel's back."

Littel died at his home July 29. His wife said he suffered constant pain until death.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

AN AMERICAN FIVE YEAR PLAN.

President Hoover will suspend the navy building schedule for this year. One reason is economy. The other is that Mr. Hoover is not interested in the navy. He is interested in pacifist conferences, in pacifism because, very likely, he had a Quaker upbringing; in international conferences because he was accustomed to working in the international field before he became President.

For these reasons economy, which might deflate the federal government to its proper shape and size if the economy worked on the fatty protuberances of its anatomy, will take its heaviest and probably its only considerable toll of one of the services truly federal. If the federal government will not provide for the navy the nation will not have a fleet.

The states can do without the department of agriculture, the department of labor, the department of commerce, the prohibition bureau of the department of justice, and half a hundred other bureaus in other departments in which is deposited the fattening of federal government. The extraneous functions of this government apparently are safe from pruning or from what they really deserve, destruction. Retrenchment is to fall first upon national defense, which was one of the few essential reasons for forming the federal Union. The common security which brought the states together is the first thing to go down when their common government finds its budget unbalanced by payments on accounts it never should have opened and by the conduct of business it never should have undertaken.

Hysterical Americans demand a Plan which will prove that the United States is not less intelligent than the Russian soviets. Here's a Five Year Plan for America: Begin the obliteration of Washington departments and bureaus. It will take at least five years to exterminate the worthless federal government functions of interference and intervention, but by beginning now the bureaucrats can be eased back into private life without injustice. They can be chipped off the public pay rolls gradually and pensioned or sent back home. The useless departments can be closed room by room until nothing remains but for the last secretary and the last bureau chief to take his hat and go on about his private business if he has any.

Then the United States will be a trim young figure of a government attending to duties which are strictly federal, with ample funds for all its proper obligations. Now it is a sprawling behemoth with a diminishing brain pan, shedding its armor plate, like a prehistoric fool, because it is too lazy to carry it and too shortsighted to see the need of it.

ABUSE OF VENUE.

One of the means of weakening public justice in Cook county is the abuse of the right to change of venue. It is an important right, but it is too often manipulated so as to serve the interests of crime and its ally, corrupt politics, rather than the ends of justice.

The law provides that if any one charged with offense against the criminal law fears that he will not receive a fair and impartial trial in the court in which his case is pending because the judge or the inhabitants of the county are prejudiced against him, he shall be awarded a change to another court, upon certain conditions. When the judge is accused of prejudice, the application must be accompanied by the affidavits of two reputable persons. When prejudice of the inhabitants of the county is alleged the petition must set forth the alleged facts upon which the demand is based and the prosecution may deny these allegations and support its denial by counter affidavits and the judge may grant or deny the application "according to the right of the case."

These provisions of the law would seem to protect both the defendant and the prosecution, but the crime commission now proposes to investigate what appears to be persistent abuses, by which criminals are enabled to avoid trial, not by prejudiced judges but by judges who are known to be beyond political influence and strict in their application of the law. This, of course, was not intended by the law on venue, but is an abuse of it, and an inquiry into the facts may enable the legislature, if it is so inclined, to add some further safeguards without infringing the right of defendants to impartiality. But it is more probable that the fault lies more in the laxity or worse with which the law is applied. Judges who wish to avoid political embarrassment in trying a defendant who has pull are likely to grant changes of venue without justification. This passing the buck is not very seriously hurtful since it removes cases from weak judges even though it takes them to others who are thought by the defendant to be even more compliant. The serious evil is where a sense of the right of the defendant to change and a desire on the part of the judge to avoid any appearance of partiality induces a conscientious and courageous judge to grand petitions which a thorough test would show were ill-founded and a mere device to escape a fair trial. Perhaps it is not the law which needs amendment but a too great leniency among judges.

We think the crime commission will add to its record of public service by thoroughly studying conditions and making public its conclusions.

A NEW POLICE HEAD.

Repeated bombings in Chicago can only be accounted for by incompetence or connivance in the police department. The responsibility of the head of the department is unescapable. There has been no disposition to take snap judgment against Acting Commissioner Alcock. Both the mayor and the public have been patient awaiting results. But there is a limit to rational patience and we think it has been reached. The bombing nuisance is unabated, though time enough has been allowed for its abatement if not its complete suppression. The mayor now is determined to try a new hand and we are confident that decision will have public approval.

The selection of a new commissioner presents a difficult problem. Changes of personnel in this office have often brought no change in conditions so far as the interest of the public is concerned. They have sometimes produced worse, and usually their results have been registered only in the shift of political influence. In the present situation Mayor Cermak's good faith and intention to get better police administration will be generally granted. The problem is to find a man who combines competence with the will to serve the public rather than the obscure interests of corrupt politics. We do not doubt there are such men on the force, but only after fair trial shall we know we have one. That fair trial, we are confident, will be given any man the mayor appoints. The community is aroused to its need for faithful and efficient police service. It will back the mayor in insisting upon it and any commissioner who is really determined that the department shall give it. The task is not easy, but neither is it impossible with the support of the mayor and the public. The interests and influences which ally crime and corrupt politics will continue to make themselves felt, but their power has been weakened of late and it can be broken.

THE HOUSE OF COBWEBS.

M. K. Yoshizawa, chief Japanese delegate to the council of the league of nations, refused at Monday's session to transmit the league's proposal for even participation in the negotiations with China. "Foreign participants in the discussion are useless" he said, "and my government does not think it necessary to call in outsiders." That, for China, for the league, for the internationalists and pacifists, for the peace pacts and consultative treaties, the world court and its addicts, for the whole mechanism of brotherly love, is the upshot of the matter.

The league of nations, with Japan brushing through it, does not look as substantial as a busted cobweb, but it still represents the ideas to which the American government apparently is determined to trust the future of the United States in foreign relations. One worthless peace pact will be followed by another, one foolish agreement by another, one futile conference by another. America closes its shipyards and invites peace negotiations, shuts down naval building and opens up conferences. The league of nations, confronted by Japan, proves that no one who is not either a fool or a hypocrite can pretend to believe in its intentions or value in any affair of international consequence.

BUY A SUIT AND GIVE AWAY AN OLD.

This is the season when folks put away their clothes. This year they would do better to send them to Sally Joy Brown and thus help the needy. There is a limit even to the worthy virtue of thrift, and the presence of thousands of our fellow men and women and their children who have not the means of providing for themselves should remind us of that fact. The winter months intensify their need and the problem of providing for it every one must do his part to solve.

Buy now is also justified by low prices and by the fact that buying at this time, as Mr. Gifford has reminded us, is not only directly profitable but will bring benefit indirectly in bettering conditions for all. We owe a duty to the unemployed, but also to the employed that they may be kept at work.

Editorial of the Day

JAPAN LEAVES OUT FANCY.

[The State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

The relationship of nations, as it is and not as it ought to be, is revealed by developments in connection with the situation that has arisen in China.

When all the great powers of the earth were closely engaged in consideration of grave affairs, especially the matter of national solvency, Japan struck, without the slightest previous intimation of its intent, in behalf of its interests in Manchuria, especially as represented at Mukden.

Naturally, protests have been forwarded by the powers of the earth. Japan has politely received the protests and even gone so far as to promise to make everything right just as soon as the right in the matter can be dispassionately determined. To date, however, its position is pretty much meaningless so far as any actual restoration is involved.

The league of nations has been brought into the matter. The league is being told as the United States is being told that Japan intends to offer a satisfactory solution just as soon as such a solution can be formulated. In the meantime Japan sits down on its apparent objective in a contented frame of mind.

One does not have to be deeply read in international affairs to know that any international investigation can be made to drag out interminably, that, so far as most of us are concerned, we will come to forget all about the Japanese thrust into Manchuria while an obscure international committee looks the situation over. By one pretext or another the investigation can be made to drag out for at least a decade. In the meantime, Japan, following precedent, will dig in.

How different the actual situation from the fancied situation that has been raised about international difficulties and disputes. The fancy has been that when a dispute might arise between nations, the issue would be submitted to the league of nations or to the world court and on the decision of one or both of these bodies the dispute would be decided. But in the case of Japan's recent thrust in China, nothing of the kind comes about. There was not the slightest intimation of any dispute. There was not the merest hint that Japan intended to strike. But, at the strategic moment, however, Japan did strike and strike hard. It struck for a purpose, and apparently does not intend to be balked of that purpose.

There is a vast deal of difference between the world fancied as it ought to be and as it is.

STERILIZING SHOES AND STOCKINGS

ONE reason for the difficulty in curing some cases of athlete's foot is that we fail to take care of a few of the things that call for control. We apply dyes and salves to the sites of infection that force themselves on our attention by reason of itching, redness, soreness, or pain, but we overlook some places in which the microbe is quietly lurking.

That itching sensation may be very disagreeable, but it serves a useful purpose in that it says in its own language: "Here is the bug you are after. Come and swat it." You heed the call and apply what is usually a pretty well thought out treatment to the area that has the needed sign flying in the breeze. The result is that the itching spot is cured for the time.

Then treatment stops. Whereupon the infection crawls out of some crack in which it was hiding, goes over the old battleground, and starts digging again. One of these often neglected lurking places is the toe nails. In hairy parts of the body the hair shaft is another port of safety in a storm.

Dr. Samuel Ayers calls attention to the necessity of paying some attention to the shoes and stockings. The bathroom floor and the rug thereon are also hiding places. The microbes of the fungus family have no trouble in living on skin, in nails and hairs, in the fabric of rugs, and on floors. Dr. Ayers thinks we should treat the man's house and clothes, as well as his toes.

His plan is to treat the feet by one of the methods now in use, and to supplement by fumigating the shoes, stockings, bathroom floor and rugs, at least twice during the course of treatment. This he does once, about one week after the beginning of local treatment. He repeats about the termination of treatment.

He has the person put his shoes and stockings in the bathroom, light a formaldehyde candle in there, close the door, and leave the objects exposed to the fumes for four hours. Presumably he makes use of formaldehyde fumes in preference to the more efficient sulphur fumes because of the harm to fabrics and polishes that the latter may do.

However, it is possible to protect surfaces and fabrics against sulphur fumes; and other fumigating agents are effective. It is possible to get the effects of sulphur by the use of solutions such as hyposulphite of soda solution. This is used to wipe floors, wash rugs, and to kill fungi in shoes and stockings.

GO ON AND SWIM.

G. R. writes: I am a young man and am bothered by superfluous hair which appears in such conspicuous places on my back, arms, and shoulders as to make it very embarrassing. I do not go in swimming on this account. Have tried various depilatories which remove the hair, but it comes right back. Is there a permanent way of removing it?

REPLY.

There is nothing practicable. Why not go swimming? Many ladies prefer the "hairy type." Many "hairy ape" men are glad of a chance to strut their stuff.

PROCTITIS.

Mrs. N. B. writes: What causes proctitis and can it be cured?

REPLY.

Proctitis merely means inflammation of the rectum. The treatment depends on the kind. For instance, it may be one of several forms of dysentery, or ulcer due to ameba coli, or something else.

EXAMINE CONTRACT.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last February I took a mortgage on my furniture and since that time I lost my position, but I managed to keep up the payments promptly until this month, when I could not pay. I did pay the interest to date a few days ago. There is just one payment due and the finance people told me last Tuesday that unless I paid up the loan entirely by Friday they would take the furniture away. 1. The company claims that when the payments aren't met the entire sum becomes due. 2. Under what circumstances could they take my furniture? A. M.

1. The contract probably contains such wording.

2. Your rights depend largely upon the wording of the contract. Presumably, it authorizes them to take the furniture upon any default.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

QUITE A COLLECTION.

Chicago, Sept. 15. — [Friend of the People.]—I live next door to a party who has about 4,000 pigeons, 42 chickens and six dogs. When the weather is damp the odor from this place makes it necessary to close all windows in my house. Also the lice and bugs from these pigeons and chickens get all over my property. We are also bothered with numerous rats which come from the sheds occupied by the fowls. Can anything be done about this? H. N.

You are advised that, due to a former complaint, an inspector was assigned to make a thorough investigation, which resulted in the following report: "No pigeons flying around premises. No fouling of dogs was observed. No nuisance apparent at time of inspection." However, a reinspection will be made, and if any violation is noted, proper action will be taken to effect an abatement. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, Commissioner of Health.

CONTRACT CONTROLS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A buys a second hand car from B [a dealer]. After making one payment A didn't have a steady job. A saw B and told him he could not pay for the car. 1. Could he return it? B accepted the returned car. Six weeks from the date A returned car B sent A an itemized bill for repairs on said car. 2. Should B have notified A if car needed repairing? 3. Can B collect bill through legal procedure? 4. If legal procedure is followed, can A demand a jury trial in court? G. C.

1. Presumably the contract authorized B to repossess the car, sell for A's account and hold A for the balance. If there was no substitute agreement, then B may be in a position to collect more than he is now claiming. If there was a substitute agreement, we should have its wording.

2. This would have seemed wise.

3. See No. 1.

4. Yes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OCTOBER 1. October—but nix on the three rousing cheers stuff. We usually do that at the beginning of every month, because we think that the new month can't possibly be as bad as the one just past. That's why we cheered lustily for September when the fool thing arrived just thirty days ago. Ah, at last, golden, gorgeous, merry old September with its soft blue haze, its gentle, mellow days, the goldfinch singing in the sunflower seeds, and a saucy squirrel chattering in the woods. Seasonal employment was going to put everybody back to work and money would gush like geysers all over the place because people would be buying undies for winter. Done with summer, things would pick up all over the place and the stock market, tired of nose diving to new lows, would rise like a skylark on the wings to the fleecy clouds high o'erhead. That's what we thought when gorgeous golden September arrived. Yes, and what a bum that month turned out to be. And as far as the golden part, it was in golden September that England gave gold a kick in the pants. September, the reverse of three rousing cheers for September. We said September had to be a good month; at least it couldn't be any worse than the months that had come before it. It couldn't, hey? It couldn't? And what did September do but let us down worse than any month we've had this year. September! One good for nothing, lousy month, that's all we'll say about September. But now it's October. Yes, October, purple October, with its Indian summer and the leaves turning to red and gold and brown. October—wait! We raved about September, and look at the dam thing now. It's October—all right, October, we'll wait and see what you've got.

AVIATOR'S PRAYER.

Lord, through the driving mists and storms
Blindly the threatening skies we grope.
Grant us the strength to hold our course!
Grant us the courage of Thy hope!

High in Thy brilliant upper air,
Filled with the joy of soul set free,
We shall come close to Thee, O Lord,
Turning our singing hearts to Thee!

Low, where the sullen danger lurks,
Swathed in the smoky wraiths of rain,
Be it our fate to crash to earth—
Wilt Thou not lift us to fly again?

Under the shadow of Thy wings,
Each has been given a course to fly;
Thank Thee, O Lord, for grant of life,
Courage to strive, and strength to die!

H. G. WELLS has his remedy for the world's troubles, as who has not? H. G. thinks the world should be declared bankrupt, war should be abolished, and all foreign offices, diplomatic services, arsenals, dockyards, war offices, navies, and air forces thrown on the scrap pile and the earth ruled by a dictator. Everything Mr. Wells proposes seems perfectly simple except selecting the dictator. When we see how much people are divided over the comparatively much smaller matters of electing an alderman or of choosing the secretary-treasurer of the Sunshine Pet Stock and Culture club we see how difficult it might be for all of the people in the world to decide on a universal dictator.

Has each its hour of mingled joy and woe;

That spite of all will keep life's pattern true.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 1, 1915.

LONDON.—The battle for the German line of second defense in Champagne—the collapse of which would menace the greater part of the German position in the west—is proceeding with the greatest stubbornness. At several points the French troops have gained a footing in the second line, and some even went through, but, encountering German reserves, were unable to maintain their progress. According to the German account, these latter troops, nearly a brigade, were captured or exterminated.

NEW YORK.—Members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. said tonight that a single subscription for more than $30,000,000 of the Anglo-French bond issue had been received from one of the wealthiest men in the United States. They declined to reveal his identity.

CHICAGO.—Two guards were on duty last night outside the Evanston residence of Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the first Chicago banker to announce his intention to recommend subscription to the proposed $500,000,000 loan to the allies. The guards were put there on the insistence of Mr. Dawes' friends after they had learned of the receipt of several threatening letters.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 1, 1901.

NEW YORK.—After two days' rest following the great race off Sandy Hook lightship on last Saturday, everything was made ready today aboard the Columbia and the Shamrock II. for the second race of the series for the America cup which is to take place tomorrow over a triangular course of thirty miles. Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger will sail this time with new and lighter canvas.

BENNINGTON, Vt.—Ten thousand English sovereigns [$50,000], after lying for nearly 125 years in an old hulk of a ship at the bottom of East bay, Lake Champlain, has been recovered. For many years there had been a tradition of a sunken boat containing a large amount of gold with which it was intended to pay off the British troops under Gen. Burgoyne in 1777. The money was to have been delivered at Ticonderoga, but Burgoyne was in pursuit of Gen. St. Clair's army at the time and the boat put out on East bay, where it was attacked by American troops and its commander sank the ship.

MANILA.—Sergt. Markley and a private of Company C of the Ninth infantry, which was surprised at Balangiga, Samar, by insurgents, escaped across the bay and have reported on the action. The troops were attacked while unprepared by 400 bolomen. Many of the soldiers were killed in their quarters before they had time to grasp their rifles, and Sergt. Markley asserts that officers of the company, including Capt. Thomas W. Connell, Lieut. Edward A. Pumpus, and Major Surgeon R. S. Griswold, who were first reported to have escaped, were killed. He says 140 of the bolomen were slain. Connell distinguished himself at the storming of Pekin and last February was made captain of Company C.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NEW YORK.—Subscriptions to the fund for Mrs. Garfield, widow of the assassinated President, now amount to $333,796.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Friends of Mrs. Garfield have been informed that she is greatly shocked to learn that a large part of the remains of her husband is now in a medical museum here. She consented to the injured vertebra and the rib being brought here because she understood that they might be used in the trial of the assassin, but she never consented to the bringing of anything else, and believed that all the rest of the body of her husband was in the casket in Ohio.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The thirty-sixth lottery drawing of the Commonwealth Distribution company occurred today. The capital prize of $30,000 was drawn by ticket 71,256; the second prize, $10,000, by ticket 40,150, and the third prize, $5,000, by ticket 93,014.

THE TEACHERS' PLIGHT.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Schools have opened and are operating as in other years when the teachers were not wondering how they could pay their carfare and eat. In many cases their reserve cash has been wiped out by bank failures, their conservative investments, which were advised by bankers, are worth less than their engrossing. Scrip is being issued, but it is refused by most of the purveyors of necessities. Something must be done immediately if schools are to remain open more than a few weeks.

Parents of school children should, if at all possible, pay their taxes. Chicago charges out of town pupils $175 per year, so it should be worth one's taxes to have his children in school.

Street car, elevated and bus companies should issue transportation books and accept scrip in payment. Gas stations should do the same thing. Food will be an acute problem unless we are paid soon, and if the neighborhood grocer cannot accept scrip surely the prosperous chain stores can form some plan to finance this want. Some companies which have had very little of the teachers' money in the past have exhausted their cash resources buying scrip, while others who have had millions from them refuse to take any.

C. G. WILLIAMS.

THE MISSISSIPPI.

Galena, Ill., Sept. 16.—Mr. William A. Buchanan's idea for unemployment relief by improvement of the Mississippi river, is a splendid idea. We who have enjoyed the river most of our lives are alarmed by the octopus like sand bars and mud banks which are choking the life and vigor of the father of waters.

Last August on a supposed trip from Dubuque to Bellevue, Ia., on the steamer Capitol, we could only go a few miles due to low water and obstructions. Then we scraped bottom and stayed there for a while. On the return trip an outboard motor boat went ahead and prodded for depth enough to let the Capitol through. All this in the main channel of the Mississippi.

Save the unemployed and restore our river and maintain a channel and give the next generation a chance to see the Mississippi, 'cause it is going fast.

A BIG LAUGH.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—In your editorial, "What Shall Be Taught in the Schools?" you pan the board of education for its ignorance. Well, the author of your editorial has certainly given a big laugh to a lot of people in the school system. If you will take the time to read section 130 of the school act, you will discover that it is the superintendent of schools and not the board of education who prescribes the courses of study, etc.

ONE OF THE TEACHING STAFF.

THIS SCRAMBLED WORLD.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—After reading the news for the last week, including the opinions of the various experts, we have decided to issue a statement so that every one will understand the conditions as well as we do. The pound is valued at less than it was last week; so we evidently all weigh more, as you get more pounds at twelve ounces to the pound. However, if cotton goes up Huey Long goes down and the Lancashire spinners will get a 10 per cent cut, because steel production is low, which will help to balance the English budget, which shows that after all ideas are only memory and mind is an exercise. But this will not happen until the state roads are all paved, and if not the bonus should be paid on a silver basis, as the Legion can spend it in Windsor, although the price of goat's milk will not rise if Harbin is captured while the league of nations is observing its day of silence. And if Indiana is given three men on bases and Notre Dame makes the first touchdown the professional football players will win the world's series unless they find a few more lost flyers. Verily, it is all clear in a civilized world.

JOHN NEWTON.

ESSAY ON GOOD WILL.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 17.—I thought now that Bill Thompson has passed out of politics you would have been big enough to surrender your ill feeling toward the British empire. I thought we were living in the age when we could say to each other, "peace on earth and good will towards men," but your cartoon evidently means that you are still looking forward to the fall of the British empire.

Most of our jealous friends have been doing that for centuries, but the old lion is still as peppery as ever, and we will come out ahead again just the same as we have done before. The fall of the British empire would be a death blow to the world, especially the United States of America.

Canada is proud to be under John Bull; so is Australia. And if India was to get independence it would, as you know darn well, be a bloody massacre of Hindus and Moslems. It is a pity that your paper should always offer the grand slam, as we on this side of the line always extend a courteous hand to tourists from the U. S. A. and mean it. Perhaps your sentiments are not with your paper; perhaps these slams are offered because you are catering to Chicago, which city is 90 per cent foreign to the word "American."

JOHN G. PATERSON.

FOR CATS.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Now that we have built a nice home for the dogs, would it be possible to erect a similar institution for cats somewhere, say in Switzerland, where they can yodel to their nine hearts' content? S.

SCHOOL BOARD LOSES 1ST ROUND IN SCRIP BATTLE

Judge Halts Issuance of Paper Pending Ruling.

The school board lost its first round in the scrip battle with the Chicago Teachers' federation yesterday when Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court overruled the board's general demurrer. The board was given five days in which to file an answer to the petition for an injunction which would prevent the board from issuing any more scrip to pay teachers. Pending his ruling on the issuance of the restraining order, Judge Finnegan ordered that no more scrip be issued and threatened to issue a temporary injunction unless the school board elects to follow that course.

JUDGE FINNEGAN.

"As soon as the school board attorneys file their answer and the petitioners have had an opportunity to reply," Judge Finnegan said, "the matter will be referred to a master in chancery for immediate attention. This is an important matter and every effort must be made to expedite settlement."

Surprises Board's Lawyers.

Judge Finnegan's ruling on the demurrer came as a surprise to attorneys for the school board and was hailed as a victory by representatives of the Teachers' federation, who filed the petition. The judge's order was interpreted as including the additional $6,000,000 worth of scrip voted at the last board meeting. Attorneys for the federation asked that it be understood that they were not challenging the validity of the $8,000,000 worth of scrip which has been issued already.

Respondents named in the petition are Mayor Cermak, Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, and five other city and school board officials. It was filed on behalf of Mary M. Abbe, 6619 Yale avenue, a teacher in the Marshall school and president of the Chicago Teachers' federation, and David Rosenheim, 5235 Roosevelt road, a taxpayer.

The bill asks that the court enjoin the officials of the school board from issuing any more participation certificates and restrain the city officials from countersigning and delivering any tax anticipation warrants to the board.

Scrip Action Under Fire.

The petitioners charge that the school trustees exceeded their authority in issuing the participation certificates. The resolution presented to the board on June 29, under which the city comptroller and the mayor were directed to countersign $2,000,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants as a basis for the scrip, was not actually passed, they charged in the original action, because only five of the eleven trustees voted for it.

The bill also alleges that the scrip which has been issued is "substantially different from that described by resolution and adopted by the board." The board is charged with negligence in not properly safeguarding the scrip from counterfeiting. According to the action, the scrip is prepared by an ordinary printing process on inferior paper.

SWING CRUSHES BOY'S SKULL.

Pana, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Eugene Fisher, 7, of Radford, north of here, suffered a crushed skull when he ran in front of a swing while at play at the Assumption grade school. The swing struck him in the right temple.

TRUSTEES TO TELL PAYLESS TEACHERS ABOUT RELIEF PLANS

At a meeting of the holdover members of the school board yesterday it was decided to explain to Chicago's 14,000 unpaid teachers just what plans are being propounded for their relief. Three massmeetings of teachers were scheduled. The trustees agreed to appear before west side teachers at Crane college Friday afternoon; north side teachers at Lake View High school on Monday afternoon, and south side teachers at Hyde Park High school Tuesday afternoon.

Chief among the proposed relief measures is a recommendation now being prepared for submission to the governor's revenue commission for the issuance of $50,000,000 in bonds. The plan has been characterized as "cheap politics" by Trustees Robert F. Carr and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan.

Impatient at the delay and the prospect of another payless pay day a week from Friday, teachers at Senn High school yesterday telegraphed their protest to Gov. Emmerson.

"When will the special session of the legislature convene?" asked the message. "Chicago teachers have shown remarkable civic responsibility in carrying on this fall in spite of the fact that the city has failed to pay them since last spring and in face the further fact that there is little evidence that the situation will be remedied this fall."

FRENCH OFFER $100,000,000 LOAN FOR SUEZ RIGHTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The French Suez Canal company, which operates the Suez canal under a 100 year concession from the Egyptian government, has offered a $100,000,000 loan to Cairo at interest of 1 per cent, provided the contract is extended another 50 years.

The British interest in the canal is represented by shares formerly held by the late khedive, bought when Benjamin Disraeli was prime minister. The French also have offered a "divvy" in the net profits of the canal with the Egyptians. They will give them 8 per cent of the net profits but demand in return that French employés on the canal shall be double the number of Egyptians and other foreigners.

The French offered the Egyptians a $20,000,000 loan in 1919 for an extension of their concession when the government was pressed for money, but the loan was obtained from Great Britain instead.

PAY ROLLS DROP 20.8 PCT. IN YEAR, EMPLOYMENT 12.4

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.] — Pay roll decreases dropped faster than employment totals in manufacturing industries during the last year, department of labor figures disclosed today. Statistics showing a decrease of 12.4 per cent in employment and 20.8 in pay roll totals, were interpreted as indicating widespread curtailment of industrial operations as well as increasing wage cuts.

The change during the month, according to labor figures, was not so great proportionately as during the other eleven, employment decreasing .06 and pay roll totals dropping 1.0 per cent in August over July.

Included in one of the department's summaries was a report from Ralph B. Powers, Illinois state director of employment.

"In general," Mr. Powers' report said, "unemployment among skilled and unskilled workers continued in practically all localities." Curtailed operating schedules and considerable part time employment existed in nearly all the manufacturing industries, according to Mr. Powers. Employment gains were registered, he said, however, in some localities, due to an expanded volume of building, water way projects, harvesting of the bumper peach crop, highway construction, municipal improvements, and a demand for extra help for grain threshing in August.

"The employment situation in Chicago," said Mr. Powers' report, "showed no improvement."

25 ALCOHOLIC CASES TOTAL AT LEGION RALLY

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—According to a report submitted today to the public welfare commission by Dr. E. T. Olsen, superintendent of the Receiving hospital, 147 Legionnaires were given first aid treatment for minor injuries and illness during the recent convention. Of the 46 admitted as bed patients about 25 were suffering from the effects of liquor.

Dr. Alexander W. Blain, a member of the commission, said he thought these figures constituted a "fine showing" by the Legionnaires.

SEEKS TO CLEAR SON'S NAME OF SUICIDE STIGMA

A petition to erase a verdict of suicide and hold a new inquest was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Mrs. Helen Jackson, 6615 South Oakley avenue, whose son, John J. Jackson, 17 years old, a bookkeeper, was shot to death on Aug. 7. This action is an unusual legal procedure, according to Attorney Samuel H. Holland, who filed the petition.

Mrs. Jackson's petition, which is directed against Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, sets forth that only two witnesses were heard at the inquest. These were Policeman George Johnston of the Chicago Lawn station and Dr. Raymond J. Thoma. The members of the family, grief stricken, were unable to testify. A verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health was returned.

The mother declared that there was nothing in her son's life to lead to such a verdict. He had told several of his friends that he intended to repair the .22 caliber rifle with which he was shot, Mrs. Jackson said.

FIELD BUILDING TO MAKE WORK FOR 7,500 MEN

Employment will be given 7,500 men in the erection of the Field building, the 42 story office structure which the Marshall Field estate is to erect at La Salle and Adams streets, it was said yesterday by George Richardson, trustee of the estate.

Five hundred men are now engaged in wrecking the Home Insurance building, the pioneer skyscraper which has stood for 47 years on the site of the first unit of the new building. It will take 60 days to finish razing the building.

Work will be provided for 2,000 men in the actual erection of the Field building, a project requiring three years for completion. In addition, 5,000 men will be engaged in preparing materials for the structure in steel mills, quarries, and various building material plants in and about Chicago.

For a higher type of Intelligence...

In a good many ways, Pebeco is like a most expensive hat. Its appeal is to the discriminating few. Its character is not obvious—it has something which intelligence alone can appreciate.

That "something" is the expensive ingredient comprising 40% of every tube. This vital ingredient is in no other dentifrice.

At first Pebeco may seem to have an unfriendly taste. You may not like it, for it is not doctored with pleasant, meaningless flavors or loaded with foamy soap.

But soon you will learn to love Pebeco's refreshing tang; soon you will enjoy the "bite" which is its signature. And when you stop to think about it you will realize that all the advertising claims in the world cannot help your teeth—that it is what is in the tooth paste that counts.

Wherever people do the intelligent thing naturally—and not at someone's else dictation—you will find Pebeco preferred. Is your choice of a personal tooth paste the result of your own thinking?

DRIVE FOR LARGE JOBLESS RELIEF GIFTS ON TODAY

City Discusses 7 Million Emergency Issue.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The drive for large individual gifts from rich and well-to-do residents of Cook county to relieve the unemployed and destitute begins today. Solicitation of funds from other sources will start later in the month. A total of $1,500,000 is the goal of private contributions at which the joint emergency relief organization is aiming.

A corps of more than 200 workers starts this morning soliciting large contributions under the leadership of Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. Associated with him in the supervision of the field forces are Kent S. Clow, Max Epstein, D. F. Kelly, George E. Scott, and John Stuart, as vice chairmen.

Must Get Large Gifts.

"We must get larger gifts than ever before," announced Mr. Hutchins. "The need is greater than ever before and every man and woman of means must give larger amounts than they have ever before considered."

This view of President Hutchins was vigorously emphasized yesterday by Mayor Cermak and by the council committee on unemployment, headed by Ald. James B. Waller. They discussed at length a proposal to issue $7,000,000 in bonds to provide work for the unemployed. It was originally suggested that this proposal be placed before Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission to obtain its approval, but later this action was deferred for further consideration of the idea.

Six weeks ago, when the preliminaries for relief were first discussed, it was urged that the county should obtain $5,000,000 to buy coal, clothing, and food for destitute families.

Suggest Additional $10,000,000.

A few days ago it was suggested that the county should raise $10,000,000 in addition to the $8,800,000 to be collected by private subscription. This followed the disclosure that 800 per cent more families required relief in August than in the same month of last year.

On top of these sums the Waller aldermanic committee yesterday talked of a $7,000,000 bond issue to provide employment, but the conversation ran against the limitation of the bonding power of the municipality. That unexercised bonding power is a trifle over $27,000,000, according to City Controller S. M. Szymczak, who proposed to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission Tuesday evening that it be utilized to pull the city government out of its financial difficulties.

Must Have Practical Plan.

"We can't dump this matter in the lap of anybody," commented Ald. Oscar F. Nelson in suggesting a course of procedure which was finally adopted. "To get any attention from the governor's commission we must have a feasible and practical plan, worked out in advance."

To do that the committee delayed action, but previously Mayor Cermak had suggested that the governor's commission might well provide means of getting cash to clean the city's streets, which would incidentally provide employment.

"We are working our men, who are cleansing the streets and alleys, two and three days a week," said the mayor. "I wish we had money to keep them employed. If they could get money for that service it would be a wonderful help.

County to Keep Workers.

"I talked with the president of the county board last week and he told me that in order to help the situation he would not lay off forest preserve workers, although that branch of the county function is practically closed for the year. He plans to put these employes at other work."

Col. Edward J. Blair, representing the joint emergency relief organization, told the aldermen and mayor that $446,000 was spent last winter in street cleaning by the general relief organization. He added:

"On the strength of your request, turning toward Mayor Cermak, I will ask the organization to make $1,000,000 available for this winter, and as soon as practicable."

Mullenbach Tells Plans.

James Mullenbach, who has been actively interested in the unemployed, said: "For family relief we plan joint emergency stations where the heads of families may register, and we shall use public buildings for that purpose.

City employés, most of whom have not been paid for a month, will obtain some financial relief today or tomorrow. City Controller Szymczak and City Treasurer Kearns yesterday borrowed $2,000,000 from the city's surplus funds by the sale to the city itself of that amount of 1931 tax anticipation warrants.

The city yesterday received $175,000 of money heretofore tied up in closed banks.

At the urging of Assistant Corporation Counsel Martin A. Foss, the insurance companies turned in $100,000 on behalf of the South Side Trust and Savings bank and $75,000 for the West Town State bank. A total of $265,000 is still tied up in three other closed banks.

GOOD WILL INDUSTRIES APPEAL FOR CLOTHES FOR UNEMPLOYED MEN

To care for the rapidly growing line of unemployed men, which is including an increasing number of former white collar workers, an emergency appeal to housewives of Chicago and neighboring towns was issued yesterday by the Goodwill Industries in an effort to gather discarded wearing apparel. Goodwill trucks will call for any offerings, according to Walter C. Loague, superintendent.

"While the demand for discarded wearing apparel has already shown a marked increase, there has already been a correspondingly larger decrease in the available supply, due to the widespread influence of the depression and unemployment," said Mr. Loague.

PRISONER SEES A HARD WINTER; DECLINES PAROLE

It looks like a hard winter to Joseph White, a Negro trusty in the Joliet penitentiary, and if it's all the same to the authorities he'd rather stay in prison. White, who has served three years of a sentence for robbery imposed in Chicago, was informed yesterday by the state parole board that he is eligible to parole.

"I get plenty to eat here and a place to sleep, and everybody treats me nice," he told the board members. "I don't want to be turned out and have to look for a job and beg food. I'd just as soon stay here this winter, or even another year. Do I have to take that parole?"

Since the prisoner had no one to sponsor him or find employment for him, the board continued his case.

PROTESTS LEVY OF FURTHER TAX ON BUSINESSES

State Income Assessment Called Extra Burden.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A protest against placing more taxes on business will be made by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, in an article to be published by Industrial Review, official publication of the association.

Mr. Donnelly questions the claim of real estate associations and owners that realty carries "85 per cent of the tax burden." He says:

"In 1927—the last year for which complete figures are available—Illinois collected approximately $392,000,000 in general property taxes, of which it is estimated that real estate contributed $305,000,000 and personal property $87,000,000.

"On this basis, real estate paid about 80 per cent of the general property taxes. But there are other taxes.

Points to Other Taxes.

"During that same year of 1927, the taxpayers of Illinois paid about $225,617,000 in taxes in addition to the $392,000,000 of general taxes, or a total tax bill of $617,617,000. These other taxes are federal income, corporation, business license, occupational, inheritance, motor vehicle, and other miscellaneous taxes."

Discussing the principal relief for real estate so far considered by Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission, Mr. Donnelly continues:

"This principal proposal is a state income tax. It is the experience of various states having an income tax that it is not a practical method of raising revenue.

"There are 20 states having an income tax, of which 15 have used that system for eight years or more. In every one of these states the general property tax remains the chief source of income.

Income Tax Revenue Cited.

"In 1927 only four states—Massachusetts, New York, Wisconsin, and North Carolina—raised as much as $4,000,000 from an income tax. In no state was more than 10 or 12 per cent of the aggregate income obtained from income taxes."

Regarding an effective remedy for the financial difficulties of the local governments, Mr. Donnelly has written:

"The principal reason for the distress of the local governments is that their expenditures have exceeded their income in the last few years. The per capita tax burden in 1913 was $22.66 and in 1928 it was $77.39.

"There is only one practical remedy for our troubles. That is a reduction in public expenditures, economy in governmental operations, and the application of sound business methods to the administration of public offices."

GOT DIVORCE BY FRAUD, CHARGE IN WIFE'S NEW BILL

Charging that she obtained a divorce by perjured testimony at her husband's urging, Mrs. Catherine L. Hollingsworth, 29 years old, 836 West 71st street, filed a bill in the Superior court yesterday asking that the divorce be annuled and that she be granted separate maintenance.

Mrs. Hollinsworth charged that her husband, Robert, told her last spring that he had no opportunity to become an aviation engineer, but that to advance rapidly in that profession he would have to be single. She agreed to divorce him, she charges.

Her bill charges that her husband first conferred with a lawyer, whom she did not name, and that she then saw the lawyer, who had drawn up a bill charging her husband with cruelty. Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted her a divorce on July 16 after she, her sister, and a man whom she had seen but once before testified, falsely she charges now, to the instances of cruelty on the dates fixed by the lawyer.

RAIDS ON KNOWN GAMBLING DENS ARE HELD LEGAL Tells When Police May Act Without Warrants.

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday gave Mayor Cermak a long opinion, holding that police have broad powers of arrest without search warrants, which may be exercised in the mayor's campaign against gambling.

W. H. SEXTON.

The opinion distinguishes raids made on mere suspicion, or in the hope of finding evidence of crime from those made with knowledge that a crime has been or is being committed. The knowledge, the opinion holds, may either be the result of a policeman having witnessed the crime or of having received information from a reliable source that it has been committed or is contemplated. Raids of the first class are illegal without search warrants. Those falling in the second are legal, and may be made the basis of prosecutions without such warrants, the opinion holds.

Defines Search and Seizure.

"The question of search and seizure without a warrant, and the question of arrest without a warrant, have sometimes been confused," the opinion states. "Though they are closely related they are quite distinct in law.

"A search and seizure in the strict sense is an investigation for the purpose of determining whether an arrest shall be made, or for the purpose of procuring evidence for a trial. An independent search of that character can be made only under authority of a warrant.

"On the other hand, an incidental search of the person of a prisoner after he has been arrested, or of the house in which he was arrested, is not regarded by the courts as a search and seizure in the constitutional sense such as would require an antecedent search warrant."

Can Seize Illegal Property.

The opinion, which was fourteen pages long, cites a score or more of cases as backing its conclusion. It pointed out that since possession of gambling apparatus is illegal, police have somewhat broader powers in seizing it than they have in seizing property lawfully held. In conclusion the opinion states:

"We are of the opinion that an officer may arrest a person without a warrant for a crime committed or attempted in his presence, and in cases where a criminal offense, felony or misdemeanor, has in fact been committed and the officer has reasonable ground for believing that the person to be arrested has committed it; that incidental thereto the officer may seize any evidence of the crime found on the person of the prisoner or on the premises where the arrest takes place.

"This, however, does not mean that a raid may be made first, on mere suspicion, and an arrest made thereafter, upon evidence obtained by such a raid. The officer in making an arrest without a warrant must first have some independent knowledge, not necessarily such evidence as is required to make it admissible in court, but reliable information, that a crime has been committed, in order to make his arrest of the prisoner lawful.

May Be Used as Evidence.

"But when this condition has been fulfilled, and the arrest accordingly is lawful, the officer may follow up such an arrest by searching the person of a prisoner and the premises where the arrest takes place. Such incidental search and seizure is not an unreasonable search and seizure in the constitutional sense and any articles bearing upon the crime, obtained in this manner, are properly admissible in evidence at the trial."

Mayor Cermak, who has had several controversies with judges because of dismissal of prisoners seized in gambling raids without search warrants, said on receiving the opinion:

"I was always of the opinion that the police could suppress any observable crime or law violation, and that applies to gambling as well as anything else. The opinion verifies my impression."

The opinion was prepared by Joseph F. Grossman, second assistant corporation counsel, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Carl J. Appell.

Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan imposed fines of $25 each yesterday on five operators of policy games who had been arrested without search warrants, holding in each case that the police had sufficient evidence for action without warrants.

U. S. ARMY TO USE AMERICAN MATCHES; RUSSIA LOSES OUT

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—A reversal of the war department's policy which formerly furnished Russian matches for the army's use was revealed today by the joint conference on the Russian Situation, Inc., with the announcement that new contracts, specifying watches of domestic manufacture, had been made with an American company.

The new contracts were made by the war department under the provisions of a recent amendment to the army appropriation act which authorizes the secretary of war to purchase at his discretion "only articles of growth, production or manufacture of the United States," even at a slightly higher cost. Matches produced in soviet Russia were formerly purchased for the army under the regulations calling for contracts to be let to the lowest bidder, regardless of nationality.

PICK LOCATION FOR TABLET ON WABASH BRIDGE

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, accompanied by representatives from several civic bodies, yesterday selected the location for placing the bronze tablet on the Wabash avenue bridge, which recently was awarded by the American Institute of Steel Construction in its annual award for the most beautiful steel bridge erected during 1930. The unveiling and presentation to the city of Chicago will take place on Oct. 21.

James Simpson, president of the Chicago Plan commission; Eugene Taylor, manager, and Hugh Young, chief engineer of the same body; Thomas G. Pihlfeldt, engineer of bridge design; Frederick M. Bowes, president of the Wacker Drive association, and William C. Calvert, executive secretary of the North Central association, were present.

The original design for the Wabash avenue bridge called for overhead trusses, which is good engineering but not so good from the standpoint of appearance. The Chicago Plan commission worked out a new design with the main portion of the bridge structure beneath the floor of the bridge and with the trusses coming up above the floor only to railing height. This is the design which the bridge division of the department of public works followed and which won the award of merit.

HUNT SMUGGLING VESSEL FULL OF CHINESE WOMEN

San Pedro, Cal., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The entire coast guard fleet of southern California was searching the seas today for a sailing schooner with 150 Chinese women aboard, intended to be smuggled into the United States, according to advices from the San Diego base.

Scouting units of the navy and aircraft also put to sea. Reports said the craft had been sighted off the Coronado islands. For more than a month and a half coast guard and naval authorities have been searching for the vessel, reported to be a three masted auxiliary schooner, but only last night she was reported in American waters.

VATICAN ACCEPTS SPAIN'S DEMAND TO OUST PRIMATE

Cardinal Segura Will Be Kept in Exile.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MADRID, Sept. 30.—The Vatican today made a sensationally conciliatory gesture which the church authorities and conservative members of the Spanish government hope will go much to ease the hostility of the Spanish leftards toward the church.

The papal nuncio called on Premier Sent Alcala Zamora and announced that the pope had accepted Pedro Cardinal Segura's resignation from the archbishopric of Spanish primacy and that, moreover, the pope had renounced the privilege of appointing a titular vicar, leaving the church entirely to the cathedral chapter.

Cardinal Segura was expelled from Spain several months ago on charges of activities hostile to the republican government. He is now living in exile in France. It is expected he will remain in a French monastery or be called to Rome.

Called Victory for Spain.

Fernando de Los Rios, Socialist minister of justice, who made the announcement of the Vatican's decision, called it a decisive victory for the republican government.

"The significance of this step is apparent," he said. "It is the first time the Vatican has ceded to demands to the government of Spain since the time of Philip II. It is unprecedented in modern times. It is for the removal of Cardinal Segura in France and Cardinal Huin in Czechoslovakia. Those cases were analogous.

"It means the Vatican accepts the action, which cuts off the cardinal from his salary and privileges, and that it recognizes the justice of the claims regarding his enmity to the republic on the basis of documents sent to Rome. It means the Vatican disavows in Spain elements of the church which are more political than religious. Nothing stands in the way now to keep Spanish Catholics from attaining the elevated status which it has reached in the United States and Belgium."

Zamora Hails Action.

President Zamora, who is said to be anxious for a concordat with the Vatican, said:

"The negotiations were long, serious, polite and cordial. Nevertheless, speed with which the Vatican acted is contrary to custom. Cardinal Segura will remain a member of the Spanish college without any connection with Spain."

Next week the constituent assembly will begin discussion of religious articles of the draft of the constitution. These specify that the state is separate from religion and complete the separation of church and state with the elimination of state support for the church, expulsion of religious orders and confiscation of their property.

A bitter battle is expected over these provisions. The Socialist party insists on a complete break between church and will fight a compromise whereby the state, while divorced from the church, would agree to support the clergy now on the pay roll until their deaths.

Youth Caught After Theft of Girl with Toy

Bigild Olsen, 17 years old, of 4859 North Albany avenue, held for the theft of Katherine Feroile, 21 years old, of 4858 North Talman avenue, last night. He stole a toy pistol in front of the girl's home. He got forty cents. Miss Feroile's brother, Anthony, captured Olsen and he was turned over to the Shakespeare avenue police.

NO IMPROVEMENT IN EDISON'S CONDITION; HIS STRENGTH WANES

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 30.—[Special.] — Today brought no improvement in the health of Thomas A. Edison, 84 year old inventor, whose strength has been failing since his return from Florida several months ago. A bulletin issued at his home in Llewellyn Park by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, read:

"Mr. Edison seems to have less interest in things and his strength has failed somewhat during the last few days."

Because of the inventor's weakness his customary afternoon automobile ride was omitted and he spent the day indoors. Dr. Howe, however, returned to New York after his usual morning visit.

Mr. Edison is suffering from a complication of uremic poisoning, Bright's disease, diabetes and ulcers of the stomach. His health has improved intermittently, only to be followed by relapses during the last few months.

Slain as He Sits at Piano; Then Slayer Shoots Self

Martin Zoblock last night shot Victor Stravanski to death as Stravanski sat at a piano in a rooming house at 1124 Pennsylvania street, Gary. Zoblock then entered an adjoining apartment and shot himself in the head. Physicians said his wound would prove fatal. The Gary police believe Zoblock and Stravanski had quarreled over Zoblock's wife.

SEES 50 MILLION POOLED SOON IN BUILDING TRUST

Construction Program Is Outlined.

BY AL CHASE.

Fifty million dollars will soon be in the hands of the new Construction Investment Trust, now being formed, according to Oscar W. Rosenthal, originator of the plan announced on Tuesday to get Chicago's building industry on its feet.

OSCAR ROSENTHAL

Of this amount, Mr. Rosenthal expects $15,000,000 to be paid in during the next ten weeks by approximately 30,000 mechanics now employed in the Chicago area. Another ten or fifteen million dollars is expected from men who are out of work but who have sufficient funds to enable each of them to subscribe for at least ten shares of $50 par.

Other millions are expected to be paid in by building material men, builders, contractors, architects, realtors, engineers, etc.

Program for Construction.

Modernization on a tremendous scale, reclamation of slum areas with modern dwellings, financing of needed industrial construction, and the building of five and six room apartments in certain areas where they are actually needed, are included in the tentative program of the new Construction Investment Trust. Attorneys went before the Illinois securities commission yesterday with an application for a charter and if it is approved, the new trust will be functioning within two weeks, according to Mr. Rosenthal.

Mr. Rosenthal yesterday made public the report signed by Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Building Trades council, and heads of eight unions, addressed to the members of the council in which the members were urged to get back of the Rosenthal plan.

"Your committee," the report read, "suggests, to produce immediate funds so as to start some immediate building construction: First, that each union shall, from its treasury, purchase shares in the Construction Investment Trust to the fullest possible extent; second, that each union shall underwrite or guarantee that each of its members will purchase no less than ten shares of the Construction Inyestment Trust, payable at the rate of not less than $5 per week out of wages.

No Payments by Jobless.

"This, of course, means that the man who is unemployed will not be called upon to pay until he secures employment, so that this will work a hardship upon no one.

"However, all of those who have employment, or if unemployed, who have funds, are urged to pay into this trust every possible dollar so that we may force immediate action in the building industry.

"Your committee believes that this, together with the money subscribed by employers and their office organizations, by manufacturers and their factory help, by dealers and distributors and all their factory help, by architects and engineers and all of their draftsmen and other employes, by realtors and their employes, will produce a sum so vast that a very large building program can be immediately started.

"Immediate action is imperative. Funds must be immediately secured from every possible source. It is late in the season, and if any building is to be started for this year to carry us over the coming winter we must not lose any time."

Other Signers of Report.

The other members of the committee who signed the recommendations for the Building Trades council members were: Thomas F. Flynn, carpenters; M. J. Boyle, electricians; Martin P. Durkin, steamfitters; W. Gunther, gas fitters; Michael Artery, structural iron workers; Thomas Dowling, plasterers; Arthur W. Wallace, painters, and Jack O'Neil, laborers.

In addition to these, 1,100 union bricklayers at a meeting held on Tuesday night unanimously indorsed the Rosenthal plan.

Mr. Rosenthal, who is president of the Builders' Association of Chicago and also head of the Illinois Builders' league, says the trust will not finance any speculative building. He declared that 25,000 houses are needed in the Chicago area, and that the industrial demand is tremendous. He also added that no funds are available for needed modernization of homes.

Wounds 6 Negroes, One a Baby; Drew Knife, He Says

Greenwood, S. C., Sept. 30.—Broadus Hughes, 40 year old farmer, angered because, he said, one of them drew a knife on him, today shot and wounded six Negroes. One was a baby and two were young girls. Hughes was jailed to await a hearing.

928 AUTO DEATHS IN NINE MONTHS; NEW HIGH MARK

County Toll Headed for All Time Record.

The first nine months of 1931, ending last night, saw the largest number of persons killed by automobiles in Cook county of any similar period since autos began to crowd the streets. The fatalities in the county for the period number 928, an increase of 17 per cent over the 769 deaths for a similar period last year.

The month of August, when 133 persons were killed, holds the all-time high record for fatalities in a single month, Coroner's records show. In every month of this year except June there has been a substantial increase over the number of deaths during corresponding periods last year. The toll during the first month of this year, with 110 deaths, was exactly double the casualties for the same month in 1930.

New Record Predicted.

"It seems that the death toll is bound for a new high record in spite of all the authorities can do to check the tide," Coroner Bundesen said as he revealed the figures. "While every civic officer is pleading for care, the lists rise to new levels."

January	55	110	July	80	103
February	87	100	August	119	133
March	69	70	September	94	128
April	81	97
May	74	97
June	101	81	Totals	769	928

Mrs. Marjorie Butler, 22 year old society matron and wife of Paul Butler, owner of the Oakbrook Polo farm, was exonerated yesterday from blame in the automobile accident on Sept. 17 in which Lige Crites, manager of her husband's farm and a nationally known polo player, was killed. The accident occurred on Spring road near Hinsdale. Mrs. Butler, testified yesterday with her right arm, fractured in the accident, still in a sling.

Two Deaths Recorded.

Two deaths were recorded in Cook county yesterday. The victims:

Andrew Hansen, 54 years old, 2459 Cortland street. Died at St. Elizabeth's hospital from injuries sustained Monday when he was run down in front of 1840 North Western avenue. The driver was Boris Kummel, 752 North Oakley avenue.

Unidentified man, about 40 years old. Fatally injured when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at Ogden avenue and Taylor street. Witnesses said two young men and a girl were riding in the car. One of the young men got out of the car and went to the injured man, but fled as witnesses gathered.

William Johnson, 42 years old, 7842 Burnham avenue, a salesman, was arrested last night on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident after his car had knocked down Mrs. Edna Peters, 62 years old, 10340 Avenue M, at 90th street and Avenue M. He fled after the accident and was captured half a mile away by another motorist. Mrs. Peters received a fractured skull, it was discovered at the South Chicago hospital.

U. S. Intercepts 1,000,000 Lottery Tickets in Mails

Almost 1,000,000 lottery and sweepstake tickets have been intercepted by the customs and postoffice departments during the last few weeks, it was revealed yesterday by Collector of Customs Anthony Czarnecki. Of this number, 150,000 were mailed from the Irish Free State, while nearly 250,000 have been sent from Costa Rica. Sending of these tickets through the mails is prohibited by federal statute. The senders must possess large mailing lists in Chicago and the middle west, according to Mr. Czarnecki.

High School Boy Confesses Killing College Freshman

Athens, O., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The slayer of John Gooding, 18, Ohio university freshman, who died Sunday with a fractured skull, was found today when John W. Genter, 17, high school student, told Prosecutor John Bolin that he had struck Gooding on the head with a mallet during a fight.

ROBBERS STEAL POSTOFFICE SAFE.

Johnstown, Neb., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Burglars broke into the postoffice here last night and stole the safe which contained about $200 in cash and about $200 worth of stamps.

LAIRD COMPANY TO MAKE AIRPLANES IN ENLARGED FACTORY

The E. M. Laird Airplane company, which has built planes to order for the last ten years in a hangar at Ashburn airport, 83d street and Cicero avenue, has moved to a larger plant in the Clearing Industrial district, at 5321 West 66th street, where the Laird planes will be produced in several standard types and the custom business will be continued.

A new high speed cabin plane for airplanes and private owners is being designed by E. M. [Matty] Laird, president of the company and one of Chicago's pioneer pilots.

Laird built the "speedwing solution" racer flown by Charles [Speed] Holman to win the Thompson trophy race at the air races held in Chicago last year and built the "speedwing supersolution" piloted by Maj. James H. Doolittle to win the Bendix transcontinental race last month.

The new Pilgrim 100-A monoplane, carrying nine passengers, their baggage and 475 pounds of air mail, have been placed in service on two lines of American Airways, Inc., between Chicago, Indianapolis, and Cincinnati and between Cincinnati and Cleveland. The plane is powered by one 575 horse power Hornet motor and cruises at 117 miles an hour.

Bloomington, Ill., will be placed on a scheduled air line this morning for the first time, when the early plane of the Century Air line, flying from St. Louis to Chicago, will stop there after a stop at Springfield, Ill. Six daily planes flying between Chicago and St. Louis will land at Bloomington.

MARRIAGES DROP 16% IN FIRST NINE MONTHS OF 1931

A sharp decrease in marriages occurred during the first nine months of 1931, it was shown by records in the county clerk's office after the marriage license bureau closed for the day yesterday. A new low figure for the entire year was forecast on the basis of the figures for 1931 to date, which showed a drop of approximately 16 per cent from the total of the corresponding nine months of 1930 in Cook county. This year's total of marriage licenses to date was set at 24,952, compared to a total of 29,828 for the first nine months of 1930.

Charge Former Dry Agent with Soliciting a Bribe

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Craig C. Bowers, 35, a former federal prohibition agent here, was arrested tonight by department of justice investigators after the officers said he requested $50 from a downtown drug store to destroy evidence in a liquor case. Bowers, who was dismissed from the prohibition force last July after serving five months, denied he impersonated a federal officer and said he intended to trap the druggist in the hope of obtaining a job as informer for prohibition agents.

BROKER'S STORY OF KIDNAPING TOLD IN COURT

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Charles M. Rosenthal, the young broker for whom a ransom of $50,000 was paid to his kidnapers, took the witness stand today in general sessions and related the story of the kidnaping and of his appointments with the Negro woman, Bettina Green, who is accused of the crime with four men.

Rosenthal identified Marcus Blumenthal, Theodore Adanolfi, and Albert Silio as the three men who did the actual kidnaping.

Called Up on Phone.

On Aug. 9, he testified, a girl called him up at his office and said she was Selma Gross, a friend of his from Philadelphia. She spoke familiarly of acquaintances in that city and he agreed to meet her for luncheon.

They got into a taxicab and went uptown to see "Dorothy," a girl friend of Bettina's. Upon arrival there, the broker said, they were greeted by three men, who pressed revolvers against his side, prodded him into another car, forced him to lie on the floor, and drove him to an unidentified address, where he was held captive while negotiations for his ransom were pending.

Rosenthal then told how he had been tied and sent to bed. His testimony will continue tomorrow.

Indiana Gas Collections Show Gain for September

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Indiana gasoline tax collections for the month of September surpassed the corresponding month last year by $187,707.68, according to the monthly report issued today by Floyd E. Williamson, state auditor, and Joseph M. Treacy, gasoline tax collector. The collections totaled $1,940,692.92 this month.

NEGRO SEIZED AS SLAYER OF 9 YEAR OLD GIRL

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Will Moore, 58 year old Negro, was arrested late today in connection with the slaying of Vera Leonard, 9 year old schoolgirl, at her home six miles south of here this morning.

After questioning Moore for several hours, Sheriff D. B. Stafford and a group of Guilford county deputies started with him toward Raleigh, where they planned to put him in state prison for safe keeping.

The officers announced the Negro had made a "partial confession."

Moore was arrested at his house about a half mile from the Leonard home, in the burning ruins of which the little girl's body, with the head crushed, was found this morning. Footprints about the place were said by officers to have been traced to his home.

The victim, a daughter of Tom Leonard, farmer, was left alone at home when her mother went to work in a factory and her father and smaller brother went to a neighbor's home.

U. S. Rules Druggists May Advertise Liquor for Sale

Druggists in Chicago area may advertise that liquor is sold within their establishments from now on, but they must make it clear that the commodity is for medicinal purposes. This was announced yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of industrial alcohol in the Chicago district. Supervisor Yellowley said the druggists could display signs that "liquor for medicinal purposes can be purchased here if the customer has the necessary doctor's prescription." The announcement followed word to this effect from J. M. Doran, commissioner of bureau of industrial alcohol at Washington, D. C.

Jealous Husband Fires at Roomer; Kills Wife; Freed

Marion, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—B. F. Wheeler of Hulburt, Ark., pleaded the "unwritten law" today and was acquitted of the murder of his wife, whom he shot to death at their home several weeks ago. He testified she was shot accidentally when he fired on W. W. Adams, a roomer in the Wheeler home. He said he found Adams and Mrs. Wheeler together.

GERMAN WHO BLEW UP OWN SHIP IN U. S.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Slightly grayer with the passing years but still a youthful figure, Capt. Adalbert Zuckschwerdt came back to New York today for the first time since 1919. He arrived quietly and few recognized the German naval commander who dramatically dynamited his ship with 360 men on board to prevent its seizure by the United States in the harbor of Guam in 1917.

"There was little to do in the Pacific," he said. "We were out of the lanes of travel and in 1915 we put into Guam and were interned.

"When we learned the United States had entered the war, I decided to blow up the ship; we set the dynamite in the forward hold.

"I was on the bridge and signaled for the discharge. We were two miles off shore, too far to swim, but only seven men were lost. American tugs and lifeboats picked up the rest."

A Crusade against hampering and destructive fallacies

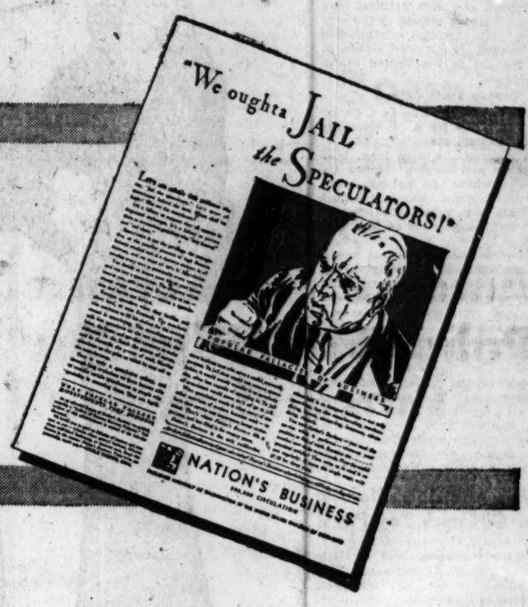
Every business . . . every industry has its popular misunderstandings: real estate, manufacturing, accounting, construction, shipping, banking, advertising. Write me personally of yours. They will be discussed currently in Nation's Business and, through courtesy of the National Broadcasting Co., over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Merle Thorpe, Editor.



WRITE FOR PROOFS OF "POPULAR FALLACIES" ADVERTISEMENTS

Perhaps you'd like copies of the entire series of advertisements of which the two above are typical. A note will bring them to you, in proof form. Titles of some of the advertisements appear in another column.

READ "THE GALLERY OF POPULAR FALLACIES" IN NATION'S BUSINESS

In the October Nation's Business, now on the news-stands, appears a new editorial feature, "The Gallery of Popular Business Fallacies." In it, business men nominate current fallacies that hamper business and business progress. You'll want to follow this new feature regularly.

Never, within a generation, has sane and seasoned thought on the problems of business been needed as it is today.

If we believe certain critics, everything is wrong: Capitalism has broken down. Democracy stands at the crossroads. Business leadership is in default. Machines for mass production have become our masters.

Radical and un-American plans and proposals are urged. Demagogic catchwords pass from lip to lip. The Government is projected into almost every field of private enterprise. Fallacies run riot.

In such a situation business suffers, naturally. There is perhaps no commercial activity about which some misconception, based on ignorance, does not center.

There is need of a means to clear the air of fallacies. There is need of a way to throw new light on the sound principles of prosperity and progress that leap brightly from the pages of our history. There is need of clear, sane interpretation of present-day business problems in the light of facts. There is need of authoritative speaking on controversial subjects.

For twenty years Nation's Business has served business by interpreting its work and its problems. For twenty years Nation's Business has crusaded against destructive fallacies.

As we approach the close of 1931 we are preparing with new zeal to attack the errors that impede recovery.

On this page you see reproductions of two advertisements. They are from a series, "Popular Fallacies of Business," which will appear in newspapers and in national magazines. They are designed to serve business by creating a better understanding of its problems. They are designed to stimulate thought and to invite a reading of authoritative articles on vital subjects.

These advertisements express the editorial purpose of Nation's Business, which you will find expounded with new, arresting vigor in our October number.

Get a copy of this number at your newsstand, then write us of the hampering and destructive fallacies that disturb you. Won't you address the editor, personally?

POPULAR FALLACIES OF BUSINESS

These titles are typical of the advertisements which Nation's Business will publish during the coming months:

1. "We're waiting for general business to pick up"
2. "We oughta jail the speculators"
3. "No man is worth $100,000 a year to any business"
4. "Damn the chains!"
5. "The independent dealer is inefficient and keeps distribution costs too high"
6. "The power interests are out to milk the public"
7. "I'll just send it back, it won't cost anything"
8. "Poor devil, he's in the hands of the bankers"
9. "Why not take over the railroads and be done with it?"
10. "I don't pay any taxes"
11. "There's no place for the little business today"
12. "You've got to die to win, that's the trouble with life insurance"
13. "Machines have stolen our jobs"

PROFESSOR HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR WIFE'S DEATH

Victim's Mother Sobs, but Tells Daughter's Fears.

Hampton, Va., Sept. 30. — (AP) — Elisha Kent Kane III, university of Tennessee professor, was held for the grand jury today at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing on a charge of drowning his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, in Chesapeake bay last month.

ELISHA KENT KANE

Magistrate J. E. Dixon, of Elizabeth City county decided to send the case on to the grand jury after he had heard twenty minutes' of argument summing up the testimony given by the father, mother, and brother of Mrs. Kane and seven other witnesses. No witnesses were offered by the defense.

Testimony by Relatives.

Kane heard his wife's father and mother testify today that their daughter seemed to dread the swimming party on Grand View beach from which she never returned alive. Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of the dead woman, gave way to hysterics and was led, sobbing, from the court room. There was no opportunity for cross-examination.

"She told me her husband wanted to go to the beach to swim and she looked at me with appealing eyes that seemed to say, 'Don't let me go or go with me,'" Mrs. Graham sobbed. "They went and my darling daughter never came back alive."

Coroner George K. Vanderslice testified that information given him by "Hop" Graham, a brother of Mrs. Kane, about letters from "another woman" and domestic difficulties of the Kanes caused him to change a verdict of accidental drowning to murder. He said members of the family had destroyed the letters except for one in his possession signed "Betty."

"Betty" Not Present.

Betty, identified as Mrs. E. H. Dahl of Mount Holly, N. J., was not present today and counsel said she was not expected.

During the afternoon the state brought forward a number of fishermen who claim to have witnessed the drowning. They testified to seeing two persons splashing in the water and hearing screams "at first playful and later distressing."

Old, Battered Tin Bucket Saves Workman in Ditch

Portland, Ore., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Wilbur C. Bathe, 45, was alive today because of a battered tin bucket.

A ton of sand buried him yesterday as he was plastering pipe connections in a deep sewer ditch. But as he fell when the trench wall caved in his half filled plaster bucket landed over his face, keeping his mouth and nose free from sand.

He was only partly conscious when fellow workmen dug him out after ten minutes, but was quickly revived.

Broker Asks Receiver for Flamingo Hotel Company

A receiver was asked for the Flamingo Hotel company, 5520 South Shore drive, yesterday by Robert Wollenberger, investment broker at 105 South La Salle street, who filed a bill in the Circuit court. Payment of interest on $1,000,000 worth of first mortgage gold bonds has not been met according to the bill.

8,500 IN 3 STATES ADDED TO MILLIONS SEEKING BEER, WINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Officials of the Congressional Districts Modification league announced today that three packages of petitions urging congress to modify the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of light wines and beer have been received since the American Legion called for a prohibition referendum. Five thousand signatures came from Illinois, 2,000 from Michigan, and 1,500 from Minnesota. The total number of signatures thus far received was given out as 4,700,000.

The league also announced receipt of a letter indorsing the modification movement sent by E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel company of Cleveland, O. Mr. Kulas, described by the league as a member of "President Hoover's industrial commission," was quoted as saying that modification of the dry law would aid industry.

"I have no objection," he wrote, "to your quoting me as favorable to a modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of beer and light wines."

The executive committee of the National Grange went on record in opposition to the legalization of beer at a session here today, contending that such a move was opposed to the best interests of agriculture.

JUDGE COUNTS JERSEY'S DRINKS AND GIVES UP

75 Million a Year, His Estimate.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 30.—[Special.] In the opinion of Federal Judge George M. Bourquin of Montana, who is sitting in the United States District court here to aid in relieving the congested calendar, the effort to cope with the illicit liquor traffic in New Jersey is hopeless.

Basing his conclusions on figures mentioned during a case before him today, Judge Bourquin held there must be at least 10,000 saloons in the state with 75,000,000 violations of the prohibition laws per year. Three thousand of the saloons are right here in Trenton, he was told.

His remarks were made as Leonard Loughron of Bloomfield appeared to plead guilty to liquor law violations. He was sentenced to serve 30 days and to pay a fine of $150.

Court Asks Questions.

"How large is Bloomfield?" the court asked Prohibition Agent Raymond Foreman.

The agent said that it was a medium sized town.

"How many saloons would such a town have?"

"I really don't know," said the agent.

"Well, how many saloons would you figure there were in the state? Would there be more than 400 or 500?"

"Do you mean open saloons?" interjected United States Attorney Phillip Forman.

"Any kind," replied the court.

"Well," replied the district attorney, "in a place like Trenton it has been estimated by the public press that there are 3,000 places."

10,000 in State.

"Then there would be at least 10,000 such places in the state, wouldn't there?" asked the court.

"At least," said the district attorney.

"And if each saloon sold 20 drinks a day—they couldn't get along on less—that would mean 200,000 violations a day, and in a year that would be 75,000,000 violations."

The district attorney nodded his head.

FORFEITS BONDS OF ACTRESSES.

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green forfeited the $50 bonds posted by nine men and women, members of the cast at the Railto burlesque theater, 336 South State street, when they failed to appear before him yesterday on charges of giving an indecent performance, growing out of a raid on the theater last March.

ELECTION FUND CASE AGAINST CANNON TO GO TO GRAND JURY.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced today that the district grand jury on Oct. 8 will launch an investigation into charges that Bishop James Cannon Jr. and Ada L. Burroughs conspired to violate the federal corrupt practices act during the last presidential campaign. Miss Burroughs was treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith committee headed by Bishop Cannon.

JAMES CANNON JR.

The charges against Bishop Cannon and his former aide, according to Mr. Rover, resulted from their alleged failure to file a proper report of certain campaign expenditures with the clerk of the house of representatives, as required by law.

The 1928 presidential campaign activities of the Virginia clergyman are still under investigation by the state campaign funds investigation committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep., N. D.).

Neither Bishop Cannon nor Miss Burroughs will be called before the grand jury, Mr. Rover said, but he stated that about twenty witnesses, including bankers and officials of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be subpoenaed.

CLOSE FOUNTAIN IN GRANT PARK FOR THE SEASON

For the last time this season, the Buckingham memorial fountain in Grant park was seen in full play last night. From 8 until 9 o'clock the main jet spouted 135 feet skyward and all of the 133 lesser jets shone under a changing display of red, green, orange, and purple lights. At the end of the hour the water was turned off, and it will not be turned on again until May 1, according to the south park commissioners. During the summer the fountain has used 10,476,000 gallons of water a week, a total for the season of 240,000,000 gallons.

GRADE CROSSING FATALITIES 921 FOR SIX MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Accidents at highway grade crossings cost 921 lives in the first six months of 1931, the American Railway association announced today. The total number of accidents reported was 2,114 while the total number of injuries was 2,403. Accidents and fatalities, however, were fewer in number in the first half of this year than in any corresponding period in the last eight years, the association said. The number of accidents dropped 221 from total for the first half of 1930, while the number of deaths dropped by 41, and the number of injuries by 282.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What You Think It Does?

If your car should be burned or stolen, will your insurance company pay you the amount stated in the policy? The amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. This is the policy known as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY, which covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Other services of the club are: Emergency road service, home district service, accident prevention work, travel service, and bail bond service.

A NEW WALDORF OPENS WITH ITS PEACOCK ALLEY

Bigger and Better, Yet Keeps Traditions.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The new Waldorf-Astoria opened its bronze doors today and prepared to carry on the traditions of the gay nineties in a 1931 pink granite and Indiana limestone setting. Peacock alley lives again, but a beauty parlor occupies the logical spot for the rebirth of the famous old barroom and four sided mahogany bar.

More than 6,000 invited guests were present, while outside in Park avenue a crowd stood and gaped. At the height of the festivities President Hoover spoke words of greeting over the radio.

Hoover Praises Hotel.

"Our hotels have become community institutions," said the President. "They are the center points of civic hospitality. They are the meeting place of a thousand community and national activities. The opening of the new Waldorf-Astoria is an event in the development of hotels even in New York City. It carries on a great tradition in national hospitality.

"The erection of this great structure at this time has been a contribution to the maintenance of employment and is an exhibition of courage and confidence to the whole nation."

Tomorrow the hotel will be opened to the public. Today was a day of firsts—the first guest, Mr. A. E. Kusterer of Grand Rapids, Mich.; the first banquets, the first shave in the barber shop, the first permanent resident—in fact, the first everything, except the first suicide.

Covers Double Block.

The new Waldorf-Astoria, spreading over a double block from Park to Lexington avenues, between 49th and 50th streets, marks something more than the rebirth of a tradition. It marks the trek northeastward of social, business, and possibly theatrical activity. Times square may yet be given over to the garment industry and its lights may grow as dim as those of the Bowery. Radio city pointed the move north toward 5th avenue, and now the tin foil towers of the tallest and largest hotel in the world have risen east of Park avenue.

The Waldorf proudly boasts of its size. Other hotels have more than 2,300 guest rooms, but the rooms, the Waldorf management insists, are not so large. It rises forty-seven stories (625 feet 7 inches) and is two hotels in one. From the third to twenty-eighth floors the guest rooms are mainly transient. Higher up dwell the apartment residents.

Has Largest Rug, Too.

The largest banquet hall, the largest movable roof—it shuts over like a turtle's back when the raindrops fall—the largest collection of oil paintings and some of the most valuable, the largest lounge, the largest "overhead," and, incidentally, the largest rug, all are a part of the new Waldorf-Astoria. Roxy's movie palace went into semi-mourning when the two and one-half ton rug arrived from Czecho-Slovakia, for it made Roxy's rug look like a bearskin.

The Sert room, named after the Spanish artist who did a set of murals about Don Quixote for its walls, caught the fancy of the crowd. The grand ballroom with its gallery of mirrors, its ceiling a series of paintings by American artists—drew admiration.

The new peacock alley is just off the Park avenue entrance. The management saw that no one missed it today. In addition to the lighted signs designating the promenade as "Peacock alley," there were a half dozen large cardboard signs advertising it. And what an alley. Dowagers, young society girls, pink cheeked old beaux and a lot of people who did not appear to fit into the scenery strutted over its carpets or lounged in its easy chairs.

The hotel represents a total investment of $28,000,000, or more than any other hostelry, and its apartments begin at a rental of $5,000 a year and go up to $25,000. Deep in the basement is a siding from the New York Central main line on which the private cars of distinguished guests may be shunted.

WAGE PACT AVERTS STRIKE INVOLVING 40,000 LONGSHOREMEN

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—A strike which threatened to involve about 40,000 longshoremen from the fifteen north Atlantic ports was averted today after representatives of the International Longshoremen's union and of the steamship lines had reached an agreement in regard to the wage scale.

Under the old contract, which expires tonight, the men were receiving 85 cents an hour for straight labor and $1.30 an hour overtime for a forty-four hour week.

By the terms of the new contract, which was drawn up at a conference held at the Maritime building, the old rate will be maintained for straight labor but the overtime will be reduced to $1.20 an hour. The forty-four hour week is also to be continued.

The steamship lines, represented by Frederick Toppin, vice president of the International Mercantile Marine company, gradually modified their original 70 cents and $1.05 in the course of conferences held for several days past.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the union, estimated that the average wage earned by longshoremen was $15 a week.

GEN. EVERSON QUITS ARMY TO BECOME PASTOR

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The war department today announced the resignation, effective Nov. 20, of Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the militia bureau. Gen. Everson, an ordained minister of the gospel, will take over the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Denver, Colo., following his retirement from the army.

In his letter of resignation Gen. Everson declared that the National Guard was never more thoroughly organized, equipped, and trained than it is today. He also advised the department of his willingness to be recalled at any time to the service of the army.

Gen. Everson is known in army circles as the "Flying Parson," having flown over 100,000 miles in his visits to National Guard encampments throughout the country.

Maj. Gen. Lassiter Retires.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Rounding 46 years of active military service, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter officially retired from the army today on his 64th birthday.

Gen. Lassiter formerly was in command of the Eighth corps area with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston here. He was recently in command of the Hawaiian department and is now en route to New York.

Paymaster Robbed of Cash as He Departs from Bank

Two gunmen robbed Gerald Hirsch, 6615 Lowe avenue, of $2,188 yesterday as he left the Merchandise Mart. Hirsch had just obtained the money from the Merchandise Bank and Trust company in the building and was on his way to the James H. Rhodes company at 157 West Austin avenue, where he is employed as paymaster.

IOWA FIGHTS FOR HIGHER CORN, BUT DOESN'T WANT IT

Most Farmers Glad It's Cheap for Feeding.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—While Gov. Dan Turner has been thumping on the doors of the federal farm board, the President, and the Chicago officers of the federal reserve system, trying to get an artificial stimulus to corn prices in Iowa, he has overlooked the answer to his problem, to be found by talking with any one of thousands of progressive corn belt farmers attending the dairy cattle congress this week.

Iowa, the second highest butter producing state in the union, has upward of two million dairy cows on her farms today, assuring their owners that cheap corn and oats will only give them that much more margin of profit this fall and winter.

Minority Only Disgruntled.

Over ninety per cent of Iowa's total farm income is from live stock and dairy products, with hogs supplying about 45 per cent, dairy cows 20 per cent, beef cattle 13 per cent and poultry 8 per cent. Since most of the one crop corn farmers are scattered thinly through the counties, the state's gubernatorial attentions have plainly been centered on the minority of disgruntled farmers.

This was plainly to be seen in talking with farmers and with agricultural authorities gathered about the judging ring where ribbons were being tucked on choice dairy animals, Belgian draft horses and both plain and fancy poultry. Not a man today said he wanted the price of corn to go up unless accompanied by rises in price of other farm products.

There isn't an item of live stock, dairy or poultry products but will produce more for the same amount in feed today than could have been secured in 1926, according to officials of the show, and farmers interviewed here today.

Produces More Per Dollar.

A hundred dollars' worth of feed will produce from one hundred forty to one hundred fifty per cent as many dollars' worth of butterfat today as it would in 1928. Even hogs, said to be so low in price these days, pay almost one hundred twenty per cent as many dollars today as three years ago, on the basis of this cheap grain situation that has so aroused Gov. Turner, and Iowa has more hogs this fall than she had then, by several thousands.

A team of agricultural college students from Kansas came up from Manhattan this week to beat the lads from eight other state schools, the Iowa team getting second place, in judging of the dairy cattle.

HOLD UP INSURANCE OFFICE.

Three bandits carrying shotguns invaded the offices of the Western-Southern Life Insurance company at 4001 Milwaukee avenue yesterday and escaped with $700. They held up William Peglow, 5336 Drummond place, the manager; Miss Myrtle Richert, 4828 North Kilpatrick avenue, cashier, and Miss Mary Joerrey, 3807 North Spaulding avenue.

ENGINE OF CRACK TRAIN WRECKED; FIREMAN KILLED

The fireman on the Royal Palm Limited, crack Big Four railroad train from Florida to Chicago, was killed yesterday morning at Kankakee when the engine struck a derail and rolled down a 40 foot embankment. The fireman was John Carrig, 40 years old, 95th strfet and St. Lawrence avenue.

Sam J. Cahill, 9319 Evans avenue, the engineer, was taken to St. Mary's hospital in Kankakee with minor injuries. He was thrown clear of the engine cab. The Pullmans remained on the rails.

The accident took place 150 feet from the junction of the Big Four tracks with those of the Illinois Central railroad, over which the train runs into Chicago. R. D. Kepley, towerman at the intersection, charged that Cahill ran past a block signal to strike the derail. The engineer denied this, charging that the signal was changed after he passed onto the stretch of track which it protects.

'All Ye People' Another Epic of Great West

Reviewer Predicts Its Career in Movies.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"All Ye People," by Merle Colby (Viking). Published tomorrow.

"ALL Ye People" will, unless I am a poor prophet, be in the not too distant future one of those super movies like "The Covered Wagon," an epic picture of America's past. It has every element of a successful panorama of gaudy days in American life, everything to make it a picture on the grand scale. The material is all there. The dramatic moments are spaced with skill. The hero has youth and zest and ideals. The heroine has beauty and courage.

The secondary characters all have individuality and verve. "All Ye People" has every possible ingredient of a thrilling historical pageant. It is a thrilling historical pageant. But it just misses, to me at least, being a preeminently great epic novel. It is an heroic record without being an heroic work of art. It touches greatness, but somehow does not achieve it.

"All Ye People" is the story of the wanderings of young John Bray from his Vermont home to the Ohio and back again, to Boston and back, to Providence, and to Charleston, S. C., on a packet in the year 1810, when such wandering meant months instead of days, when traveling was done on horseback, in wagons, or on foot, when a sea voyage was a test of human endurance, when the west was the rainbow at whose end the youthful east was sure that a pot of gold was to be found. It is a thrilling tale of a thrilling time [any time long enough ago is thrilling if one only thinks it so].

It gives the reader the sense of the terrific excitement which the idea of the west had for the adventurous, the yeasty feeling that drove many of the pioneers from comfortable homes to almost unendurable privation. It gives as well as any book I have ever read the stirring excitement of the trek. Masses of people, like the Israelites, march through its pages to their promised land, many of them filled with comparable religious fervor. The pageant of the land hungry passes through its pages. It passes through the mind and heart of the hero likewise, giving him a passionate yearning for the west which was only a germ when he started, but which flourished in his blood until it became there another group of corpuscles. The west broke him, in one sense. It sent him back home a sick man in body and soul. But it left in his heart a sickness that was more deadly—the nostalgia for its open spaces, its thirteen foot corn, its mist drenched hollows, its freedom, and its youth.

There are high spots of dramatic import in the book that you can just see on the screen giving thrills and chills to the public—a fight between two men with whips, in which the whips are deadlier weapons than you would dream, blinding weapons, knives to cut a man in two and leave him to die after two hours of agony, clubs to snap the bones in arms and legs, giant shredders of bodies. That fight would be a classic on any screen. There is a camp meeting at which people get into incredible states of hysteria, losing all control of their arms and legs. Headless bodies seem to roll on the ground, so twisted are the necks of some of the religionists. Eyes roll sightlessly. Arms twist in agony. It is hysteria de luxe.

Merle Colby was born in Wisconsin, the son of a long line of farmers and clergymen from Vermont and New York state who had gone west as the hero of the book goes west.

HELP FOR JOBLESS URGED BY BISHOPS OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Denver, Colo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Relief of the suffering caused by unemployment was set out as the primary duty in the pastoral letter today of the bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The letter, read by the Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry of Rhode Island, presiding bishop, at the closing of the church's 50th triennial convention, said the present condition of society may be summed up in the one word "confusion."

All employers were urged to work for the adoption of plans to coördinate production and consumption, insure continuity of employment, and provide security of income to the workers.

"An acquisitive society . . . stands bewildered in the presence of a crisis precipitated . . . apparently by the competitive profit seeking principles upon which, it has been hitherto assumed, general prosperity is based," the letter said.

"The church must insist that every financial question is essentially one of human rights. Until business is converted and is conducted in the sight of God, who is the Father of all men, no change in technique will be of permanent value. The profit seeking motive must give way to that of service."

Emphasizing that economic distress and political unrest are aggravated by the present state of international relations, the letter urged that the United States enter the world court and the league of nations and take the lead in world disarmament.

"In the realm of morals," the letter recited, "there is similar confusion. During the disturbance of social control every man will do that which is right in his own eyes."

Maurice Chevalier Shy Here on Way to West

Maurice Chevalier, talkie comedian, tarried in Chicago for a few hours yesterday on his way to the west coast after spending the summer in France. The actor was a trifle shy with interviewers, perhaps because of the ten pounds he has added to a stocky frame during his vacation.

U. of Michigan Proves Price of Lordship's Ease

Relates Burgoyne's Defeat by George Germain.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30.—(AP)—When Gen. John Burgoyne faced defeat at Saratoga in 1777, George Bernard Shaw in his American revolutionary play has him say, "some gentleman in London" forgot to dispatch orders to Gen. Howe at New York to support him.

Of course, Burgoyne could not have known any such thing. Shaw admits he did not really say it, but it was the truth.

Proof that the "gentleman in London" did not dispatch an order to Gen. Howe the day an order was sent to Burgoyne to join Howe at Albany, N. Y., has been brought to America by William L. Clements, a regent of the University of Michigan.

Dr. Randolph G. Adams, director of the Clements library here, announced today that Mr. Clements has purchased the official papers of William Knox, who was permanent undersecretary of the British colonial office from 1770 to 1782, from Capt. Howard Vincente Knox of Oxford, England, great great grandson of William.

Mr. Clements had previously brought from England the papers of Lord Shelburne, prime minister during the American revolution; Lord George Germain, secretary of state for colonies, and Generals Thomas Gage and Henry Clinton, successively commander-in-chief of the British armies in America.

Burgoyne's defeat led to France's open entrance into war.

Dr. Adams says evidence that "some gentleman in London" forgot is contained in a memorandum written by Knox, who was in position to know as much about colonial affairs as any British official.

Lord Germain, then Lord Sackville, was in a hurry to drive to his country estate, Stoneland, on the day orders were to be sent instructing Burgoyne and Howe to meet at Albany, Howe to go north from New York and Burgoyne south from Canada.

In his memorandum Knox wrote: "When all was prepared and I had them to compare and make up, Lord Sackville came down to the office to sign the letters on his way to Stoneland, when I observed to him there was no letter to Howe to acquaint him with the plan or what was expected of him in consequence of it. His lordship stared, and d'Oyly stared, but said he would in a moment write a few lines. 'So,' said Lord Sackville, 'my poor horses must stand in the street all the time, and I shan't be to my time anywhere.' D'Oyly then said he had better go, and he would write from himself to Howe and inclose copies of Burgoyne's instructions, which would tell him all that he would want to know; and with this his lordship was satisfied, as it enabled him to keep his time, for he could never bear delay or disappointment."

D'Oyly, secretary in the war office, afterward claimed he sent an order to Gen. Howe to take his army to Albany. Howe denied receiving such instructions, and d'Oyly had not retained a copy. So England lost America.

American Medals Given to Two Norse Explorers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 30.—The American minister, Hoffman Philip, in behalf of the American Geographical society, today presented the Norwegian polar explorers, Maj. Gunnar Isachsen and Capt. Riiser-Larsen, with the Charles Daly and David Livingstone medals. The American congress gold medal in memory of Roald Amundsen also was presented to the explorer's relatives, who in turn presented it to the Norwegian university. Maj. Isachsen and Capt. Riiser-Larsen were leaders of an expedition which was the first to circumnavigate the icebound continent about the south pole. They started from Cape Town, South Africa, Oct. 4, 1930, and circled the continent by Feb. 7, 1931.

CORNWALLIS KINDRED DUE HERE AS U. S. RECALLS YORKTOWN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Can the state department with propriety invite a direct descendant of Gen. Cornwallis to a celebration in honor of Gen. Cornwallis' defeat?

This was the question over which considerable speculation arose today when it was learned that Fiennes Stanley Cornwallis, a direct descendant of the British general, is to land in this country on Oct. 17, just as the celebration of his ancestor's surrender is getting under way at Yorktown, Va.

Mr. Cornwallis' visit to this country, while it comes at a somewhat embarrassing time for the state department, has, however, no connection with the Yorktown celebration. He is going with a party of 27 other distinguished Britishers to the celebration of the 200th celebration of the founding of Masonry in Philadelphia.

Parade Tomorrow as Rodeo Opens for Season of 1931

Cow punchers in picturesque garb of the plains, clowns, bands and stage coaches will parade busy downtown streets tomorrow forenoon to herald the opening tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium of the world's championship rodeo. More than 250 of the west's daredevil riders, led by Col. W. T. Johnson of San Antonio, Tex., producer of the rodeo, will ride in the procession.

The parade will start from the Stadium in West Madison street, at 11:15. It will proceed in Lincoln avenue to Jackson boulevard; thence in Jackson to La Salle street; north in La Salle street to Washington street, and west on Washington street back to the Stadium.

The rodeo starting tomorrow evening will last for ten days. The contests will be spread over fourteen performances, which will include afternoon exhibitions on Saturdays and Sundays. Prize money totaling $25,000 will be competed for by riders, ropers and others skilled in the rough and ready game of the cow country. Many are the champions among the 250 cowboys and cowgirls.

The exhibit, open to the public, is on the seventh floor at Field's. It will continue to Oct. 15.

Many of Its Mysteries Are Still Unsolved.

Dr. Paul S. Martin, assistant curator of North American archaeology of the Field museum, yesterday returned to Chicago from four months of digging among the ruins of a pueblo village that was inhabitated 1,000 years ago in southwest Colorado with about 400 specimens of pottery, bone and stone tools, and fragments of logs and stone and mortar walls.

Dr. Martin found everything he could expect to find in the ruins except any bodies of the inhabitants. What became of the people who lived in the village a thousand years ago and how they disposed of their dead remain subjects of great interest upon which he can only speculate, he said. Graves of the former inhabitants could not be found.

"About two more years' work remain in the village, which lies buried beneath about 25 feet of dirt. When I return I hope to find the graves of the people who lived there, even though we made a very careful search on this trip," he said. "As a rule, we archaeologists get our best insight into former civilizations from the graves of that time."

Dr. Martin's special exhibits were a "prayer stick" with which the Indians invoked rain, pottery bowls, and a double cup from which bride and groom drank at marriage ceremonials. From logs that formed the roofs of the stone houses he expects to be able to determine the years they were built.

Lake Forest School Chief Honored on ? Birthday

School children, teachers and former teachers of Lake Forest yesterday honored John E. Baggett, superintendent of schools at that place, at a double celebration, marking the 28th anniversary of his service as superintendent and his birthday. Mr. Baggett refused to say which birthday it was. A reception was held at the Halsey school. The children showered their superintendent with flowers and the teachers and former teachers presented him with many gifts. Mr. Baggett is credited with knowing the name of every pupil in the Lake Forest schools. When he takes a vacation trip in the summer he always sends a post card to each child. Mr. Baggett lives at 122 North Utica street, Waukegan.

THE STAGE

MME. ERNESTINE SCHUMANN-HEINK, who celebrated her seventieth birthday in June, will soon appear as Katisha in a touring production of "The Mikado" under the management of the Shuberts, opening in Wilmington, Del., on Oct. 16. She will make an extended tour in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, visiting Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and other eastern cities.

Exhausted by playing an arduous rôle through a hot summer, Katharine Cornell will temporarily suspend her successful engagement in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" at the Empire theater, New York, next Saturday night to take a six weeks' holiday. She will resume her New York run on Nov. 16. The star's husband, Guthrie McClintic, announces that she is not in the best of health and that she is in urgent need of a rest. Miss Cornell will leave next week for Bermuda, where she will stay for at least a month.

Walker Whiteside will begin an engagement at the Blackstone theater tonight in "Surf," a drama by Frank Harvey. The star has the rôle of a lighthouse-keeper on a lonely reef off the New Zealand coast. C. C.

Colored Engineer Named on Hoover Housing Board

Charles S. Duke, Negro architectural engineer with offices at 184 West Washington street, was notified by Secretary of Commerce Lamont yesterday that he had been appointed to the President's conference on home building and home ownership. Mr. Duke will serve on the coördinating committee of the conference—the subgroup which will assemble data gathered by thirty other sub-committees and prepare it for presentation to congress this fall if housing legislation is introduced. Mr. Duke served on former Mayor Dever's housing commission.

Harold Lloyd Guides His Family from Burning Home

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 30.—(AP)—An early morning fire in the bathroom of Harold Lloyd's home today did considerable damage after the motion picture comedian guided his family to safety with his 7 year old daughter, Gloria, in his arms. No one was injured except Ernest, the Lloyd chauffeur, who suffered minor burns attempting to fight the flames.

Dry Preacher Asserts Roughs Exploit Legion

Clarence T. Wilson Talks to Methodists.

Alton, Ill., Sept. 30.— (AP) —Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, said here tonight his recent statement regarding the American Legion national convention and its vote for a nation-wide referendum on prohibition, had been "misinterpreted."

Speaking before the Southern Illinois Methodist Episcopal conference, Dr. Wilson declared, however, that the Legion has been "at the mercy of a rough element."

"There are a million men," he said, "who went across to France from dry cantonments where they had been taught to let liquor alone and they were going to Europe as representatives of American civilization.

"They went over and did their parts bravely and well and came back as clean in mind and body, as free and loyal to the moral standards of the United States, and as fit to be decent American citizens as when they went away. All this, and covered with the halo of American patriotism and heroism in addition, but some of the number dropped their Americanism, their Christian standards of decency, dropped into French customs and came back to import them into the United States.

"They are not a majority of the American Legion, they are only a small fraction, and their lewdness and drunkenness at their conventions disgraces their fellow members and all ex-soldiers. The fact is that the organization has been at the mercy of a rough element, and some of its officers have used this organization, both through the editing of the Stars and Stripes and the exploitation of the Legion convention since, to attack the constitution of the country, to show that they have no moral sense of loyalty to support the 18th amendment until it has had a fair trial in our American life.

"This is what I said, and nothing but this. The attempt of certain newspaper writers to make it appear that I have attacked all the American Legion, or soldiers, is of a piece with the tactics of wet newspapers. Every dry statement is warped into something that is ridiculous or preposterous.

"Of course, no one would attack the American Legion, as such. It contains too many noble and true citizens, but they have a perfect right to say of the crowd that opened up Detroit for a big carouse and established their headquarters over in Windsor by a government liquor store by the ferry, and let it be known that liquor was easy to get, that these men will be condemned by their own members who think the American Legion ought not be used for an attack on the constitution of their country, or to exploit rum sales even across the border.

"As to their voting wet, I have only to say that if that is their sentiment they have as much right to vote wet as I have to vote dry. But they ought not to wear that uniform while in company with lewd companions and in drunken orgies, and they cannot do it without arousing the indignation of the American citizen, including the members of the American Legion who do not wish to disgrace, or see their uniforms disgraced."

U. of Ill. Class Elections Called Off; No Contests

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—With the withdrawal this afternoon of George Fencl, Cicero, Ill., as a candidate for the presidency of the senior class at the University of Illinois, Robert W. McGregor, Park Ridge, Ill., has been automatically declared elected as leader of the class for the first semester and the election scheduled for Friday afternoon will not be held. With no opposition in the junior and sophomore classes, Homer M. Adams, Pontiac, Ill., and R. E. Wallins, Cambridge, Ill., are also automatically elected as presidents of the junior and sophomore classes respectively. A president for the freshman class will be named by the student council shortly.

U. of C. Festival to Recall Its 39 Years' Work

Offers Great Contrast with Harper's Arrival.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The University of Chicago enters upon its fortieth year of teaching and research today. With the opening of 800 classes in the quadrangle halls it enters also upon the most significant educational experiment of modern times, its flexible, timeless curriculum, which was foreshadowed even at its founding in the plans of its first president, Dr. William Rainey Harper.

A commemorative service will be held at noon today in the new chapel with Dean Charles W. Gilkey presiding. The contrast between this beautiful structure and the old chapel in Cobb hall, which was opened on Oct. 1, 1892, tells the story of the university's material progress. The effects of its research work have been felt throughout the civilized world. As the evangel of a new teaching method its work is still to be done.

The first students, who tramped across the swamps to attend the opening classes, had the vision of ten buildings to arise on the campus. John D. Rockefeller had given $600,000, and others had raised the assets to $4,000,000.

Today the assets of the university, as given in the forthcoming report of the comptroller, are $108,779,549.

The original student enrollment was 594. Today there are 5,500 on the quadrangles, exclusive of 2,500 in Rush Medical college, 2,500 more in the University college downtown, and 7,000 more registered for home correspondence courses. The original faculty was 120. It now numbers 904. There are 85 buildings in use for educational purposes. Six of the original teachers still are at the university. They are Dr. Frank Lillie, dean of biological sciences; Dr. Paul Shorey, professor of Greek; Prof. Julius Stieglitz, chairman of the chemistry department; Prof. Carl D. Buck, head of the department of comparative philology; Dr. Edwin O. Jordan, chairman of the department of hygiene and bacteriology, and Coach A. A. Stagg.

The university has produced four of the five American winners of the Nobel prize. Among its other famous men were Dr. Forest Moulton and the late Prof. Thomas Chamberlin, authors of the planetesimal hypothesis of the earth's origin; Albion Small, "a father of modern sociology"; John Dewey, Jacques Loeb, and Thorstein Veblen.

Dr. Frederic Woodward, vice president, in the current issue of the university magazine, says of the future:

"After consulting with the various divisions of the university President Hutchins has drawn up a schedule of the university's present and impending needs which involves the addition of 93 million dollars to our assets. Of this needed amount 26 million is listed as necessary for the first stage of reinforcement and expansion."

Six buildings are now under way—the south of the Midway residence halls for 400 men; International house, which will provide for 500 foreign students; the Chicago Lying-In hospital and dispensary, the graduate building for the School of Education, the Oriental institute, and the athletic field house. During the current year it is planned to start work on the art building and a group of residence halls for women. A hospital unit for infectious diseases will be built soon, also a nurses' home and new buildings for the department of hygiene and bacteriology.

A unit for psychiatry and mental hygiene should be an early development, Dr. Woodward states, also an adequate administration headquarters. There has been a suggestion for a "science capitol" on the bookstore site.

"If present plans can be carried out," he continues, "the college division of the university will eventually center along the south front of the Midway. On the square block which is called Greenwood field there will probably rise one or more halls, containing the library of the college, lecture and conference rooms, and quarters for student activities.

"The university may be expected to take an increasing interest in adult education, principally through University college downtown and particularly at an advanced level, as typified by postgraduate and seminar work for professional men and women. Such an expansion calls for an adequate downtown building.

YANKEES HEAR FRANCE HAS A PLANE TO FLY 465 MILES AN HOUR

San Pedro, Cal., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Possibility of spanning the Atlantic by air in ten hours is opened up by the manufacture of a new type French plane designed and equipped to operate above 30,000 feet altitude, in the stratosphere, at 465 miles per hour, it was learned aboard the United States fleet flagship Pennsylvania. There details of the extraordinary craft have just been received.

The new aerial speedster, now undergoing tests at Le Bourget field at Paris, was constructed along lines suggested by the Belgian scientist who last year made his sensational balloon ascension into the stratosphere.

The new plane is all metal and has a hermetically sealed cabin in which normal atmospheric pressures will be maintained by an automatic pump system which has proved eminently successful in ground tests. It has a four bladed propeller 17 feet in diameter that tilts up when the plane is at rest on the ground. The motor is equipped with two superchargers, one charging the other.

The French government appropriated nearly a million dollars for the development of the plane, which is being manufactured by the Farman company. The first of three machines is now assembled and undergoing tests.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Samuel Colt, Ethel Barrymore's son, is likely to be the next member of the clan to be heard from in pictures. He's in Hollywood, frankly ambitious for a chance in the films, but says he does not want to make his way on the prestige of his famous uncles, John and Lionel. He has screen tests coming up early next week. Those who recall the long and arduous time spent by young Douglas Fairbanks in pressing to the front as an actor are watching young Colt's appearance with interest.

Now that Mary Pickford is quitting motion pictures of the sort that made her a star for twelve or fifteen years, the Fox studio is launched on a very definite plan to substitute little Janet Gaynor in her place.

During the $775,000 lawsuit brought by heirs of the ten motion picture workers who were killed in the collision of two planes filming Fox's "Such Men Are Dangerous" in January, 1930, Col. Roscoe Turner, eyewitness, who was piloting a third plane, testified that he was paid $25 for his services in arranging the flight. Col. Turner was at the stick of the third plane, from which a parachute jumper was supposed to leap.

During the current rage for Chinese pictures, Universal is joining with "Cabinet of Ling, Fu," a two reel detective yarn.

As soon as the postworld series barnstorming is over, Babe Ruth will come west to make some baseball shorts for Universal.

Frederick Lonsdale did so well for Metro in his first scenario writing venture that the studio is bringing him back from England Jan. 1 to do another original. The one that won him the Hollywood return ticket is "Comrades." Not yet out.

Women's Fashion Rule Told in Lecture on Home Decoration

Empress Eugenie, after whom all the hats are named this year, no matter what shape they take, was a red haired madcap who never wore a costume more than once. Thus she was described yesterday to more than 400 clubwomen in the Chicago Beach hotel by Kenneth Foster, member of the faculty of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and authority on interior decoration.

Just as Eugenie, who was the wife of Napoleon III., influenced the dress of women of the court in the nineteenth century, and is enjoying a revival now, so did some of her predecessors influence styles of furniture, styles which again are coming into ascendency, the lecturer said.

His address, "European Tradition Reflected in the American Home," was the principal feature of an American home salon held under the auspices of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the federation, presided.

"Eugenie's hair was naturally red, but when it began to fade she dyed it to keep it its original vivid color," Foster said. "When members of her family reproached her, saying it was too bright for her age, she threatened to dye it purple if they didn't quit talking about it."

Adopted Daughter Happy Because She Was Told About It

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The letters quoted on preceding days, this week, about children knowing they are adopted have been from the foster parents. What have the children to say about it? Here are a few extracts from an adopted daughter's letter:

"I am an adopted child and am going to try and tell you why I am glad I was told and how it was explained to me.

"I was taken when I was just a few hours old and from the time I was old enough to talk [about 2 years or so] I have known I was adopted. Of course, at that time I did not know what it was all about, but my foster mother started by telling me I had two mothers and maybe my other mother was in heaven.

"As the years went by I became more and more inquisitive and I had many vague ideas of what it was all about, but still was too young to understand the full significance of it all. Whenever I asked questions my foster mother tried her best to tell me and explain to me why I had two mothers and why she loved me so much, even if she was not my 'real' mother. Then the time came when I was old enough to be taught about how life begins. As I remember it my foster mother made my whole story clear to me—why I had two mothers—and then I knew.

"I think it would be perfectly terrible if I didn't know that I am adopted. Why, some day a stranger or perhaps one of the family that knew would tell me that these were my foster parents. The shock would be dreadful. No one can ever tell me that for I know it and can meet a situation of that kind with my head up and proud that I know."

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

An entirely new idea in sleeve treatment is shown in this model, with the graceful skirt with a peplum frill emphasizing the flat slimness of the hips. The neckline is most interesting. One of the sheer woolens in a dark red, or black satin crêpe with an eggshell shade for contrast are smart suggestions.

The pattern, 3342, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Coloring Finger Tips Is Growing Into an Art, Says Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Coloring for the fingertips is taking on a study course comparable to the interest taken in rouge tones that go with certain costumes and occasions.

There are those who like and those who do not like the blood red nail enamels, but the fact remains that they are being worn as an effective contrast to pale frocks and white skin. For evening they fit into the spirit of gayety associated with dancing places. Women who wouldn't be so brilliantly fingernail lighted in the daytime like to introduce the flaming shade into their evening ensembles.

For daytime there are shades that are more becoming to one's activities and the busier hours. There are petal-pink tones and coral shades and reds that are shaded away from the blood colorings. Anyway, this color dressing for the nails is something to investigate.

Speaking of nails, I ran across a woman recently who has built up a marvelous clientele simply on her manicuring work. She charges a good stiff price for her work. She has to make the game pay her. But when she gives a manicure you can hold your hands up with the best of 'em.

One thing she never will do is to cut the cuticle, no matter what shape the nails are in. She'll urge the customer to come back frequently until she has the nails in good condition. In the meantime, you must use an oil on the flesh rims nightly, or she'll have nothing to do with you. And that is the proper way to tend nails and the way to acquire half moons that make the ideal setting for charmingly colored nails.

Have you run across those handy little pencil types of nail whitener which you may carry in your purse and use for the tip freshening for your dinner date? That white rim at the nail tip does something to your morale as well as to your hands.

It's true that if your hands aren't always presentable it certainly is no fault of the hand cosmetic manufacturers.

Happy Girl Loses 41 Pounds of FAT

Popular Detroit Girl Jubilant With Joy—Reduced Hips 6 Inches, Bust 6 Inches—Wears Smaller Size Dresses—Feels Fine—Wins Many New Friends—Goes Everywhere Now.

Imagine the tragic heartaches of a pretty young girl as she sees people avoid her because of excess weight, ugly fat, double chin, heavy arms and legs, large bust and hips.

If you are handicapped with excessive weight, indigestion, dizziness and other tortures that plague fat folks—wouldn't it make you happy beyond description to have an experience like this pretty Detroit girl? Don't say it can't be done, for such reports are constantly pouring into the headquarters of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, the safe and natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. Read the almost miraculous story of Miss Rose Sparrow, 7581 Arcola St., Detroit, Mich., who states:

"I weighed 197 pounds—today only 156. In a short time I lost 41 pounds. Reduced 6 inches in the bust and 6 inches in the hips. I can wear a 38 size dress now. Since losing in weight my indigestion and gastritis have disappeared and my friends are not ashamed to go out or be seen with me. I feel so fine and happy and have many more friends than I had a month ago. I thank you for the Bonkora treatment and recommend it to my girl friends who are also using it. It sure is a lot of fun taking Bonkora for reducing."

Big bottle of Bonkora only 98c at Walgreen & Economical Drug Stores.

You may not want to lose 41 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages," as given in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes, showing you how to select the correct combinations, those foods you probably like best, furnished free.

Simply get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, with free list of anti-fat food combinations, at Walgreen's today—unhealthy fat will quickly disappear, and with it bloat, gas and other stomach ills. You'll feel younger; yes, you'll look younger with those bright eyes and that clear skin and stunning, youthful figure which only perfect health can impart.

Satin Is Favored for Evening Events

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Satin is going to be one of the prime favorites among the materials being used by Paris dressmakers for fall and winter fashions. It makes simple, tailored daytime dresses and waistcoats, it lines winter coats, and is used overwhelmingly for late afternoon and evening.

Satin evening frocks this season are different in color from the black and white satin dresses of the last summer. They come in the dark, rich shades of the Victorian era—dark red, brown, deep Prussian blue, copper and terra cotta, and they also appear in such quaint shades as robin's egg blue, Nile green and salmon pink.

Lace trimmings for the satin dress are fresh, and Paris adores them. Some of the smartest evening frocks shown in France are trimmed with lace, which varies from thread lace to real Irish crochet. Lots of Venetian lace is used also on velvet and satin dresses.

The evening frock shown in our sketch is from Yteb and has a modernized empire line, developed in shiny satin in a dark coppery brown. The satin is not stiff but has plenty of body, and this kind of satin replaces largely the supple crêpe satin of past seasons.

The model shown is draped under a turquoise pin at the front of the empire waistline, and this drapery extends around in back to become sash ends, as shown in the small sketch. A bertha of ecru lace gives the fashionable rounded shoulder line. The skirt is flared in front by a circular godet and trails in a small point in back.

Chinese Calm Greets Visitors to Arts Club

BY THALIA——.

THREE ancient Chinese empresses compose a graceful, albeit an inanimate, receiving line to greet members of the Arts club who drop in at the clubrooms in the Wrig building annex for a chat with fel members and a cup of tea at the informal opening this afternoon. They don't constitute a very loquacious welcoming committee, to be sure. They won't babble, "My dear, I'm so glad to see you. Have you had a nice summer?" or ask how your husband is, or exclaim, "Isn't this depression awful, too dreadful?" They won't even shake hands, and they can't very well walk around because their toes are all chipped.

They are very decorative, though, and everybody will be pleased to see them. They came from some old temple in China, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter having found them there when she and Mr. Carpenter were traveling in the orient last winter. Most of the other lovely objets d'art in the Arts club have been acquired by Mrs. Carpenter on her numerous and various shopping tours, or perhaps I should say shopping tours in exotic places.

The empresses are about 3 or 4 feet high, and they repose in benign complacency on flat pedestals on delicately wrought table of satiny dark sandalwood that Mrs. Carpenter had made especially for them in China.

This afternoon's affair is merely the way of opening the rooms for the fall season. The formal opening will take place until the first large exhibition some time in November. Luncheons and tea will be served tomorrow and thereafter.

Chinese Calm Greets Visitors to Arts Club

BY THALIA——

THREE ancient Chinese empresses compose a graceful, albeit an inanimate, receiving line to greet members of the Arts club who drop in at the clubrooms in the Wrigley building annex for a chat with fellow members and a cup of tea at the informal opening this afternoon. They won't constitute a very loquacious welcoming committee, to be sure. They won't babble, "My dear, I'm so glad to see you. Have you had a nice summer?" or ask how your husband is, or exclaim, "Isn't this depression too, too dreadful?" They won't even shake hands, and they can't very well walk around because their toes are quite chipped.

They are very decorative, though, and everybody will be pleased to see them. They came from some old temple in China, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter having found them there when she and Mr. Carpenter were traveling in the orient last winter. Most of the other lovely objets d'art in the Arts club have been acquired by Mrs. Carpenter on her numerous and various exotic shopping tours, or perhaps I should say shopping tours in exotic places.

The empresses are about 3 or 4 feet high, and they repose in benign complacency on flat pedestals on a delicately wrought table of satiny dark rosewood that Mrs. Carpenter had made especially for them in China.

This afternoon's affair is merely by way of opening the rooms for the fall season. The formal opening won't take place until the first large exhibition some time in November. Luncheons and tea will be served tomorrow and thereafter.

Onwentsia Steeplechase Will Be Held October 10.

The annual Onwentsia Hunt race meeting, more frequently referred to as the Onwentsia steeplechase, is to be held a week from Saturday, Oct. 10, on the Onwentsia grounds and the adjoining property of Edward F. Swift.

The program will this year include one race over post and rail fences, two brush races, a polo pony race, a ladies' flat race, a flat race for men, and besides, the hunters' trials, which is a new event. For the latter the majority of the Onwentsia Hunt members have entered their horses, and a few members of other recognized western hunts.

The entries to date include the Ralph Hines, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, Mrs. William H. Mitchell Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke Jr., G. Corson Ellis, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. David Pope, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, the Austin H. Niblacks, and the Pirie brothers, Robert and John T. Jr.

Parking space may be reserved by applying to the parking space committee at Onwentsia, and costs $15 per car, which includes admission for 6 occupants. Individual tickets may be obtained the day of the meet at the gate.

Benefit Oct. 15 for the Park Ridge Girls' School.

Mrs. William H. Colvin is to open her residence at 1101 Forest avenue, Evanston, on Thursday evening, Oct. 15, for a musical program to benefit the Park Ridge School for Girls. Mrs. Raymond Ashcraft is chairman of the special committee in charge and is being assisted by Mrs. Colvin and Mrs. George Olmsted and other members of the board of directors for the school.

If you're wearing your last year's suit and a Junior leaguer looks at you disapprovingly, it's only because she's on the lookout for potential castoffs for the fall second hand clothes sale, to be held on Friday, Oct. 16. Dorothy and Barbara Senn are chairmen of the committee making the arrangements, and they're having a tea meeting of the other workers this afternoon. Virginia Waller is to have charge of the selling; Mrs. Edward Hagey, the wrapping; Marion McKinley is business chairman, and Winifred Wheeler, publicity. The collection committee will call for garments or they can be left at the league's new office if you have any donations.

Concerning College and Changes of Residence.

Schoolbooks and moving vans—Miss Theodora Shaw, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's daughter, returns today to her studies at Sarah Lawrence college in Bronxville, to remain until the Christmas holidays. . . . Comedian Ordered to Pay Hospital Bill of Son

Judge Harry B. Miller entered an order in the Superior court yesterday requiring Cliff Edwards, screen comedian, to pay $1,200 toward the hospital bill of his son, George Clifton Edwards, 12 years old. The boy is in the West Lake hospital in Melrose Park, where both his legs were amputated some weeks ago after he fell under a railroad train.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriquez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act. She decides to marry Wallace.

INSTALLMENT X.

A LAWFUL WEDDED WIFE.

Wallace was due at the Bartrum shortly. He had arranged to take Irma for a drive before luncheon. A sudden inspiration sent him swiftly downstairs again.

"Mildred, I just thought of it. Would you like to take a ride with Irma and me?"

"When?"

"In about half an hour."

"O, I can't daddy. Jane's coming over and we're going to the Fultons' house. Martha Fulton's going to teach us mah jong."

"I see." He went upstairs again feeling somehow humiliated and a little cross.

Mildred saw him come down a few minutes later. He said, "Good-by, daughter," and closed the door. Mildred heard the car depart, then she climbed the stairs. In her room she opened the lower drawer and drew out one by one the mementos which Aunt Tess had saved so that she [Mildred] might have something that had been her mother's. There was a hat box on the second shelf of her closet. It had been cherished because it had large, red roses on a pink background. Mildred climbed upon a chair and hit it with a coat hanger. The box rolled down. She dusted it carefully, and then with one hand gathered up the heart shaped locket, the bit of ecru lace, the straight blond lock of hair, and the tiny white book and dumped them all carelessly into the hat box. The photograph was too large to be crushed with the other things in her hand. She picked it up and looked at it.

"I guess you've been dead too long for anybody to really care about you," she whispered. The eyes of her mother regarded her questioningly from under the gargantuant brim. "Yes, too long. Daddy's marrying again, and I'm making more room in my bureau by putting your things on the top shelf."

Mildred dropped the picture in the hat box and clapped the lid on swiftly as though she feared it would escape. As she replaced the hat box within the circle it had made in the dust she hummed a cheerful little song. But when Aunt Tess came to tell her that dinner was ready she found Mildred weeping bitterly.

"Now, now, dear, don't feel so badly. We won't say anything to daddy about how you feel. It would only spoil his happiness, and I'm sure the girl will be very nice to you."

Mildred turned on her with one of her curious, sudden rages. "It has nothing to do with the girl or with you or daddy. Keep out of what you can't understand, will you?"

"Honey, don't shout at me."

"Go away, will you? Please go away."

Aunt Tess left her then, remembering as she always did at such moments that there was insanity in Anne Graham's family. She would have been doubly alarmed had she known that Mildred cried because she regretted the cruel words she had spoken to her mother a few minutes before.

Irma married Wallace Graham on Monday. Bill Fitzroy went down to the city hall with them to see that it was done quite properly. It was all very depressing. The city hall ceremony is as inspiring and impressive as the purchase of a special delivery stamp at the nearest postoffice. The county clerk was a casual sort of gentleman whose breath smelled slightly lawless.

Irma did not listen to the words which were uttered without expression or interest. She held Wallace's hand and permitted her mind to split into two sections, each with its own distinct philosophy and comment.

"You're doing the sensible thing," she heard from one corner of her brain. "You're not crazy about him, but then you'd never be crazy about any man. This is the most affection you'd ever feel. He'll be good to you. Why should you spend your life trouping until you're too old to troupe? Your dancing isn't good enough to have gotten you into the big money. You're doing the best thing right now. You'll be happy in this town and safe and comfortable, and he's a good man if ever one lived."

"Listen," the other section answered, "You're only nineteen. You could have tried for ten years to make the stage give you something. At the end of that time if you failed you could have married just as well as this any day. You should be in Garchester now getting ready for the matinée. If you'd gone, you'd have never come back here. You'd have had time to think this over and realize what a sap you'd be to marry Graham. This is madness. What are you doing?"

But Wallace kissed her then, and she was his lawful wedded wife. They had luncheon in the marble room. Bill went along. Wallace was in high good humor. He was sorry that he had to go to the office that afternoon. They'd all take a nice ride somewhere, he said, if things weren't so rushed at the factory. Bill couldn't have gone, anyhow. He also had things to do.

So Irma found herself at 2 o'clock walking alone along Thrace's Main street. The sight of the department store reminded her as it had on her arrival in town that she needed stockings. She went in and bought two pairs. There was something else she had wanted to buy in Thrace. What was it? O, cosmetic. Well, she wouldn't need that now. And there was the Golden Parrot Tearoom. She had first glimpsed that from the taxi window. She wondered what it was like inside. She wished desperately that she were hungry or thirsty. It would be a good way to kill time. She hated to go home without Wallace.

The thought came to her that Wallace would be thrilled to have her open the door for him when he arrived from business. She got a cab and gave the address.

Aunt Tess was knitting. She smiled sweetly at Irma.

"How are you, dear? Is there anything I can do to make you feel at home? You just scoop Wallace's things all out of the bureau and arrange your things. If there's any room left when you're finished, then he can have it."

Irma laughed. "I haven't much of anything," she said. "I'll only need an old glove box for my belongings."

Mildred came home directly from school that day. She, too, smiled pleasantly and asked Irma if she needed any extra hangers for her closet.

Irma thanked her and said no. She wanted to engage the girl in pleasant, easy flowing conversation but knew not how to start. Certainly there was something they could discuss together.

"What's the name of your high school?" Irma asked after she had rejected the movies as a topic.

"It's the Emanuel Penwick."

"O." Irma was conscious of Mildred's eyes regarding her politely and of Mildred's body eager to be gone. Now was the time to say something that would capture her interest and cause her to stop teetering impatiently on the balls of her feet. If she could only introduce the right subject.

"Yes, the Emanuel Penwick," Mildred said again after a time. She walked hastily from the room then as though she had been sharply summoned.

Wallace came home and said, "Hello, dear," when Irma opened the door for him. He did look awfully pleased.

They dined and conversation flowed readily enough. Aunt Tess had met Dr. Pease on the street. Mildred had had more trouble with her English teacher. Nobody referred to the fact that Wallace and Irma had that day been married.

After dinner a few people dropped in. Aunt Tess and Mildred dropped out. Irma could hear the whir of a sewing machine somewhere upstairs. Aunt Tess was no doubt making something for Mildred. Fitting it to her tall, young form and with a mouthful of pins perhaps talking of the new Mrs. Graham.

Thus Irma's wedding day.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

Her first anniversary was infinitely unlike her wedding day. To begin with, the baby made a tremendous difference. He was three weeks old on the Graham's anniversary. Irma looked at him and remembered that this day a year ago she should have been getting ready for the matinée in Garchester. A year could make immeasurable changes. From where she sat with the baby in her arms she could raise her eyes and contemplate some of these changes. A three-quarters view of her face disclosed a cheek bone that stood out prominently above a frightening'y concave line. Her face was thin and the weeks in the hospital had given it a horrifying pallor. Two months before she had had her hair cut short. She had been bothered by its weight. It curled above her ears now, and despite her unhealthy appearance she looked very young. Like a sick kid, she thought.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Widow Needs Clothing.

"I am a widow with a little girl of 3 years to support. I am out of work and get only a little housework or cleaning to do now and then. I need clothing and cannot buy it. Perhaps your readers will have some discarded clothing in my size to give. I wear size 38 or 40 in a coat, and 18 or 20 in a dress. MRS. B. C."

With little or no work and a child to support, it is impossible for this widow to provide the clothing she needs. Can you help her by giving the garments you no longer wear?

Zither Harp Offered.

"I have a zither harp which I should like to give to some shutin. Do you know of some one who would like to have it? MRS. B."

Here's a gift for the aspiring musician who cannot afford to buy his own instrument. Write me, if you'd like to have it; please do not telephone.

Easy Divorce Causes Many Women Regret When It's Too Late

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I divorced my husband a couple of months ago, for certain reasons. We both agreed that a divorce would be the only thing. Of course, we have no grievances against each other. We speak when we meet in the street.

"Now he has married again. I wished him all the luck in the world. But the awful thing is that I care for him. I think of him all the time. I can't get my mind down to working out by own salvation. I have to do something. But I don't know how to go about forgetting. Have you any help for likes of me?

"FAITHFUL."

The devilish thing about this easy divorce getting business is that just scads of women begin regretting immediately the diploma is handed them. It wasn't a divorce that they wanted, at all. But divorce being so thoroughly popularized now, it looks like an adventure to a lot of women—before they get it.

And it's a hard period of readjustment for the woman who can't forget. You can't tear that old feeling out by the roots if you're the kind of woman that can't forget. You have to be one to the manner born or trained to take your matrimony so lightly that you can be off with the old and on with the new without a qualm.

I'll wager out of the whole divorce population, more women have regretted than rejoiced. Not that there aren't occasions when two people would be better people for a separate living arrangement. But the divorce palliative for injured feelings just isn't proving the promised cure for a great many women and men.

If the thing weren't so widely advertised as a panacea, married folk would be in a better frame of mind for compromises, for glossing over difficulties, quarrels, and misunderstandings. We need more propaganda, like "Faithful's" confession, so that the other side of matrimonial freedom is aired. Nothing can be done about it, once the other half takes a second mate. The second marriages often are committed in the name of "I'll show him or her!"

How to forget? Can it be done if you've loved your mate and some other person has him or her, and you have no one?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Why the Secrecy?

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl and I don't want to show her friends and mine that I do. Please advise. "TROUBLED."

Why the secrecy? It's something to be proud of, isn't it?

Smile at Each Other.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a girl a few weeks ago. When we meet she smiles at me and I smile back. I haven't asked her to go out with me. I hesitate to ask her. What shall I do? JOE."

If you want to impress the young lady favorably, just step right up and ask her the next time you meet. The longer you delay, the harder it will be.

Food Talk.

How many of you are still canning peaches? I have a letter today which may help you, in the event you are just finishing some preserving.

Mrs. C. S. M. writes: "I would appreciate your helping me, as I am without assistance and the proper knowledge. I have put up several jars of peaches, and in each case air develops in the jars and practically ruins all my work. This is the manner in which I have done my work and I wonder if you can see my error.

"This year I have used new caps and rubbers. I place my peaches in the jars and then pour in a hot sirup in the jar, having previously placed a silver knife in the jar to prevent it from cracking. After I get the jar filled the peaches seem to come to the top, which makes me believe that air is in the jar somehow. I fill the jars up to the very rim and clear the rim off to prevent any part of the fruit from sticking on the rim. I place my rubber on tightly and then the cap more tightly—several hours later tightening the cap more, if possible. In every case the fruit seems to leak out and, of course, starts to turn."

This is a tragedy when you have worked so hard, Mrs. C. S. M. Let me say first, before discussing your canning methods, that all jars, even new ones, should always be tested before you use them. Do this by putting hot water in each one; adjust the rubber tightly and the cap, and then test by turning upside down and from side to side.

Whether you use hot or cold pack methods of canning, the fruits and vegetables treated must be subjected to heat, either after they have been packed in the jar [cold pack] or before packing. You evidently have not cooked the peaches, but put them in the jars and trusted to the sirup to take care of them.

In the future cook the skinned peaches in the sirup for about five minutes, or until a pin can penetrate the flesh readily. Then pack them immediately in hot sterile, tested jars; cover with sirup; wipe off the rubber and seal immediately. It is easier to stand the jars in a pan of warm water, about an inch deep, for packing than to bother with the silver knife in each jar. Don't pack the jars too full. Allow at least an inch or more space at the top of the jar—this admonition applies only to the peaches, not the sirup.

Don't be concerned about the peaches coming to the top; if they have been properly canned this will make no difference in their preservation qualities.

NUT BREAD.

2-3 cup of sugar.
1 cup of nut meats.
4 teaspoons of baking powder.
1 teaspoon of salt.
1¼ cups of milk.
1 egg, well beaten.

Sift the flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder three times. Add the egg to the milk and then, together, to the flour. Distribute the nut meats evenly throughout with a spoon. Put in a greased bread pan. Place in a cold oven. Let rise for thirty minutes and then bake for an hour in a moderate oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit].

I'll give you the recipe for the artichoke salad tomorrow.

Memphis Educator May Face Trial on Charges of Heresy

Greenwood, Tenn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A special committee, which was expected to recommend whether a heresy trial should be held for Dr. Charles E. Diehl, president of Southwestern, a denominational school at Memphis, submitted its report to the Nashville presbytery of the Southern Presbyterian church here today without recommendations.

Dr. Diehl's orthodoxy has been formally attacked on two occasions in the last year.

The first time was in a petition to Southwestern's board of directors last October. The board subsequently gave him a vote of confidence.

The second attack came at the April meeting of the Nashville presbytery, when his beliefs were assailed by Elder Eugene T. Hollins of Nashville.

The report today contained Dr. Diehl's answers to nine major questions and numerous subordinate queries as to his orthodoxy.

The answers asserted Dr. Diehl's belief in the virgin birth of Christ, in the bodily resurrection of Christ, and in hell. With reference to the opening part of the book of Genesis, he said:

"Properly interpreted, there is no conflict between these chapters and true science."

The presbytery voted to hear the committee's communication later today at the conclusion of which a vote for or against a trial may be made, churchmen said.

The one lure American Women lack

Lady Agnes Buller After an old miniature

AMERICAN WOMEN charm men of every nation, because they alone combine the witcheries of all women. Only one final touch of perfection have they missed—the celebrated English complexion. The women of England have the matchless complexions of the world.

For 142 years the loveliness of these women has been guarded by Pears' Soap. Get a cake and watch its generous lather stimulate loveliness. At all drug and department stores, wherever toilet goods are sold. Pears' Soap, unscented 15¢. Scented, a bit more.

Prof. Breasted Returns.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Prof. James Breasted of the University of Chicago returned from Europe on board the Red Star liner Lapland today.

To be a HEALTHY WOMAN watch your Bowels!

WHAT should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. It doesn't sicken or weaken you. But its action is thorough. It carries off the sour bile and poisonous waste. It does everything you want it to do. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Give some to keep little bowels open during colds.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all druggists keep it ready in big bottles) and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

Save their E-L-A-S-T-I-C-I-T-Y*

and even the sheerest stockings will last

THOSE cobwebby stockings, just a bit of mist over the slim curve of the leg—do you know that you can make them really wear?

When the stocking is new, each silken thread is elastic, like rubber—it gives, doesn't break, under strain. Stretches and comes right back again into shape!

But when elasticity is destroyed the threads are lifeless as old rubber. Ready to break into runs at the least strain—a bend of the knee, a pull of the garter. Apt to sag—causing wrinkles, crooked seams.

That is why Lux is made to preserve elasticity. So if you'll follow the Lux way each night it won't be the least bit extravagant to wear very sheer stockings every day—they'll always look lovely and they'll really last!

*The Lux Way to preserve the ELASTICITY that makes stockings WEAR and FIT

When you put on a new stocking, fit it like a new glove—the seam especially. It will always look smarter if you do this.

Wash after EACH wearing. Perspiration left in the stocking will actually rot the silk.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk, making it lifeless, apt to break into runs, and ill-fitting. With Lux there's no rubbing. Even stubborn spots come out perfectly if you gently press a few dry Lux diamonds into the dampened spot.

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. 1 teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze gentle suds through stockings, rinse well. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your stockings, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. XG-8, Cambridge, Mass.

N. Y. GAMBLING PROTECTED, SAYS VETERAN RAIDER

Cannot Exist Without It, Witness Avers.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Two [illegible] of testimony featured today's public hearing before the Hofstadter committee. Lieut. Ezekiel E. Keller, retired undercover squad raider, spoke on his belief based on twenty-nine years of police work that "professional gambling could not exist in New York if it were not protected by politicians and others." Patrolman John J. McDonough testified that Acting Captain John T. Howard, attached to Mayor Walker's office, tried to "fix" the case of two men arrested in a speakeasy raid.

Lieut. Keller expressed his belief that a tie-up between politicians and gangsters after Counsel Samuel Seabury had finished bringing out his testimony yesterday, about the raids of political clubs under Commissioner George V. McLaughlin and Joseph A. Warren. Today Keller told of raids on the District club of Chief Clerk Harry C. Perry of the City court, at 101 Bowery and of a speakeasy on East 85th street.

Ask Police to "Lay Off."

John Mooney, the alleged proprietor, and George Taylor, bartender, were arrested in that raid and their different efforts were made to get the police to "lay off," Keller and McDonough said.

The first request was made by Keller at the time of the raid. A man who the bartender said was "Mike," enough, the chief clerk in the district attorney's office," was in the speakeasy and tried to get him to "lay off" on Mooney and Taylor. Keller refused.

William L. Kavanaugh, the president of the Democratic leader of the 3d district and deputy commissioner of water, supply, gas, and electricity, was there at the time of the raid. March 22, 1930, he was the chief clerk in the district attorney's office.

Tells of Second Attempt.

The second attempt to "fix" the case was recounted by Patrolman McDonough. He secured the evidence on which Keller's raid was made. A few days after the raid, McDonough received a subpoena directing him to call on "Mr. O'Brien," at the district attorney's office.

McDonough could not find a "Mr. O'Brien" at that office, but some one in the halls told him to "go down to see Johnny Howard, down at the mayor's office."

At city hall, McDonough asked a police lieutenant at a desk where he would find "Johnny Howard," and the lieutenant pointed out a man in civilian clothes.

"I walked over to him and told him I was Patrolman McDonough that I made the Mooney arrest. He did he want to see me," said the patrolman.

Asks If He Can Help.

"He said he did. He said: 'Can you do anything for him?'"

"For whom?" asked Counsel Seabury.

"For Mooney. And he said, 'As a favor. You may be looking for a favor yourself some time.' And I said, 'I am sorry, but I already have sent an affidavit to the facts in the case.'"

And then McDonough testified that the man pointed out to him as Howard added. "If you can do anything for him, we might be able to do something for you."

Lieut. Howard was made an acting captain by Former Commissioner Whalen three days after he took office. Commissioner Warren has refused to promote Howard.

N. Y. GAMBLING PROTECTED, SAYS VETERAN RAIDER

Cannot Exist Without It, Witness Avers.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Two pieces of testimony featured today's public hearing before the Hofstadter committee. Lieut. Ezekiel E. John Mooney, the alleged proprietor, and George Taylor, bartender, were arrested in that raid and two different efforts were made to get the police to "lay off," Keller and McDonough said.

The first request was made to Keller at the time of the raid. A man who the bartender said was "Kavanaugh, the chief clerk in the district attorney's office," was in the speakeasy and tried to get him to "go easy" on Mooney and Taylor. Keller refused.

William L. Kavanaugh, the present Democratic leader of the 3d district and deputy commissioner of water supply, gas, and electricity, was at the time of the raid, March 23, 1927, the chief clerk in the district attorney's office.

"He said he did. He said: 'Can you do anything for him?'"

"For whom?" asked Counsel Seabury.

"For Mooney. And he said, 'Do us a favor. You may be looking for a favor yourself some time.' 'Well,' I said, 'I am sorry, but I already made out an affidavit to the facts in the case.'"

And then McDonough testified that the man pointed out to him as Lieut. Howard added. "If you can do anything for him, we might be able to do something for you."

Lieut. Howard was made an acting captain by Former Commissioner Whalen three days after he took office. Commissioner Warren had refused to promote Howard.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Terrace Family

O! O! BIG CHIEF HO HO'S HA HA IS A BOO HOO AGAIN

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Chief Ho Ho, kinky haired medicine man who claims the Cherokee Indian reservation in Oklahoma as his home, camped tonight under the unfriendly roof of the Stephenson county jail at Freeport, convinced that the ways of the white man are strange, and convincing every one else that the ways of the white women are stranger.

A jury of "palefaces" in County Judge George T. Liddell's court here found the "herb doctor" not guilty of practicing medicine without a license in Winnebago county.

About ten minutes after the verdict was returned the dusky "healer" appeared garbed once more in the brilliant feathered headdress and beaded attire which had been taken from him when he entered the jail a week ago.

Smiling broadly, the "chief," surrounded by his feminine "patients," marched proudly out of the building and down the street. Two ominous figures, who followed closely the triumphant procession, laid firm hands on the chief and served a warrant, obtained by Judd Edwards, head of the Chicago office of the state department of registration and education, charging the "herb doctor" with practicing medicine in Stephenson county without a license. He was immediately taken to Freeport and lodged in jail to await trial.

GEN. E. ST. J. GREBLE, ONCE COMMANDER OF 36TH DIVISION, DEAD

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Edwin St. John Greble, who died today at the age of 72 after a long illness, will be buried Friday afternoon in Arlington National cemetery. He commanded the 36th division of the National Guard at Fort Worth, Tex., in the world war.

He was retired in October, 1918, because of disability incurred in active service. He was born at West Point, N. Y., June 24, 1857, the son of Lieut. John Trout Greble, the first regular officer of the Union army to be killed in the civil war, and Mrs. Sarah Bradley French Greble.

He was appointed to the military academy by Gen. Ulysses S. Grant and on his graduation in 1881 was attached to the 2d artillery, his father's old regiment.

SIR WM. ORPEN, NOTED ENGLISH ARTIST, IS DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Sir William Orpen, famous artist, died in London Tuesday night. His death was not revealed until late tonight. Sir William was taken ill last May almost immediately after the opening of the Royal academy. Critics commented adversely on his picture, "Palm Sunday, A. D. 1933," which appeared in the exhibition.

Sir William Orpen, who was born in 1878 in Ireland, was president of the International Society of Sculptors, Painters and Gravers for the last ten years. He was a member of the Academy of Arts and Letters of the United States.

Besides his art work, he was author of "An Onlooker in France," published in 1921, and "Stories of Old Ireland and Myself," published in 1924. He was elected an associate of the Royal academy in 1910 and a member in 1919. He was appointed official artist during the world war and an exhibition of his war pictures was held in London in 1918. Many of these pictures now are in the imperial war museum.

Accused of Assault on Young Kirk of Soap Family

Louis Sarrolli, 1060 Polk street, was arrested yesterday and charged with assault upon Samuel Kirk, 19 years old, son of Wallace F. Kirk, advertising man, and grand-nephew of James F. Kirk, soap magnate. Young Kirk was looking from the window of his home at 1100 Lake Shore drive and saw Sarrolli, driving an automobile, run into a lamp post. He ran to the street and started to drive Sarrolli to a hospital. Suddenly, according to Kirk's story, Sarrolli attacked him and threw him from the automobile.

Hard Times Hit Gophers; Many Trapped for Bounty

Marshalltown, Ia., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The gophers are acute sufferers from the business depression. Nearly 32,000 pairs of gopher feet have been turned in to the county auditor thus far this year for which trappers have received a nickel a foot. This is nearly double the number on which a bounty was claimed last year. Many men and boys are said to be trapping the animals to make a living.

LAVAL TO BRING HOOVER VIEWS OF ALL EUROPE

French Premier Ready to Discuss All Subjects.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—When Premier Laval visits President Hoover in Washington he will tell the President just what Europe thinks he accomplished by starting the movement that called off international debts for one year.

The premier, who announced today that his departure has been definitely set for Oct. 16 aboard the Ile de France, will be the first foreign statesman to talk with the President since the moratorium was suggested.

Arriving in New York Oct. 22, Laval will proceed immediately to Washington for a series of informal talks, during which it is his intention to discuss frankly any matter Mr. Hoover cares to bring up, including war debts and reparations, disarmament and the information he gathered during his visit to Berlin last week-end.

THIN, RUN-DOWN FAMILY GAINS WEIGHT
Mother, Son—and now Father

His turn now to find out how much he's gained! Photo specially posed by Martin Jennings

MOTHER ailing three years: Junior a skinny shadow. And then Father—sick, too.

But even this stricken home was saved—by a simple health-building secret! A new way to gain weight and strength that Mrs. Litke, herself, will tell you about.

"I'd been sick for over 3 yrs. suffering so with my stomach that I thought I'd lose my mind. Then I started taking Ironized Yeast. In a few days I felt better. In 5 months I gained over 30 lbs.

"My little boy was so rundown nothing did him any good. He's taken Ironized Yeast now for 2 months. He can eat a big meal where before his stomach couldn't hold anything. And how he has gained!

"My husband also was a wreck but Ironized Yeast is doing him wonders. It has improved my complexion, too!" Mrs. Frank Litke, 3901 Sheridan Road, Chicago, Ill.

• • •

Not three but thousands—made healthy after months, even years of misery by Ironized Yeast! It can help you, too. Add pounds of firm, sound flesh—bring a radiant complexion—end sleeplessness, poor appetite, constipation!

Double-action! Quick!

Two tonics in one! Ironized Yeast is both body-regulator and body-builder. It not only puts on an average of 5 to 15 pounds in a few weeks according to doctors' reports but actually "rejuvenates" tired, run-down systems! That's because it contains both richest beer yeast—and easily assimilated iron!

This specially cultured yeast is concentrated seven times—for weight-producing value. Then ironized with three distinct types of iron—to strengthen, enrich the blood. Could any tonic be more "balanced"—better able to completely build up rundown, underweight men and women?

Make a generous trial of Ironized Yeast. Then if you do not fill out—gain fresh, clear color—feel glad-to-be-alive—your money will be promptly refunded.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE! Insist on the original, the genuine Ironized Yeast to get the same benefits it has brought countless others. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Pile Sufferers
You Can End Your Torment Quick

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel?

That is the scientific truth about piles.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, the specialist, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers. Don't waste time on external remedies or think of an operation until you have tried a bottle of HEM-ROID tablets. Walgreen's guarantees money back if they do not quickly stop all your pile misery.

Fire department officials are investigating the blaze which almost destroyed a brick building at 2745 South Wells street early yesterday. Damage was estimated at $50,000. A 5-11 alarm was sounded. The structure housed the De Luxe Bus company and the Lehman Furniture company. Another fire swept through the third floor of the Borden Ice Cream company plant at 4941 South Racine avenue yesterday, causing damage of $15,000. Fifty employé were forced to the street.

Italy Condemns 51 to Jail on Charges of Communism

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 30.—Sentences totaling 161 years in prison have been levied during the last week by the special military tribunal for defense of the state on 51 men from Bologna who were charged with being communists, with attempting to reëstablish a communistic organization, and with distributing subversive literature. Twenty-seven men were released on grounds of insufficient evidence after they had spent a year in jail.

BAKER RETIRES AFTER 24 YEARS AS RACINE CHIEF

Racine, Wis., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Police Chief Henry C. Baker retired tonight after 24 years as head of the department.

Baker, who was a police chief for ten years at Madison before coming here, met with his men for the last time today in the police assembly hall. Representing the department, Lieut. Arthur Muhlke, acting chief of police, presented him with a wrist watch. He has been seriously ill, but is recovering. Baker says he will continue to live in Racine, setting at rest rumors that he would make his home in Florida, where he visits almost every year.

The fire and police commission will meet tomorrow night to discuss a successor, though no final action is expected.

Will Ask Bids on 2 Barge Line Boats to Cost $400,000

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Bids for two new federal barge line tow boats at a total cost of around $400,000, will be asked next week. Chairman Ashburn of the Inland Waterways corporation said today the boats would be 1,000 horsepower each with twin screw Diesel engines. A third boat is already under construction. The three boats will ply on the lower Mississippi.

Dump Milk and Destroy Two Trucks in Milk War

Effingham, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—An echo of the recent milk war between the Sanitary Milk association and the Pevely Dairy company resulted in two attacks today in this county when two milk trucks were emptied of 15 cans of milk and both trucks destroyed.

Coffee Importer Killed by Plunge of 15 Stories

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Bert A. Rosenthal, 61 year old coffee importer, whose home is in Paris, fell or jumped from the window of his firm's office on the fifteenth floor of 82 Beaver street today and was killed when his body landed on the tracks of the 3d avenue elevated line.

Mother and 2 Daughters Are Burned to Death

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Jack McNichol and her two daughters, Margaret, 6, and Mary, 8, were burned to death at their home at Glendower, twenty-five miles north of here, early today.

Former Carlisle (Ind.) Man Dies at Sao Paulo, Brazil

Doctor Who Figured in "Diploma Mill" a Suicide

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Robert A. Adcox, 71, who figured in the medical "diploma mill" expose of 1923, shot and killed himself in the bathroom of his home here today. Mrs. Adcox told police her husband had been despondent because of illness and inability to find employment.

Hunt Woman for Quiz in Strangle Murder Case

In an effort to clear up the murder of Mrs. Sarah Siegel, 40 years old, a divorcée, who was found strangled in her apartment at 809 West Van Buren street early yesterday, the Des Plaines street police last night were seeking the mysterious informant who sent them to the flat. A woman, who gave her name over the telephone as "Mrs. Faier" of 3106 South Albany avenue, told the police to investigate Mrs. Siegel's apartment. At the Albany avenue address no one knew of the informant. An inquest will be held today.

FRANKLIN HESS, I. H. C. ATTORNEY, DIES SUDDENLY

Franklin Hess, 61 years old, 6950 Normal boulevard, general attorney for the International Harvester and affiliated companies, died suddenly yesterday in the lobby of the Palmer house. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Hess was born in Somonauk, Ill. He was graduated from Knox college at Galesburg, Ill., in 1894, and from the Kent College of Law in 1897. He began his legal practice in the law department of the Warder, Bushnell, and Glessner company, manufacturers of farm machinery. When that company was absorbed by the International Harvester company in 1902 he was retained in the law department. He was made general attorney in 1920.

He was a trustee of Knox college, a member of the American, Illinois, and

It's not just the variety of furs (though there are more than ten kinds in the group), it's the fact that these furs are finer than we've ever been able to use in coats of this price.

This winter's silhouette, with its wide shawl collars, leis and revers, its flared cuffs and interesting sleeve treatments, give a new prominence to furs. And boucle fabrics are wisely chosen to interpret slim wrap-around lines in ladylike fashion.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—Give Robert Moses Grove and George Livingston Earnshaw good health for another week and the Philadelphia Athletics will become the first baseball club in history to win three world championships in a row.

You can talk about the Cards being a charming bunch of fellows and a things being good for the game and the Cards being a better team "man for man" and a lot of other reasons why the National league is due to win its first world series since 1926. But when you are through with all this lofty experting you find yourself again smack dab against those two great pitching gents, Robert Moses Grove and Georges Livingston Earnshaw.

It won't be the A's in four games and they may not make it in five. But it never will go the limit of seven.

Derringer vs. Grove.

Gabby Street, manager of the Cards, continues to string with his stout right hander, the 24 year old Paul Derringer, as the starting pitcher in the opening game tomorrow. Connie Mack continues his fox pose by remaining silent on his pitching plans, but it is generally accepted that his choice will be the 31 year old Mr. Grove.

Derringer will be the second first year man in history to gain the honor of pitching a world series opener. Babe Adams was the other. In 1909 Manager Fred C. Clarke of the Pittsburgh Pirates had the temerity to push forward his rookie, Adams, and Babe came through with a 4 to 1 victory over Detroit. Furthermore, Adams won the fifth and seventh games of the series, the seventh clinching the world championship for the National leaguers.

It will be Grove's third world

DOPING THE OLD SERIES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

[World's premier expert of the national game.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—A careful analysis of the dope, including the offensive and defensive features, as well as the element of chance, clearly indicates to me that the Athletics have a preponderance of .0002 in the impending blue ribbon series of baseball against the St. Louis Cardinals.

On this basis, taking into consideration the fact that Sparky Adams may not play, owing to having an injured foot, and allowing for a surprise move by the canny Connie Mack, I am picking the Athletics to beat the Cardinals unless Gabby Street's men show unexpected strength at bat and in the field. This contingency I have provided for by subtracting .0046 of a percentage point from the reserve account and transferring .0006 of a percentage point from the current operating column, thus leaving a deficit of .0624, an apparent advantage in favor of the Cardinals.

Cardinals' Edge Not a Real One.

But this advantage is only apparent and not actual when you come to consider that Joe Boley is not able to play, owing to having an injured foot, thus discounting Adams' injured foot and partially retiring the .0001 of a point represented by Jess Haines' not playing, owing to having an injured ligament in his shoulder.

These figures are as nearly accurate as science can get, and, say what you will, you cannot flaunt the cold, hard dope of the mathematical statistics.

The dope percentage points on injuries are one of the most important factors in arriving at your conclusions in a time like this and perhaps it would be a good idea to open my books to you and show you how simple it is to dope a world series.

Think What a Slight Error Would Mean.

But it must be remembered that accuracy is the main feature to remember because a slight error, such as writing down .0013 of a point by mistake for .0103, might make the difference between a pop fly and a home run with a runner on second and your results will not be reliable.

Injury—	Points.
Injured foot	.0012
Sore thumb	.1111
Extra sore thumb	.1112
Not feeling good	.0701
Hand cut by glass [infected blister]	.0202
Mildred, Central	.0435
Fell in bathtub	.1004
Lunch	.0085
Tip	.0005
Black eye [bumped door in dark]	.0026
Arrive, Grand Central	.1245
Maximum for total wreck	.8327
Discount	.05327

I could extend this out to the ultimate conclusion, but the figures given should be sufficient to make clear the process by which the positive and negative factors are balanced and the winner is revealed.

Now we come to the mysterious problem of the pitching selections, one of the most intricate departments of doping a world series, by which I mean that if Connie Mack should decide to pitch a dark horse in the first game again this year all the foregoing would have to be revised on the 1921 basis. Every one remembers what happened that year McGraw crossed up the situation by announcing that he was going to pitch Art Nehf and then, suddenly changing his mind, deciding to pitch Nehf after all.

It was the same thing, practically, in 1929 when the old wizard of the national game is just as likely to pull another master stroke this year. Connie Mack's shrewdness in concealing his pitching selection will have to be given extra value and I am not exaggerating when I give this feature a rating of .2029 to be subtracted from Gabby Street's strategy total. This obviously pulls the Cardinals' dope percentage points way down in the psychology column and they hardly make it up altogether even with their strength of .3002 in their outfield reserve factor.

There are some fans in St. Louis, pouring off of every train and pouring into the hotel rooms, who will want to dispute me on this last item, I am afraid, but I know my figures and they probably overlook the right handed hitter situation in relation to the left handed pitcher strength where there is a decided advantage.

So now, all roads lead to Sportsman's park and the eyes of the world are straining for the first unfurling of the tension which always marks this great fall diamond drama. Barring the unforeseen, the Athletics dope to win, but in a struggle like this any number of little things like a missed signal or a sore arm can seriously affect the outcome and necessitate a last minute shifting of the dope after it is all over.

On that I stake my reputation.

World Series Cancels Two Days' Racing at Fairmount

Collinsville, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—There will be no racing at the Fairmount Park race track here tomorrow and Friday, officials announced today because of the first two world series games between the Athletics and Cardinals starting at St. Louis tomorrow afternoon.

N. U. PROBLEM: WHO WILL PLAY QUARTER BACK?

A scrimmage with the freshmen yesterday marked Northwestern's final intensive preparation for the opening game with Nebraska at Dyche stadium Saturday. Coach Dick Hanley plans to devote today and tomorrow to light drills.

Doubt still prevails regarding who will start at quarter back Saturday. Both Will Lewis and George Potter, the latter a sophomore, have been sharing the job in practice. The fact that Lewis is a veteran, with two years of back field experience, may give him the edge.

The work of Tiny Engebretsen at tackle stood out as the best performance in the line yesterday and Hanley indicated that the veteran will see considerable service Saturday. On a team without such a pair of giants as Marvil and Riley, Engebretsen would rank among the best.

Dick Fencl and Ed Manske have been awarded the two end jobs which were left wide open by the graduation of Oliphant and Baker. Manske's tenure at left end is somewhat insecure, however, since Eylar, a senior, and Jens, another sophomore, rank close behind him.

HUSKERS IN CONDITION

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—A Nebraska football team that is in the best of condition will step out on the sod at Dyche stadium, Evanston, next Saturday afternoon to play Northwestern university. From the standpoint of physical condition, the 1931 Cornhuskers are in the best form they have attained in years.

McPherson, center, and Penney, half back, were the only casualties on the Nebraska squad when the week opened.

A drizzling rain kept the Huskers indoors this afternoon. The Nebraskans ran signals on a series of new plays and practiced a forward passing attack and defensive against the drives of Reb Russell and Meenan, Northwestern backs, and Pug Renter's passes.

Following tomorrow's drill the squad will entrain at 7 p. m. for Evanston. The probable starting lineup will not be announced until after the final workout here.

Big 10 Votes to Permit Extra Football Games for Charity

BY ARCH WARD.

Athletic directors and faculty representatives of Western conference universities yesterday suspended a long standing rule limiting football schedules to eight games and voted to permit any member to play one additional contest this season for the unemployment fund.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, at whose suggestion the meeting was held, predicted yesterday's action would result in a contribution of at least $500,000 to charity. Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at Michigan, said it was the forerunner of a movement that might become national, running into millions of dollars.

The idea of playing intercollegiate football games for charity was first suggested by THE TRIBUNE last fall. It resulted in the transfer of the forthcoming Northwestern-Notre Dame game to Soldiers' field and the advancing by Northwestern of $100,000 to Gov. Emmerson's charity commission. Northwestern is to be repaid the $100,000 out of the proceeds of the Oct. 10 game.

The Big Ten faculty committee on athletics within the year has altered its attitude toward playing charity games. Last fall Northwestern had a difficult time getting Big Ten permission to transfer the Notre Dame game to Soldiers' field.

Play Only Conference Schools.

Following is the legislation which was passed by the conference sport leaders:

1. The rule limiting the conference football schedule to eight games is suspended for the 1931 season and each institution is permitted to play for charity one additional game not later than the Saturday following Thanksgiving.

2. These charity games are to be played with conference schools only and under the management of the competing institutions.

3. In the course of the season the athletic directors of the conference institutions will arrange a schedule of games, which, in their judgment, and in that of the faculty representatives, promises to produce the greatest returns for charity.

4. The Intercollegiate Athletic association will serve as a clearing house for the allocation and disbursement of these funds and they will be prorated to the seven states represented in the conference on the basis of their official population and turned over to the governors' commissions of the several states.

5. Only actual production expenses will be deducted from the gross receipts and no complimentary tickets will be issued. There will be a public accounting of the receipts and expenditures for each game.

The faculty delegates in attendance were C. C. Williams, Iowa; James Paige, Minnesota; J. F. Pyre, Wisconsin; O. F. Long, Northwestern; Louis Gram, Michigan; Thomas French, Ohio State; W. J. Moenkhaus, Indiana; William Marshall, Purdue; A. C. Callen, Illinois, and George A. Works, Chicago.

Unbeaten Teams May Clash.

All of the Big Ten athletic directors except H. O. Crisler of Minnesota were present. They were George Little, Wisconsin; L. W. St. John, Ohio State; A. A. Stagg, Chicago; K. L. Wilson, Northwestern; F. H. Yost, Michigan; Edward Lauer, Iowa; George Huff, Illinois; Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana, and N. A. Kellogg, Purdue.

While the purpose of Big Ten competition is not to win championships, suspension of the eight game schedule rule will enable undefeated teams, if any, to come together in a charity game.

For instance, if Northwestern and Michigan go through their conference games undefeated, they will be permitted to schedule a post-season game to decide who's who. Mr. Wilson of Northwestern said last night that his team would play its charity game at Soldiers' field.

While the athletic directors have not discussed a charity schedule, preferring to wait until the teams have demonstrated their comparative strength, it is presumed that the two top ranking teams will be paired, and so on down the line. There may be exceptions in event of particularly strong rivalry on account of geographical location.

Maroons Play Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Stagg announced that Chicago's charity game probably would be played on Thanksgiving day to avoid conflict with a Northwestern game the following Saturday.

"Charity football on the scale of the program adopted by the Big Ten will do more than raise a substantial sum for the unemployed," said Maj. Griffith. "It will help to stimulate business by putting money into circulation. It costs more than the price of tickets. Most of the fans dress up to go to the games. Many of them pay railroad fare or buy extra gasoline to reach the stadium. They stop into restaurants for food. A good many stay over night in hotels. I believe we shall find that the money placed in circulation in conference territory will be astonishing."

LEVINSKY WINS OVER SEKYRA IN 10 CLOSE ROUNDS

Pounds Back of King's Head.

Sekyra began the fight by clinching and beating a tattoo on the back of Levinsky's head. He continued this throughout the fight, although Levinsky later on adopted the same tactics. A stiff left hook to the jaw and a right cross sent Levinsky back on his heels in the first round. Sekyra opened up a little in the second and danced away from the King. This gave Levinsky a chance to operate with his wild swings, one of which connected, although it did no damage.

Sekyra made no consistent attack and by the fifth round Levinsky was admonishing him to "come on and fight." The constant pummeling back of the head and a butt in close opened a cut on the back of Levinsky's head.

Fight After Last Bell.

Sekyra, who weighed 175¼ pounds, 18 less than the King, landed his best punch in the sixth round, a stinging right to the jaw, although the best blow of the night came after the bell had ended the tenth round. Levinsky kept on fighting in Sekyra's corner and the latter punched back. The referee, Tommy Thomas, was unable to separate them and the milling stopped only when Sekyra landed a crushing right to the King's heart.

There was the customary booing at the decision but it was soon stifled in a round of applause as Paul Dazzo, former Golden Gloves fighter, pounded out a six-round decision over Paul Dempsey in the closing bout.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There are times when Urban [Red] Faber's 43 years rest lightly on his drooping shoulders. Yesterday was one of those times. Like a robust youngster instead of a man with eighteen seasons of big league service behind him, he reduced the usually powerful Cub attack to a whisper. But the White Sox didn't whisper. Their bats barked boisterously, principally against Charley Root, giving the American leaguers a 9 to 0 victory in the opening game of the city series before 16,641 at Wrigley field.

Old Folks Faber by his cunning service of slow curves, fast curves, fast balls, and an occasional spitter stole the show. Even the Cub partisans through their cheering paid him the same august respect the Cubs batters showed him by their inability to hit. Only five safeties, one a double, annoyed him in his nine inning tenure. Only one Cub got as far as third base against him and he only because of an error. And, just to show he was far from being a tired old fellow at the finish, the Cascade patriarch fanned Kiki Cuyler and Dan Taylor in the ninth.

Jolley Starts Run Riot.

For a time it looked as if Faber was in another of those tight duels which eventually would force him to bow himself out before a younger adversary. But it was the youngster who went. Charley Root toyed with the American leaguers for five innings, but the sixth was different. Smead Jolley, who is nobody to be fooled with when he has a bat in hand, cut loose with a home run with a man on base. Root folded up immediately, and the cannonading didn't cease until after seven had scored and Jakie May had been summoned to restore order. May, himself, then had to have help in the very next inning.

From the manner in which the Sox plied their bats you would hardly have suspected them of being eighth place dwellers in their own company. Neither was there anything wrong with their fielding, barring a slight miscue by Johnny Kerr. The chief contributor in the surprising attack was Lu Blue. He wasted a double early in the game, but later his work was more productive. He rounded out the wreckage in the sixth inning by driving home the seventh run with a single off May and in the eighth he doubled again to score two more. At

BY FRENCH LANE.

The racing folks at Hawthorne—about 9,000 of them were there yesterday—aren't talking about much these days except the renewal of the Gold Cup, to be run one week from this afternoon.

A lot of the early arrivals watched Sun Beau engage in his first serious training move for the big race yesterday. He galloped a mile handily and was hard held all the way in 1:44. To those familiar with the world's money winning champion it was an impressive drill. It was a performance that indicated he will be at his best for the cup, which he has won two years in succession. Jockey Johnny Maiben was in the saddle.

Mate to Arrive Today.

This morning Mate, the Arlington classic and American Derby winner, will pull into Hawthorne from the Woodbine track in Canada. He will be accompanied by two stablemates and a pony, which has been his companion since he first came to the races. His owner, A. C. Bostwick, will be here to supervise most of his work for the Cup. Jockey George Ellis will ride Mate.

So with two of the "big three" of the turf assured as starters, John Schank, president of the Hawthorne association, last night was waiting patiently with his fingers crossed for word from Twenty Grand, which is reported to be training nicely at the Havre de Grace track in Maryland.

And Mr. Schank Is Nervous.

Mr. Schank admits he is a bit nervous, with such an enormous attraction right at the tips of his crossed fingers and no definite word as to when Twenty Grand is to be shipped. "But I'm positive the big fellow will be here," Schank said. "I think he will wait over in Maryland until after his stablemate, St. Brideaux, runs in the Havre de Grace cup, and that both of them will leave Baltimore on Sunday for Hawthorne."

Plans for the Gold cup attracted the interest yesterday because another all claiming race card was run off at Hawthorne and the favorites most of the time were not performing like favorites are supposed to perform.

Diamond Head, Chilhoma, and Sleepy Boy were some of the outsiders to gain decisions, with Hoosier Prince, Darter, and Lady Bienville as the offending choices. When the favorite, Mucker, won the third race the whole crowd was shocked. He was the second favorite to win since the meeting opened, so you couldn't blame the customers for registering surprise.

But stake horses couldn't have provided a more thrilling battle than the one which came out of the best race on the program. Spanflow, owned by young Jim Norris of Chicago, won in the last stride by a nose from Wizardry, with Scimitar, once a famous cup horse, just another nose back in third place. And it was the same old story about the favorite, for Macedon, the choice, was nowhere when the struggle ended.

SAINTS CONQUER RED WINGS, 4 TO 0, AS SERIES OPENS

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Oscar Roettger's home run in the eighth inning with the bases full gave St. Paul a 4 to 0 victory over the Rochester Red Wings in the first game of the little world series here today.

Until Roettger connected Betts of the Saints and Hill of the International league champions had engaged in a tight mound duel. Betts was touched for only six hits while the winners were getting to Hill for seven.

Paid attendance today was 4,344 and gross receipts, $5,817. The players' share was $3,490.

George Sisler, veteran Rochester first baseman, aggravated an old leg injury running to first in the second inning and was forced to retire. Roettger's home run was his second hit of the game. He goes to the Philadelphia Athletics next season. Score:

4 WOMEN FROM U. S. SURVIVE IN CANADIAN GOLF

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Four players from the United States, two from Canada, and two from Great Britain reached the quarter-final round of the Canadian women's golf championship today.

At the end of the second round of match play, the defending champion, Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, and Miss Marion Hollins of Santa Cruz, Cal., were left to carry on the United States half of the battle for the title and the duchess of Connaught cup. Enid Wilson, the British champion, and Marjorie Kerr represented England and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa and Marjorie Kirkham of Montreal, Canadian closed champion, carried on for Canada.

Miss Orcutt advanced at the expense of Mrs. Harley C. Higbie of Detroit, 6 and 5. Mrs. Hill downed another Detroiter, Mrs. John Arends, 7 and 5. Miss Hollins eliminated Mrs. E. W. Whittington of Toronto, 3 and 2.

Miss Van Wie downed Miss MacKenzie, holder of many Canadian titles, 1 up, 19 holes. Miss Wilson defeated Mary K. Browne of Cleveland, former top ranking tennis and golf star, 5 and 3. Miss Kerr established a big lead on the first nine and trounced Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 3 and 2. Mrs. Fraser, former United States champion, defeated Mrs. S. G. Bennett of Toronto, 7 and 5, while Miss Kirkham won from Mrs. Arthur Harrison of Buffalo, 2 and 1.

Mastro to Fight Shaw at Minneapolis Oct. 13

Earl Mastro, leading Chicago contender for the featherweight title, was signed yesterday by Promoter Mike Collins to meet Billy Shaw of Detroit in a ten round bout in Minneapolis on Oct. 12. Shaw won on a foul over Mastro two summers ago at Mills stadium. The Shaw bout will open Mastro's campaign to force Bat Battalino into a championship fight.

SOX ROUT ROOT TO WIN, 9 TO 0, IN SERIES OPENER

Faber Limits the Cubs to Five Hits.

Sox Got the Idea Early.

The Sox weren't tardy about making their first mark in the hit column. One pledding, but none the less effectual Mr. Jolley slipped a single between Grimm and Herman in the first inning. Two were out at the time and Root hurriedly coaxed Fonseca into rolling gently to Grimm. The Cubs did a bit better in their initial effort. English hit one of Faber's offerings through short for a single. Herman furnished the customary sacrifice, but Cuyler flied to Jolley and Kerr picked up Bell's roller.

After the first and until the Sox concentrated on Root in the sixth, the game proceeded too speedily to be interesting. Root walked Kerr in the second inning, but he went nowhere. The Cub half was marked by D. Taylor's single with one out. But he likewise made no progress. With one out in the third, Blue made the south side rooting contingent reveal itself. He slapped a double past third base. Neither Cissell nor Jolley could lend him assistance.

The Little Things Cause Trouble.

For a brief period in the fifth it looked as if Faber's steadiness might be shaken, just as it was in the recent charity affair. Watwood booted a fly. After he had thrown out Barton on an ordinary roller, Kerr tried to play Grimm's bounder on the short hop and it slipped through his fingers for a two base blunder. The error passed of no embarrassment, however, except to Kerr's pride. Hartnett and Root both were easy for Faber.

It's the little things that cause lots of trouble. That was the case when the big Pala Hose parade got under way in the sixth inning. Cissell hoisted a high fly close to the line in short left with one out. Dan Taylor rushed over to get it. He made a stab, but couldn't hold it. Spider Bell was given a double. An instant later, after fouling off one pitch, Jolley hit his home run into the sawed off end of the left field jury box. What followed indicated Root was annoyed with himself for pitching whatever kind of ball it was Jolley sent on that long ride.

English Is Too Ambitious.

Jolley hadn't finished breathing heavily after his sprint before Root got himself into real trouble by walking both Fonseca and Sullivan. Then had luck took a hand. Watwood lifted a high one to short center. Cuyler might have snared it with ease, but English insisted on doing the job. He couldn't quite reach the ball and it rolled off the ends of his fingers for a single, filling the bases. The infield drew in for a possible play at the plate and Kerr bounced a single over Root into center, Fonseca and Sullivan scoring and Watwood going to third. On the first pitch Grube lofted a hit over Grimm, Watwood scoring and Kerr pulling up at third. That was all for Root.

May took over the job and Bell lifted around Faber's grounder, letting Kerr score. Blue, up for the second time, singled to left, and Grube counted with the seventh run. Cissell then flied to right, Jolley walked, and the strange doings closed with Fonseca popping a foul to Grimm. The Cubs' only counter attack against this staggering total of seven runs was a double by English at the start of the home sixth. He was still on second when the inning closed.

May Was Big Hearted.

May was so overcome with generosity in the seventh that he might have given away Bill Wrigley's park if Hornsby hadn't recalled him. He walked Sullivan to start the inning. Sullivan was forced on a bunt by Watwood, who atoned for this by stealing second. Kerr walked. Grube popped out, but Faber refused to do any swinging and coaxed a walk, filling the bases. Blue drove a double into the left field corner, Watwood and Kerr scoring and Faber reaching third after turning around to caution Blue not to pass second. Warneke then stepped in and retired Cissell for the third out.

The Sox still had an appetite for runs in the eighth, but their threat was halted. Warneke walked Fonseca with one out and Sullivan singled to left. Both men moved up a notch when Hartnett threw wild trying to catch Fonseca off second. Grimm reached up to grab a hard hoist lined off Watwood's bat and Herman whipped out Kerr.

After English's double in the sixth inning there wasn't much to the Cub attack. D. Taylor singled against Cissell's chest with one out in the seventh and a single to right by Barton in the eighth were the only evidences of life.

BIG OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, the city series began all right and you said I should go out and help cover it, and I only hope that after you have been sports editor for 18 years you will be as good a sports editor as Red Faber was a pitcher while he was shutting out the Cubs and the White Sox were making it easy for him.

You see, Arch, this game started out just like that charity game, which the Cubs won, 3 to 0, with Faber and Root the opposing pitchers, only it didn't end the same way, although for a time it looked as if it might. Faber, you know, was going along just fine, and so was Root, like before, and then in the fifth inning Kerr let a bounder through him and in the charity game it was Watwood who dropped a fly before it was all blooey. Well, Arch, the Sox got out of this one but the break came in the sixth inning, just the same, only it was the Sox that got the break.

What happened just proves how big oaks from little acorns grow, so to speak. With one gone in the sixth, Cissell hit a tall fly along the left foul line. Well, Danny Taylor got his fingers on it, but he couldn't hold it because he was running just as hard as he could, and it wasn't an error, it was a hit. But sometimes Danny does snare that kind, as sometimes you make a great drive at golf and sometimes when you hit it just as hard it hits something and bounds into the rough.

Well, that was the first break, all right, for Smead Jolley then bunted one into the center field seats. Then Charley Root must have become discouraged like, for he passed Fonseca and Sullivan, Watwood, Kerr, and Grube singled and the track meet was on, so Root was through for the day and Jakie May came out. Faber's bounder went through Bell and things kept happening, but Irv Vaughan is going to tell that. Only I wanted you to know about big oaks and little acorns, because it sounded like a good expression to use at such a time.

Then there was another break of the game. I wouldn't put so much stress on these breaks, only you said Irv would do the regular reporting and I might look out for breaks and things like that. Well, Arch, this break came in the eighth and it was against the Sox. You see, Arch, Warneke was pitching by this time and Fonseca got a base on balls and Sullivan—he was developed at your alma mater, you know—singled to life. Then there was a wild throw to catch Fonseca at second and it went to center field and they both moved up.

Then Watwood hit a liner and it might have gone to the fence, only it went right into Charley Grimm's mitt and it surprised him because it went into his mitt instead of to right field, but he threw to third base, just the same, only it was too late to catch Fonseca. Then Kerr was out at first base and the side was retired.

Perhaps from this technical description you don't quite recognize where the break came in. Well, if Watwood's drive hadn't gone into Grimm's mitt, it would have been a hit and two more runs would have counted and the score would have been 11 to 0 instead of 9 to 0. It's a break when the Sox score nine runs against anybody, and just think what a break it would have been if they had scored 11 runs.

I'd like to tell you more about Red Faber and how good he was, but Irv said he would do that. I think we ought to have a picture of him in the paper, anyway, even if Irv does tell all about how well he pitches.

I met the loop bookie who said the Cubs were 1 to 4 shots after the game and I asked him what the odds ought to be now, and he said the Cubs still ought to be favorites at about 1 to 2. I'll go to Wrigley field again today and look for more breaks. Regards.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

DE PAUL LEAVES FOR NO. DAKOTA MINUS 5 PLAYERS

When 26 De Paul university players entrained last night for Grand Forks and the game with North Dakota university Friday night, Coach Eddie Anderson was lamenting the fact that five of his first string men were on the hospital list.

It is almost certain that none of the five will be able to play against North Dakota and as a result De Paul's chances of its second victory are seriously impaired.

Harry Engle, half back, is suffering a bad shoulder. Joe Dea, one of the best passers on the Blue Demon squad, broke his nose in scrimmage. Art Zwietka, capable guard, injured his knee, and Babe Roche, who played a fine game at end against Detroit, injured his ankle.

North Dakota, beaten only by Army in the last three years, again has a great team. The Dakotans crushed St. Olaf and Gustavus Adolphus by one sided scores.

ASK OGLETHORPE TO PLAY BENEFIT GAME IN CHICAGO

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, announced today the school had been invited to play a benefit football game at Soldiers' field, Chicago, Saturday, Nov. 21, by the Illinois Department of the Disabled Veterans of the World War.

Teams suggested as opponents are Carnegie Tech, Princeton, Alabama, Cornell, Penn State, Tennessee, Colorado, Utah, Vanderbilt or Washington and Jefferson, any one of which has an open date Nov. 21.

Recognize Londos as Mat Champ; Must Post Forfeit

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The championship committee of the National Wrestling association at a meeting here today recognized Jim Londos of St. Louis as world's heavyweight wrestling champion and ordered him to post a $5,000 forfeit within ten days to meet within six months any one of 20 "logical contenders" named by the committee.

Wrigley Gets a Surprise on 70th Birthday

City Series Facts

FACTS about the city series between the Cubs and the White Sox follow:

FIRST GAME.

Attendance	16,641
Receipts	$18,607.50
Players' share	9,480.83
Clubs' share	6,326.55
Commissioner's share	$2,791.12

Today—At Wrigley field.
Starting time—2 o'clock.
Probable batteries—Bush and Hartnett for the Cubs; Frasier and Grube for the Sox.

Owner William Wrigley, 70 years of age yesterday, occupied his regular front row box on the third base side at the opening game of the city series. When the Sox hung up the seven runs in the sixth the gum and baseball magnate remarked that the south siders were at least giving him a birthday present he would remember.

* *

* *

Charley Root has been suffering with a cold for several days. That may be one way for the Cub fans to explain the manner in which the Sox fattened their averages off the National league star in the sixth.

* *

Faber's ability to mix 'em kept the Cub batters off their stride from start to finish. That only three flies were hit to the outfield, two by Cuyler, is pretty fair evidence that they weren't meeting Red's pitches squarely.

* *

The usual utterances came from each clubhouse after the game. With the Cubs it was a case of "O, one game doesn't mean anything." The Sox took the view that the team winning the first game in a fall series usually wins three more.

* *

In the pre-game batting practice the spectators were trying to figure out the identity of a fellow pitching to the Sox and wearing a Yankee uniform. It was Charley Ruffing, the Yank pitcher, who, with other big leaguers, is going on a barnstorming tour.

* *

Carl Reynolds, whose chronic charley horse and lameness resulting from the ankle broken a month ago bothers him, worked out in right field before the game. It is possible that he may be able to start tomorrow or Saturday.

* *

Hartnett was one of four men fanned by Faber. Gabby loooked at a third strike for the concluding out in the second inning, but he didn't think it was what Umpire Quigley called it. Gabby insisted the pitch had hit his sleeve. His mates aided him in a plea for permission to take his base, but the arbiter thought he was being kidded.

* *

There was one ball hit by the Cubs which could easily have been a base hit. Herman banged it toward third in the third inning and Sullivan made a snappy pickup and throw. Every other Sox fielding chance called for no more than routine labor.

* *

Faber's performance probably will start the old boys arguing about what year it was he joined the Sox. He was purchased from the Western league in the fall of 1913. That winter the Sox and Giants toured the world and Faber was loaned to McGraw for the duration of the trip. He pitched the game in London witnessed by the king. Tom Daly, a Sox catcher, beat Red with a homer. In his eighteen years on the south side Faber has won 247 league games and lost 195.

Ross Robinson, Skating Champ, Weds Hilda Burgess

Two Line Up for Bleacher Seats at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two persons were in line at the bleacher gate at Shibe park tonight, waiting for the third of the world's series games between the Athletics and the Cardinals next Monday.

George Calhoun, a semi-pro ball player who started his vigil at the head of the line at 10 o'clock last night to have first chance at the bleacher seats, was joined tonight by a friend and teammate, Arthur Shulman.

"My teammates made a bet of $200 to $1," said Calhoun, "that I couldn't stay here till Monday. I'm going to stay right here, and I have to wear my suit."

Talking it Over

Sept. 30.

"Dear Mr. Ward: I read with considerable amusement the vaporings of Jeremiah Long in your column this morning. He is like most of the Notre Dame followers, particularly the synthetic alumni. Too cocky.

"It has been a long time since anybody has felt sorry for a Notre Dame football team, but they have my sympathy this year. They are going to get one of the worst lickings in their history on Oct. 10., when they tread onto Soldiers' field to meet this 1931 Northwestern eleven.

"Last year without Rentner the Wildcats had them back on their heels for most of the game. This time with that big fellow tossing the ball all over the field, it will be just too bad for the Irish. Don't forget he is the fastest man they have tried to stop in years. Red Grange in his best years never was able to step 100 yards in 10 seconds, but Rentner has done it repeatedly. Honestly, Arch, he will make Schwartz look like a busher.

"Down in South Bend they are worrying about Russell. They should. He made more yards from scrimmage last year than the whole Notre Dame squad. Russell's only worry this year is whether he can make the Purple team. Olson is the same. Can he hit? Ask the freshmen. Then there's Meenan, 6 feet 2, who weighs 200 pounds and runs like a sprinter. Potter is small, only 6 feet 1 and weighing 190, and boy, how those new kids can smash.

"This is Northwestern's year. Take it or leave it. We stopped the Four Horsemen cold in 1924 when they were expected to run up a score of 100 to 0. An ordinary Northwestern eleven lost to another "great" Notre Dame eleven in 1926 by the margin of a flukey forward pass.

"This team Dick Hanley is developing is no ordinary Northwestern eleven, so it shouldn't be hard to guess what that means. Whenever the Irish run into a leading Big Ten eleven, they meet their match. They find the competition a little stronger than they do against Drake, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburg and some of the second rate teams on their "national championship" schedule.

"Well, Arch, we've been waiting a long time for this victory. Even though it might be better strategy to cover up for the Big Ten foemen who lurk beyond. I believe Hanley will let the boys go. I don't believe he cares how big a score they run up. I heard him talking the other afternoon about 'getting them touchdowns.'"

"R. K. Wesley,
"N. U. '16."

Sox Draft One Player; Cubs Pick Up Two

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Nationals tonight drafted Clyde Manion, catcher, from the Milwaukee club of the American association, at the opening of the draft meeting, presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball. Under the rules, C. Arthur Shires, Milwaukee first baseman, will be retained by the Brewers or later sold, as the rules prohibit drafting more than one player from a class AA or class A league.

The Chicago White Sox acquired Carey Selph, infielder of the Texas league Houston club, one of the farms operated by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The White Sox, in drafting Selph, stole a march on the Cardinals as it had been reported the St. Louis club intended recalling Selph for another major league trial. The draft meeting was attended by representatives of the 16 clubs of the American and National leagues.

Only 15 players were drafted, the smallest number in years. The reason for the small number of selections is that major league club owners are beginning to feel the pinch of general business conditions and also the increased draft price. Under the revised agreements it costs $7,500 to draft a player from a class AA league and $6,000 from class A leagues. Only three clubs in the American league, the White Sox, Browns, and Yankees, took advantage of the draft. The list

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

White Sox—Carey Selph, Houston, Tex. St. Louis Browns—Wescott Kingdon, shortstop from the Chattanooga club of the Southern association. New York Yankees—Frank Nekola, a right handed pitcher from Jersey City of the International league.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Cincinnati—Clyde Manion, from the Milwaukee club of the American association. Boston—Walter Betts, right handed pitcher of St. Paul of the American association; William Hargrave, catcher from Baltimore of the International league; Frank Coleman, pitcher from Scranton of the New York-Penn league. Philadelphia—George Knothe, shortstop of New Orleans in the Southern association; Al Todd, catcher from the Dallas club of the Texas league. Chicago Cubs—Allen Newsome, pitcher from the Little Rock club of the Southern association; Marvin Gudat, pitcher and outfielder of the Columbus club of the American association.

Belanger Defeats Cancela in Detroit Ten Rounder

Michigan Gets a Lineup for Normal Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Some indication of the Michigan Normal in the main game of Saturday's double header here was given on Ferry field this afternoon when the regular line and Tessmer, Fay, Debaker and Hudson as a back field were called for a signal drill and dummy practice.

Hewitt and Williamson, ends; Auer and Samuels, tackles; La Jeunesse and Hozer, guards, and Morrison, center, were in the line today.

The team that will face the Central State Teachers of Mount Pleasant in the opener Saturday probably will include Petoskey and either Daniels or Yost, ends; Goldsmith and Cantrill or Bernard, tackles; Douglas and Marcovsky, guards; Cooke, center; Newman or Tessmer, quarter back; Jack and Bill Heston, Renner or Stinespring, half backs, and Cox or Hozer, full back.

LIGHT WORK AT IOWA

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Light scrimmage, supplemented by individual drill on charging and tackling, comprised University of Iowa's football practice today as the Hawkeyes pointed for Pittsburgh. Varsity backs, who are expected to face a big assignment in backing up the uncertain Iowa line in the Panther game, were given a long tackling workout.

Edward Dolly, lineman who sustained a badly wrenched knee yesterday, did not appear at practice. Case continued to replace Dolly at center. Harold Swaney, injured varsity end, took part in scrimmage for the first time in two weeks.

OHIO LOOKS FOR PUNTER

Columbus, O., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Most of Ohio State's practice period today was spent trying to find a punter.

The Buckeyes have not had a real kicker since the days of Chick Harley, and today every man on the squad had a chance to punt and place kick. Best of the lot was Bob Haubrich, tackle, who, if no better punter is found, will be pulled into the back field when a kick is necessary. Ted Rosequist, tackle; Carl Cramer, first string quarter back, and Oliphant, half back, also looked available with further practice.

ILLINI MEET FROSH

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Illinois freshmen, imitators of Illini football foes, appeared for the second consecutive afternoon today in the rôle of St. Louis university's eleven, which will open the season here Saturday.

Preceding the scrimmage Coach Zuppke watched his candidates go through a session of fundamentals. A kicking drill opened the practice. Zuppke said the list of punters had narrowed down to four. He named Eddie Schalk, Art Schultz, Herman Walser, and Bill Charle as the best in that department.

Walser and Charle have outside chances to break into the first back field, while Schalk and Schultz are battling for the full back position.

BADGERS IN LONG DRILL

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's football candidates went through the longest scrimmage of the season today, the revamped first and second elevens keeping the ball most of the time against freshmen opposition.

The first back field had Schneller at full back, Pacetti, quarter back; Rebholz and Schiller, halves. Rebholz made some beautiful runs and once Schiller broke through tackle for 40 yards and a touchdown.

PURDUE TRIES NEW TACKLE

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Purdue's first string lineup began to take shape this afternoon as the Boilermakers went through their last hard drill before the opening doubleheader with Coe and Western Reserve here Saturday.

GOPHERS WORK IN MUD

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The University of Minnesota football team scrimmaged today on a wet field. Coach Crisler continued to stress a running attack in preparation for the game with the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday at Memorial stadium.

Quentin Burdick remained at the blocking back position in the first string lineup. Walt Hass, Jack Manders and Pete Somers worked with Burdick. My Ubl, Kenny MacDougall, Lloyd Hribar and Red Griffin made up the second string back field.

FOOTBALL for the FAN

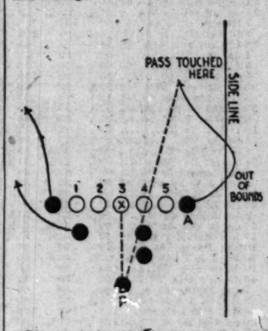
BY WILFRID SMITH.

In yesterday's discussion of the forward pass we explained who was eligible to receive a pass, the position of the passer, that only one forward pass could be made from the same scrimmage and some of the rulings on incompleted passes.

Today we will discuss other penalties or restrictions on the forward pass.

If a forward pass is touched by a player in the field of play, who at the start of the play was eligible to catch the ball but who has become INELIGIBLE by going out of bounds, the ball goes to the opponents at the point where it had been put in play. (The point of the previous down.)

The following diagram illustrates this ruling:



Player A is eligible to receive the pass when the play was started, for he was one of the end men. He stepped on the side line, or ran over it, and by going out of bounds became ineligible. But player A came back into the field of play, and before the ball was touched by an opponent (which would have made him eligible again) he caught or touched the pass from player P.

Loss of Ball When Ineligible Touches Pass.

If the pass had struck one of the INELIGIBLE players of the team (1, 2, 3, 4, 5) the ruling would have been the same. These men cannot catch or touch a forward pass. If the ball TOUCHES one of them, it goes to the opponents where it had been put in play.

(Note: If either of these situations occur in the territory between the defending team's 10 yard line and its goal line, the defending team may choose to have the play called a touchback and take possession of the ball on its own 20 yard line.)

The pass has been completed to an eligible man who, however, caught the ball beyond the opponents' end zone. It is not a touchdown. It is a TOUCHBACK, counts nothing and goes to the opponents on their own 20 yard line.

The ruling would have been the same if the player had gone beyond the end zone, then had returned to the end zone and caught the ball.

A forward pass which becomes incomplete behind the opponents' goal line (no matter the number of the down) is a touchback and the ball goes to the opponents on their own 20 yard line.

When Incomplete Pass Behind Goal Is Safety.

If a team attempts a forward pass from behind its OWN goal line and the pass is incomplete BEHIND the goal line it automatically becomes a SAFETY and counts two points for the opponents.

A forward pass intentionally thrown to the ground to prevent loss of yardage, is penalized by the loss of 15 yards and of course the loss of a down.

Victory Over Lindblom Is Harrison Aim

"Harrison Tech is playing a hard schedule and, judging by the way the squad has come through against Morton and Wendell Phillips, I believe our chances to defeat Lindblom Saturday afternoon are good," said Coach Bob Daugherty yesterday as he sent the team through a light scrimmage.

"Whether Lindblom has a green team or not, it must be considered as a tough opponent. It tied Emerson of Gary, 1930 Indiana state champion, beat Hinsdale and last Friday night scored a 27 to 13 victory over Champaign. But the return of Frank Leonetti at full back and the great work of Capt. Pliney and Andy Puplis leads me to believe that Lindblom will not have an easy time against Harrison," he concluded.

Harrison, already one of the favorites for the Chicago Public High School league championship, has displayed a powerful defense in its first two practice games, not an opponent crossing its goal line.

Eight members of the York team, defending champion in the West Suburban conference, which will open the season against Maine Saturday, were on the verge of being suspended for the season for violating training rules, it was learned yesterday. The eight players were seen on the street at 3 o'clock Saturday morning and a long lecture was delivered by Coach Clarence East after the squad lost to West Aurora Saturday afternoon.

Sid Schultz, Roosevelt end, has joined Morris Kaizer, Fred Bahr and Johnny Newman on the hospital list and will be missing from the lineup when the Rough Riders meet Waukegan on the latter's field Saturday.

Jack McCarthy, 110 pound half back, and Stanley Saber, full back candidate, took the places of Vincent Daley and Griff Healy, injured veterans, as Loyola scrimmaged with Lane Tech yesterday, and their performances pleased Coach Sachs, who was beginning to lose hopes of Loyola defending its Catholic league title successfully this season.

Capt. Moran of Leo, who was injured last Saturday and believed lost for the season, will be able to don a uniform again in about three weeks, an X-ray revealed yesterday. Leo will face St. Rita in the first league contest on Oct. 11.

INDIANA CAMPUS SLUMBERS NOW—BUT SATURDAY!

That's the Day Hoosiers Battle Notre Dame.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 30.—In three days this quiet university town in the rolling Indiana hills will be the center of national football interest. Notre Dame, with 19 consecutive victories and two national championships, is coming to town.

It might be presumed that Indiana's 3,000 students already are anxiously waiting Saturday's game. Perhaps they are, but this exceedingly hot afternoon finds them more concerned with daily routine of classes than with impending duties as hosts to Notre Dame.

When Indiana's alumni, which will predominate the capacity crowd on Saturday, arrive, the fireworks will be touched off. Until then, the student body marks time.

Squad Largest in History.

However, Indiana's football squad, the largest in the history of the Hoosier university, is Notre Dame conscious. Since their 7 to 6 victory last week over Ohio university, the players have settled to preparation for the Irish. Ohio university was no unworthy opponent, for it had not lost a contest in the preceding two years—and Indiana won after only nine days of practice. Since classes started the same week that Western conference rules permit the football teams to assemble, Indiana has not had the advantage of double drills.

The spirit of the squad is excellent. It is not the boisterous overconfidence of boys who have talked themselves into believing victory already achieved. Neither the players nor their coach indicate either by word or action that they will defeat the unbeaten Irish.

Coach Builds Replacements.

We have watched Indiana's football teams play for 16 years, and in that time the Hoosiers either have accomplished the impossible or been defeated when defeat was least expected. It may be that Saturday will find Indiana inspired. We would rather believe, after talking to Coach Hayes today, that this 1931 team is ready to give its best and that its best may be sufficient to whip Notre Dame. Let's listen to what Hayes has to say about his team.

"I have tried to develop squad strength. I don't believe any one eleven can whip Notre Dame unless it has adequate replacements. Notre Dame's shock troops too nearly equal its first eleven.

Sophomores Strengthen Team.

"Indiana has been strengthened by the acquisition of several promising sophomores. Four were in the starting lineup against Ohio and two others went in with the back field which scored our touchdown in the third period. But sophomores lack experience. What they will do Saturday is uncertain.

"Bob Jones, a 200 pound full back from Wabash, Ind., is one of the best youngsters in the back field. Otis Edmonds, who replaced him, makes him more valuable, for he can have a rest period during the game. These two full backs have made it possible for me to shift Stanley Saluski, who played full back last year, to half back.

"William Nylec, a guard, Fritz Lyons, end, and Erwin Anglemeyer, tackle, are other sophomores who have earned first team ranking. Lyons, in particular, is valuable. The colored boy has proven his ability to grab passes and his defensive play is exceptional."

SCHWARTZ IN FORM AGAIN

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Marchy Schwartz, Notre Dame's all-American left half, who looked like another reserve last Saturday, was his old self again this afternoon and ran wild in scrimmage against the freshmen.

For the first time this season the line was working as a unit, and Marchy found holes every time he lugged the ball. His work when he got to the secondary, however, was what pleased the coaches.

Steve Banas, who must play full back in place of Nick Lukats, at least for the next month, also did his share of ground gaining. Joe Sheeketski and Ray Brancheau alternated at right half. Lukats's cast will be removed in two weeks and he will be able to play in not more than four.

TICKER UNFOLDS NEW CHAPTER OF LIQUIDATION

Insull Shares Receive Support Here.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

La Salle street watched the ticker tape unfold another chapter in its long drawn out story of liquidation yesterday. Except for minor fluctuations the trend was steadily downward. Constant selling caused a slow erosion of values which brought many stocks down to new record prices.

On the Chicago exchange trading was carried on at approximately the same rate as on the previous day with 160,000 odd shares being traded in.

Investment Issues Weak.

Utility and investment trust stocks bore the brunt of the selling. National Securities Investment preferred broke another 2 points to finish at 37 on transactions of about 1,300 shares. The common dropped through its previous low to sell at 1¼.

Insull stocks received good support and in most instances closed near the previous day's final quotations. After slipping to 151 Commonwealth Edison was bid back up to 153½. Supporting orders made for wide spreads in the final transactions. Insull common finished unchanged but the debentures sold off over 2 points to 58½.

Directors of Electric Household Utilities corporation failed to take action on the quarterly dividend yesterday and the stock reflected the development in selling to a new low of 8 on light trade. The company formerly paid a dividend of 50 cents quarterly.

Grigsby Sell Off.

Grigsby Grunow sold at 1⅞, a record low, in face of the announcement that production at the company plant had been speeded up to 4,125 sets daily. Last month the plant ran on a daily schedule of 3,200 sets daily.

Recent activity in Q. R. S. DeVry stock continued yesterday and the issue moved up moderately as it was reported that new interests will be represented on the board of directors after the annual meeting next month.

Seats on the exchange sold yesterday at the lowest price since 1927. One membership was sold at $7,800 and one at $7,400. The previous sale was made at $9,000.

STEEL BUSINESS DRAGS AS THIRD QUARTER ENDS

Producers Resist Price Attacks.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The third quarter of the year, which usually witnesses an upturn in the steel industry, ended yesterday with operations dragging along at about the pace of midsummer. Whether there has been any improvement in the last week is a matter of disagreement among the midweek reviews. The Iron Age says output has advanced to 31 per cent of capacity, compared with 29 per cent in the preceding week; while Steel estimates production has fallen from 32 to 29 per cent.

"A few large individual orders, mainly for public works projects, are conspicuous in an otherwise predominantly dull iron and steel market," the Iron Age continues. "In general, buying is still exceedingly cautious, although seasonal forces have resulted in slight gains in demand in certain districts. Recent wage reductions by steel companies have proved an unsettling influence, increasing the pressure for price concessions and causing the postponement of purchases except for urgent needs.

Resist Price Cuts.

"While steel producers strongly resist current efforts to undermine the price structure, the fact that demand is showing any gain is regarded as an encouraging indication. While prices of finished steel and pig iron appear to be holding, weakness has cropped out in cast iron pipe and scrap prices have given further ground. The composite price for heavy steel scrap has dropped from $9.17 to $9 a ton, the lowest level in the century and reached only once before in November, 1914.

"A new price factor of undetermined importance has been introduced by the fall of the pound sterling from the gold standard. Already this has had the effect of reducing Great Britain's imports and stimulating her domestic and export trade.

"Automobile production in September is estimated at 180,000 cars and October output is expected to drop to about 160,000 units. The poorest month of the year was January, with a total of 178,347 assemblies."

Lowest Since Depression.

Steel says that the September output of pig iron and steel ingots was the lowest so far in the depression.

"It is apparent that seasonal influences are entirely impotent," it continues, "and that any hope for improvement over the remainder of the year must be predicted on a stimulus flowing from the 10 per cent cut in common wage rates, effective Oct. 1."

Like the steel industry, only slight improvement appears to be taking place in general manufacturing operations. This surmise is based on the use of electrical power. Production of electricity for the week ended Sept. 26 fell 3.2 per cent below a year ago, according to the National Electric Light association. However, this decline was slightly less than the drop of 3.4 per cent shown in the preceding week.

More Railroads Report August Operating Income

	1931.	1930.
Colorado and Southern	$271,267	$208,730
Western Pacific	178,701	367,144
Pittsburgh and W. Virg.	40,815	173,082

August railroad reports received to date indicate that the net operating income for all class I roads was in the neighborhood of $56,500,000, against $56,534,903 in July, $95,603,-824 in August, 1930, and $141,758,507 in August, 1929.

Central & Southwest Co. to Plan Further Expansion

The Central and Southwest Utilities company is planning further expansion in the east Texas oil field. President James C. Kennecy reported yesterday that his company's east Texas subsidiary, the Southwestern Gas and Electric company, expected to provide additional capacity of 16,000 horsepower to this area. Interconnection will be made with the Arkansas Power and Light company at Minden, La. From there a 20 mile 110,000 volt line will be built to Shreveport.

National Bank of Kentucky to Make 13 Pct. Payment

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Announcement that an additional payment of 12 per cent to the 67 per cent already paid creditors of the National Bank of Kentucky, which closed here last fall, will be possible from remaining assets of the bank was made today by Paul C. Keyes, receiver of the bank.

Tentative Accord Reached on Eastern Rail Groupings

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—The railroad presidents have reached tentative agreements on details which until now have prevented the realignment of the eastern lines into four trunk systems and, unless last minute obstacles arise, will soon embody their views in a petition to the interstate commerce commission. Announcement to this effect may be made at a meeting here tomorrow.

In accordance with principles reached previously, the four systems would be built, respectively, around the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio. Each of these systems would be enlarged by the acquisitions of shorter lines in the territory between the Hudson and Mississippi. Allocation of the New England lines remains in abeyance.

Conferences on consolidation were held yesterday by P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; W. W. Atterbury, president, and Elisha Lee, vice president, of the Pennsylvania; Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O.; J. J. Bernet, president of the C. & O.; and O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, organizers of the latter system. These men will reassemble tomorrow in the Pennsylvania station.

Believe Hurdle Cleared.

The great stumbling block in previous attempts at consolidation has been the proposed allocation of certain trackage rights on the New York, Chicago and St. Louis south of Lake Erie. The Pennsylvania desired these rights and the Nickel Plate was willing to grant them, but the New York Central opposed the proposal. What solution to this problem has been reached was not disclosed, but it was inferred that it had been satisfactorily met.

Aside from the Nickel Plate trackage allocation, most of the groupings to be made in a general consolidation have already been decided upon. By systems these would be as follows:

New York Central—Allocation of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, giving the trunk line a property which, with the addition of some trackage rights, would provide a route through central Pennsylvania that would relieve main line congestion between Buffalo and New York, almost a direct connection with the Virginian railway.

Pennsylvania—This system would be left in control of the Wabash, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, and the Norfolk and Western, and, while it would relinquish control of the Lehigh Valley to the Chesapeake and Ohio, it would retain certain trackage rights over the shorter line.

Baltimore and Ohio Set Up.

Baltimore and Ohio—In further ance of its consolidation plan, this road has already merged the property of the Chicago and Alton and consolidated with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and Buffalo and Susquehanna. Under the president's plan, the B. & O. would buy the Ann Arbor from the Pennsylvania and the Reading from the New York Central. Control of the Jersey Central goes with the Reading. The B. & O. has also obtained a short route to Chicago through the granting of traffic rights by the Pennsylvania.

Chesapeake and Ohio—This system would merge with the other Van Sweringen lines, namely, Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette. A controlling interest in the Wheeling and West Virginia, acquired some years ago by the Van Sweringens, would be transferred to the C. & O., together with a similar controlling interest in the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. Besides acquiring the Lehigh Valley, it was at one time agreed that the C. & O. should share with the Norfolk and Western the control of the Virginian.

Pending agreement among the railroad presidents, the New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio have been furthering their aims by purchases at current low levels in the stock market, the former acquiring Lackawanna stock and the later Reading stock. The B. & O. has close to 50 per cent control fo the Reading held directly or indirectly, and the New York Central and friendly interests are believed to hold about 20 per cent control of Lackawanna.

INDUSTRIAL HEADS OF EIGHT STATES WILL MEET HERE TOMORROW

Ways and means for further stabilization of employment, Panama canal tolls, freight rates, taxation and other current industrial problems will be discussed. The membership is made up of the various state manufacturers' associations, with Samuel M. Hastings, manufacturer, and ames L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, as leaders in the new organization.

States which will be represented at the session are Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, and Nebraska. Minnesota and Ohio have also been invited to join the movement.

Postoffice Reduces Air Mail Contracts $700,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—Revised rates paid by the postoffice department to contracting air mail operators, which will reduce the amounts paid to six of the country's largest operators by at least $700,000 annually, will go into effect tomorrow morning as the result of an arbitrary order by Postmaster General Brown. This was learned at the postoffice department today. It is the first large reduction since the passage of the Watres amendment to the air mail act, and is expected to be the forerunner of a more drastic revision within the next few months.

Rail Official Predicts Heavy Travel to West

Felix S. McGinnis, vice president of the Southern Pacific railroad, who arrived here yesterday on a business trip from California, predicted a heavy increase in transcontinental travel next year. The Olympic games at Los Angeles, the Shrine convention in San Francisco, and other west coast attractions will greatly stimulate travel to those points, he said. Mr. McGinnis pointed out that while transcontinental travel fell off this year because of the depression, the Southern Pacific enjoyed heavy periodic excursion traffic through low fare rates given the public at certain times.

PLANES CARRY 17 TONS OF GOLD, VALUED AT $12,000,000, TO PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The flight of European gold to Paris had a literal as well as figurative meaning today when eight planes brought 12¾ tons of the metal from Amsterdam. It is said to be the largest gold consignment ever transported by air in a single day. The movement began yesterday with the arrival at the Lebourget, Paris, airport of three planes carrying gold. The total two day transfer involved more than 17 tons, worth $12,-000,000.

The eight planes which arrived today belong to the Farman Air Lines of France and the Royal Dutch lines. They came in a convoy, alighting on the air field a quarter of an hour apart. The Bank of France will receive $4,000,000 and part of the remainder is destined for the Guaranty Trust company branch in Paris.

Hear Norman May Quit.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—There was a strong rumor on the foreign exchange market today that Montagu Norman had submitted his resignation as governor of the Bank of England and the directors would consider it in the near future. There was no official confirmation of the report.

Quiet conditions prevailed on the London Stock exchange today, with slightly irregular movements in British issues, but a weakness in South African mining shares on realization.

Tightens Hold on Gold.

ROME, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Bank of Italy, by authority of the ministry of finance, has been tightening banking restrictions until today there was a virtual embargo on the export of gold, although no such embargo has been officially decreed.

Told to Turn In Gold.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 30.—(AP)—All banks, foreign and Colombian, are ordered to turn in their gold reserves to the Bank of the Republic in a decree issued today by the commission which controls exchange operations.

Canadian Money Falls.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Detroit banks this noon raised the discount rate on Canadian money to 17 per cent. The discount this morning was 15 per cent and yesterday 12 per cent.

Missouri Bans Sales by Chicago Brokerage Firm

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—State Securities Commissioner Fenton T. Stockard today issued an order to Matthews & Co., a brokerage firm of Chicago, to make no further attempt to sell stock to Missourians until it complied with the Missouri "blue sky" law. Stockard said the company had never been licensed to deal in securities in Missouri, but had been attempting to make stock sales by telephone and mail.

Offerings of Securities in September $212,530,000

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Total offering of new securities in September amounted to $212,530,277 in the New York market, compared with approximately $450,000,000 in the like month last year. The market for new issues has been almost at a standstill this month outside of the municipal bond market and the flotation of a large issue of Canadian National railway bonds.

Foreign Earmarked Gold for Month $351,300,000

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—An additional increase of $19,300,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account was reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. This brought the total increase in earmarkings since the present movement began about ten days ago to $276,300,000 and the total for the month to $351,300,000. Withdrawals for export reported today included $85,000 to Holland, $50,000 to Belgium, and $35,000 to Switzerland. Imports consisted of $1,640,000 received from Canada.

Baltimore and Ohio Cuts Dividend to $1 a Share

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad today declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock. This compares with a dividend of $1.25 a share in the two preceding quarters. The $7 annual rate was reduced to $5 in March. Total payments for 1931 will be $5.25.

Baltimore & Ohio reports net operating income for August of $2,451,403, as compared with $4,473,226 in the same month last year. Net railway operating income for the first eight months was $16,699,306, against $25,-845,160 in the comparable period of 1930.

The American Smelting and Refining company will maintain its present dividend, Simon Guggenheim, president of the company, predicted today. Mr. Guggenheim returned from Europe on the French liner, Ile de France.

Believes in Payments

"In consideration of the smaller stockholders, corporations should maintain dividends as long as it is possible to do so without the necessity of borrowing to continue to pay them," said Mr. Guggenheim. "For what better purpose could surpluses be used than in the maintenance of dividends, thereby creating good will and confidence of stockholders. I have always advocated that policy and believe that the American Smelting and Refining company will continue to maintain the dividend.

Mr. Guggenheim commented that the present would be an opportune time for concerted effort on the part of copper producers to get together in a new move to remedy the present situation. Discussing the outlook for nonferrous metals generally he said that of all the metals silver appeared destined at the moment for the greatest future.

Commenting on conditions generally, Mr. Guggenheim said that there is no cause for alarm. "As I see it all one needs is sound common sense and a will to work. Now is the time to build for the future, for a better opportunity never existed," he added.

The Coca Cola company today mailed shareholders $2,000,000, representing the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share plus an extra dividend of 25 cents per share of common stock. The dividend payment retained the stock on an $8 basis.

Prairie Pipe Line company, which paid a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock in the first two quarters of the year, today omitted the quarterly payment due at this time.

Wilcox-Rich corporation has declared a dividend of 15 cents a share on the class "B" stock, payable Oct. 31 to stock of record Oct. 20. Three months ago a dividend of 25 cents was paid.

Omits Payment.

The Chapman Valve company has omitted the dividend on the common stock which ordinarily would be payable Oct. 1. On July 1 a dividend of 25 cents was paid, representing the initial dividend on the new $25 par common stock.

George E. Keith company of Boston omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred.

Jamison Coal and Coke company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share. In the previous quarter the rate was reduced from 75 to 50 cents. American Potash and Chemical omitted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share now due.

U. S. SECURITIES UNDER PRESSURE ON BOND MARKET

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Weakness of United States governments and pressure against many domestic obligations, especially carrier loans, combined to more than offset the rallies in the foreign list and sent the average level of prices in the bond market to a new low for the year today.

There was no dimunition in the offerings of United States governments. They found a better demand, however, than in the previous session, and the decline was moderate with the exception of Treasury 3⅜s of 1941-'43, off 10-32ds, and the Liberty 1st and 2d 4¼s, which reacted 1½ points to a half point above par. Treasury 3s were the most heavily traded and sagged 3-16ths to a new low.

About a dozen loans of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were under pressure, with losses of 1 to 5 points, and other weak spots included obligations of the Boston and Maine, Alleghany Corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern, Grand Trunk of Canada, Missouri Pacific, Frisco, and Southern Pacific. Southern Pacific 4½s yielded 4¾ points.

CANADA DOLLAR DIPS TO 86 CENTS AS OTHER CURRENCIES FIRM UP

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Foreign exchanges were more stable today with the exception of the Canadian dollar, which dropped 3c to 86c on the eve of Canadian gold bond maturities involving the unconverted portion of the second war loan.

British, Swiss, Dutch, Italian, and French currencies were firm. Sterling closing at $3.92, up a cent. The French franc's rise to approximately the gold point suggests further shipments of the precious metal to Paris. Earmarkings for foreign account amounted to $19,400,000 today.

The following table shows the value of the principal currencies in terms of American dollars yesterday and on Sept. 20, just before Britain suspended gold payments:

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—Declines of 1 to 3 points in leading industrial and utility issues served to establish the bear market on a new low line today. Railroad shares strove valiantly to make a showing on news of a renewal of the eastern merger negotiations and hopes of favorable action on the freight rate increase plea now before the interstate commerce commission, but they made a pretty sorry mess out of it.

New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio managed an advance of a point or so each, and New Haven improved fractionally, but the group as a whole found itself in the lurch with the rest of the market when the closing gong put an end to the struggle.

News that the Paris Stock Exchange had taken steps to eliminate short selling and that at least one Wall street house was refusing to lend stocks for short selling purposes in an effort further to discourage bear raids were capitalized in an effort to start a rally in the late forenoon, but the offerings were too much for the well meaning promoters of the drive and they lost little time in taking to the timber. The early afternoon found the selling as extensive and as persistent as ever, and it continued without further interference on through to the finish.

Hit New Lows.

United States Steel, after bumping a new bottom at 71, closed at 71⅜, off ⅝ point; American Can finished at 75⅝, off ⅝; General Electric at 27⅝, off 1; Consolidated Gas at 67, down 2¾, and Allied Chemical and Dye at 82, off 2¾ points.

Isolated losses ranged as high as 13 points, the maximum being set by Central Railroad of New Jersey, which sold off to 122 on a turnover of some 500 shares. Abraham & Straus, big Brooklyn department store, dropped 10½; Lorillard preferred, 12⅞, and Ludlum Steel preferred, 7 points.

Mining shares, which have been perking up here of late, were mod-

UNFAILING SECURITY FOR SURPLUS FUNDS

Not in recent years have investors more earnestly sought unfailing security for the placement of their surplus funds.

For the safe investment of all or a portion of such funds we recommend consideration of carefully chosen telephone securities, particularly fixed income bearing securities—securities of two strong, prosperous telephone companies—whose high earnings' record has been consistently maintained through the current depression.

The companies embody not only extensive operating units in the United States and in several foreign countries, but also large manufacturers of well known telephone equipment used throughout the world. Their securities enjoy unbroken records of interest and dividend payments.

For information supported by facts and figures of these attractive investment opportunities please request Circular A-200.

GRAIN MARKETS DO FAIRLY WELL AS STOCKS DROP

Deferred Wheat Futures' Close Is Steady.

BY GHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets were regarded as having given an excellent account of themselves yesterday in the face of the break in stocks, and, while September wheat and all deliveries of corn dropped to new low figures for the season early, there was no material pressure on the break and at the finish the deferred future of wheat were unchanged to ¼c lower for the day. Evening up by belated longs in the September caused a break of ⅝c to 44⅝c, a new all time low for that delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade, with the close at 44⅝@44¾c, showing a net loss of ¼c. December finished at 47⅜c and May at 51⅝@51¾c.

Buying of wheat futures during the day was by holders of bids, shorts, and spreaders, the latter selling at Winnipeg, which showed strength early as the result of a further recession in the exchange rate. Prices had been on the down grade for five straight days and the pit element were not inclined to take an aggressive stand on the bear side, especially as there has been little pressure of hedging sales of late and the visible supply has decreased steadily for three weeks.

September Makes Tame Finish.

Belated longs sold the September wheat, with some reinstating by purchases of the December, but there were no untoward developments. Winnipeg closed ⅝@⅞c higher, with the December at 54⅜c, in Canadian currency, which was quoted at 11 to 15 per cent discount during the day. Houses with continental and seaboard connections were buyers of futures there, and there was also some removing of hedges against export sales of around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas, the continent being the best buyer.

Russia offered wheat to England at a 3c per bu decline from the previous day, and, with a light milling demand, futures at Liverpool closed ⅞@1⅛d lower, with the December at 51⅜c, based on $3.38 for sterling. Business with all countries is more or less restricted, due to the financial situation abroad.

It is a question in the minds of some traders as to whether the wheat market is in a condition to withstand any increase in hedging pressure, and there seems to be little prospect of fresh export business in hard winters, due to the relatively high prices as compared with Manitobas, due to the difference in exchange, while what little business is passing is in grain owned by the farm board.

September Corn Weakens.

There were no fireworks in September corn yesterday, the delivery expiring tamely and in striking contrast with what happened in the closing days of July. Scattered longs sold freely and found support lacking, with a decline of 1¼c early to 36c, a new low for the season, and the close was at 36⅝@36¾c, or 1¼c under the finish of the previous day. New crop months, after dipping fractionally early, rallied on scattered buying by shorts and holders of bids and finished unchanged to ¼c higher, with December 35½@35⅝c and May 39⅝@39¾c.

The country sold old corn on a liberal scale, with purchases of 240,000 bu reported by local handlers, in addition to which 20,000 bu new grain was booked. A little husking was reported as having been done in various parts of the belt. Shipping demand was limited.

Oats were easy early, with other grains, but the deferred deliveries rallied toward the last and finished unchanged, December being 21⅞c and May 24½@24⅝c, while the September was ⅝c lower at 20c. Rye was somewhat unsettled, advancing early, but eased later and finished ⅝c lower to ¼c higher, with September 36¼c, December 37¾c, and May 40⅝c.

FOREIGNERS BUY LARD

A good export business was done in cash lard by packers. Germany being considered the leader. Packers were busying the nearby deliveries and shorts bought all months to a fair extent. Commission trade in all is said to be in excellent condition and estimates are for a reduction of around 10,000,000 lbs of lard in Chicago stocks during September. There was also a liberal decrease in stocks of dry salted clear bellies, to be shown by today's returns. Lard futures closed 10@12½c higher. Bellies were unchanged, with a light business. Liverpool lard was 3d lower and 3d higher, spot and October being the strongest. Hog prices were higher and receipts at western points larger than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

Demand for hogs expanded yesterday and, with receipts below first expectations, salesmen were able to move the supply at slightly higher prices. The extremely low level of prices for underweights and pigs attracted orders from houses that seldom shift to stock weighing less than 200 lbs, but with a difference of 75c to $1.00 in price many buyers considered the lightest weights well worth the money and a good clearance of 100@150 lb averages was made. Previously this week underweights were a drag on the market. Gains of 5@10c were scored yesterday, some of the lightest selling as much as 10@15c above the low spot of Tuesday.

The extreme top for butcher hogs moved up 5c at $5.60, while the general average of all kinds showed 5c gain at $5.10. Most 150 lb averages and lighter weights sold at $4.50@4.75, with 53 lb roasting pigs at $5.00.

January Bids at $4.50.

Contracts for hogs weighing 170 lbs to 310 lbs for delivery any time during next January were bid $4.50 on the futures market yesterday, but no offers to sell were made. December heavy grades were offered as low as $4.75 and bid $4.50, while October medium and heavy grades carried bids of $5.00.

Until a few weeks ago, or before the big advance in the cattle market and the break in hogs, it was the opinion of the trade that hog profits were offsetting the losses marked against cattle feeding operations for the live stock feeder. For a short period both broke about even, but now, with the tables turned against hogs, feeders are finding that low prices for hogs are offset by profits in cattle, a reverse of conditions a few weeks ago.

Meet Good Demand.

Best grades of cattle, which keep decreasing in numbers, met good demand at steady to 25c higher prices again yesterday, while the greater proportion of the common to medium grades ruled weak to 25c lower, many short feds going at the decline near the close. Prime 1,323 lb steers boosted the top price to $10.25, which stands within 10c of the highest paid for cattle since last May.

Demand showed a marked preference for the weighty steers, a contrast to conditions a year ago when light steers and yearlings were outselling heavy cattle by $1.00@2.00. Yearlings stopped at $10.00. Cows and heifers were in good demand on a steady prices. Calves ruled weak to 50c lower. Stockers and feeders met fair demand at steady prices.

It was a "quality" market in the sheep house yesterday when buyers were swamped with low grade range stock. The few fat lambs eligible to more than $7.00 met good demand at 25c higher prices. Top rangers reached $7.75, the highest paid for lambs in recent weeks, while common to medium grades were sold on a "catch as catch can" basis, closing at the low point of the day.

PROFIT TAKING IN BUTTER

Bullish storage and production news failed to halt profit taking in November butter on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday and the market ruled lower. Eggs and cheese were quiet but firmer, gaining ¼c. Idaho potatoes dropped 3c, others hold unchanged. The daily four market report in part showed that 25,000 lbs more butter was put away than the Land O' Lakes association reported production off 12 per cent from last year. However, support did not improve materially on these advices and selling continued. The egg news was also bullish, but trading was lax. Sales: Butter, 3,590,400 lbs; eggs, 664,000 doz; potatoes, 2,116,000 lbs. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable oil closed steady today, unchanged to 9 points higher on sales of 21 contracts, equivalent to 3,150 barrels, including exchanges of 81 and 4,750 barrels, Crude oil was a trifle steadier and there was less hedge selling, which, with the firmness of lard, accounted for the action of the market. Prime crude was quoted at 3¾c to 3¼c in the valley and southeast and 3c bid in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 3.73c; October, 4.00c; December, 4.30c; January, 4.30c; March, 4.39c; May, 4.44c. Prime summer yellow contracts closed at 3.66c for spot, 3.55c for October, 4.20c for January, and 4.30c for May with no sales.
